

Phone Spencer 464 If You Have Any News

Well folks: The Spencer office of the Tri-Town weeklies was to compliment Frank D. Wiley of North Brookfield on the splendid job he has done in gathering News and Views of the Boys in Service and as initiation in the sincerest form of flattery, we are going to start a column for Spencer and Leicester boys along the same lines. News items concerning the boys leaving away or back home on furlough will appear under this column head each week and if you have any news of your loved ones away from home in the service, just drop a post card or a letter to Spencer, Leicestershire, Mass. or telephone your news item to Spencer 464 not later than noon on Wednesday if you wish it in the current edition. News items coming in after noon Wednesday, will appear in the following Friday edition.

Now folks scores of Spencer Leicestershire Banners and Brookfields Unions are being sent each week to the boys in service. Some direct from this office as subscriptions under the name of the Spencer Club, others being mailed by relatives and friends after they themselves read the paper. We are continually getting letters of appreciation from the boys who receive the home town newspaper and as your weekly paper carries all the worthwhile news for the whole week in one compact package, it is easily understood why the boys look for it each week. With your help and continuance of Mr. Wiley's good work, we will make the weekly package of news to the boys as cheery and complete as possible. So pick up the phone or reach for the post card now and order your copy of the Tri-Town, Brookfield, Maryland, Nov. 13, 1942.

GARDENING in the SKIES

By Frank D. Wiley
A year ago there was to be reported only one case of the Dutch Elm disease in Massachusetts. Today there are four; one being reported only a few weeks ago, according to the Massachusetts Dutch Elm advisory committee. Latest cases are reported in North Egremont, Great Barrington and Westfield. The committee does say that "apparently the infection does not indicate direct spread of the disease from the case reported a year ago, but rather the introduction in to the State at two separate points" from the infested area around New York City.

If the cases are doubtful, send specimens to the Massachusetts State College Experiment Station, Amherst, Mass.

News In The World Of Religion

Sayre, former High Commissioner of the Philippines, and noted Presbyterian layman, was recently "widely honored" as he fought today to defend human freedom against the determined attack of ruthless barbarians who with utter contempt for their work from the homeland, but the missions are being supported by friends in the United States and Great Britain.

"Agriculture and theology mix well among the Zulus in South Africa," says the Rev. Henry A. Stick, missionary in Natal. He says that when the Zulu students who are in training for the Christian ministry at the Adams Mission Station, Natal, were asked what they wanted for Christmas, they unanimously requested that they be given material care. In such a struggle, the forces of religion have a momentary stake. Whatever concerns mankind is of vital interest to religion."

It's common sense to be thrifty. War Bonds help you to save and help to save America. Buy yours on your own every day.

Remarkable Safety Record

The 7500 employees of New England Power System worked throughout the entire month of October without a lost-time accident, it was announced by President Irwin L. Moore.

October, one of the most hazardous months for industrial workers, has for this reason always been selected as the safety month in the New England Power System, and in accordance with custom, workers this year embarked upon a campaign fully determined to go through the month without a single accident. Hitherto no perfect record had been achieved, although in 1935 the safety drive was marred by one accident.

The October safety campaign, which was carried out in every unit of the system, covered 48 companies serving gas and electricity in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Vermont. In each company, a safety committee, working in conjunction with the system's safety department, put into effect a carefully planned campaign designed to make employees safety conscious during the campaign period.

Publicity, window displays, bulletin board announcements, tags and caps were used throughout the month to sustain interest by the full thirty-one days.

According to figures compiled by Systems Safety Manager John P. McCann, 2,500,000 man-hours were worked during the month without a lost-time accident. Examination of figures as released by the National Safety Council indicates that this is the first time any industrial concern in the United States, the size of the New England Power system, has achieved a perfect safety record for such a long campaign period.

Bits O' Beauty

Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace. Psalms 37-37.

LONGEVITY

(A tribute to Mrs. Andrew Partridge on her 101st birthday)

To live an hundred years, and even more,
 At peace with God and all one's fellowmen;
 To gamer in the soul's most precious store
 Of virtues such as surely live again;
 To keep the faith in which our fathers died
 And feel its living grace from day to day,
 Is but a part of joys as yet untried
 That will be ours on new and living way.

For like the tree, which lives with sun and rain,
 And grows in grace to give its good to all,
 The upright, knowing good, and ill, and pain
 Resolves them into virtues great and small:
 And these, the fruit of life, will lived, will feed
 The oversoul with its most precious need.

W. B. T.

Virtue Its Own Reward

"The merciful man doeth good to his own soul" . . . "The way of the upright is as a tree of life" . . . These and many other Beatitudes clearly teach us that virtue is its own reward . . . We all know scores of elderly folks who have passed their three score years and ten and whose influence for good seems to grow with them as they age into infirmity . . . Like good fruit on the tree of life, they grow sweet and luscious as they ripen with the years . . . Unlike the wicked, who grow briars of cantankerous, fidgety, fussiness, these aged ones whose beauty develops into loveliness, seem to have found a peace and solace in old age which indicates that they have garnered from life's experience the better things which now feed and sustain them . . . The roots, planted in youth in the soil of truth and uprightness, twine about the Rock of Ages to hold fast with fortitude the trunk and branches, which reach heavenward . . . Eternal youth is the reward of those intellects and hearts that are in tune with, and resigned to, the Creator's plan and purpose in bringing many sons unto glory through a probation which intermingles joy and sadness, health and pain, life and death in an economy calculated to perfect them as they feed on the fruits of the spirit which are love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness and temperance.

Keep It That Way

More members of the medical profession are going into military service every day. Young doctors just out of medical school, doctors who have barely established themselves in the community, and long-established men who would soon begin to shift the burden of their practice to new partners, are donning uniforms. For the medical men remaining at home, the task will become gigantic. But one and all they are grimly determined that essential medical care will be provided to civilians.

There are many ways in which the layman can help in this medical crisis. He can guard his own physical well-being by keeping regular hours and eating and sleeping properly. He can be tolerant if he is kept waiting for an appointment. And he should follow, most stringently the advice of his physician in order to return himself to full usefulness as soon as possible. These are tangible ways in which the layman can help the doctor.

In addition, there is a vast intangible aid that we can give our medical men. We can keep in mind the fact that they are a part of the system of private medicine that has doubled the span of life for the ordinary citizen in a comparatively few years. The doctors in the armed forces, just as the ones staying at home, spent years in training and more years in training because of competence and efficiency are the very foundation stones of our medical system. There is no taint of "ism" or politics in their blood. The worst disservice we could do them in their absence would be to lend ear to crackpot schemes to inject political control of any firm whatsoever into the medical profession. As it stands today, American medicine gives us the best care in the world. Let's keep it that way.

 In order to help promote cooperation and understanding between the church and labor, Boston churches and industrial leaders have organized the "Church and Labor Committee for Greater Boston." Officers of the Boston Chapter of the Church League for Industrial Democracy was instrumental in forming the committee. One of its major plans is to secure labor speakers for church meetings, and to encourage to speak at labor gatherings. It is hoped that this type of committee can be established in some other American cities, for there is a feeling among church leaders that one of the weakest links in American life is the tie-up between organized Christianity and organized labor.

During the past fifteen months, the American Bible Society has sent 1,184 Bibles, 638,240 New Testaments, and 361,466 Gospel portions to chaplains in the Army and Navy for distribution to men in the service. This period, a new issue of the New Testament was produced for the Merchant Marine—similar to the Navy Testament but bearing the Merchant Marine insignia.

According to Dr. Ralph E. Diefendorf, of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church, the war has caused no withdrawal of Protestant Missionaries from India, Portuguese East Africa, the Belgian Congo, Angola, Southern Rhodesia, Cuba, Central America, Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay, Bolivia, Chile, or West China. "In fact," he says, "temporarily out of China and Japan have been reassigned and are giving their skills and services to other lands. Fewer and fewer missionaries who were formerly in Burma are now preaching, teaching, and trying on medical work in India."

According to the findings of a commission on religious work, reporting recently to the American Protestant Hospital Association, in St. Louis, a majority of medical emotions find a better mental and have religious faith than those who do not. "The patient who has brighter mental attitude, is better able to cope with pain, has more interest in recovery, and cooperates more than one who does not." This is the general feeling of physicians. That there should be more cooperation between physician and clergyman, and the development of cooperation and confidence between them, looking toward the betterment of the attitude and spirit of the patient, seems to be generally accepted by both professions.

The Christian churches of the United States and of Great Britain are united in war aims and in post-war aims, according to Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, recently returned from a visit to England. The churches are united, he says, first, in a determination to win the present war; second, that the peace terms must not be a new and better future for all present colonies. Also, according to Dr. Van Kirk, the churches are agreed that "the church's distinctive task is that of evangelism, the strengthening of the bonds of the Christian fellowship, and the ministry of reconciliation. They are agreed that the shape of things to come must be influenced by the Christ of the dignity of man as a child of God. They are agreed that political and economic reconstruction apart from social justice and spiritual regeneration will not avail to create the kind of post-war world for which Christians pray."

Over the Garden Wall

A few days ago the fallen leaves were so thick on the canal I pass daily that of a certainty the fairies could cross over without getting their feet wet and I think a clever little country mouse could also if she didn't dilly-dally in the middle of the stream.
 Did you read where Dr. Eklav said everyone should have a vase of blackelder, which hazel and holly in different corners of the house these fall days to bring the outdoors indoors and spread them to all who might see them? I have here he suggested the witch hazel in a blue bowl, the black elder in a black jar and the bayberry in almost any color setting. Yellow would be good, I think, over the berries of the Japanese bayberry while you're doing fall decorations. I find they will last all winter without water and if you keep adding fresh pine or hemlock occasionally, they are very satisfactory.

 Apples are plentiful now and will never be of better quality. If one a day keeps a doctor away, I'm keeping two or three of them at bay.
 I've heard that it's very good advice to always "chaperon your cigarette; never let it go out alone!"

Greater Farm Safety Part of War Program

Accidents Cost People $4,000,000 During '41

"I knew I shouldn't have done it," is a remark often made by accident victims after the damage has been done. And because the war now makes the full working ability of every man and woman more important than ever before, greater accident-prevention care should be taken.

Accidents cost the American people $4,000,000 in wages, medical expenses, burials, and property damage last year. A total of 102,000 persons were killed, 200,000 permanently disabled and 8,900,000 temporarily injured.

Much has been written on how to prevent accidents, but the best remedy is individual care and thoughtfulness.

Common causes of the accidents are: careless driving, careless use of chains, cutters, knives, or other parts of machinery in motion. In addition to avoiding this danger, other precautions are listed as follows: Do not cut toward yourself when using a knife. Do not climb a ladder until it is properly placed, firm and steady.

Use a safety rope or strap when climbing a tree for pruning. Drive tractor and car carefully. Field machinery will last longer if operated at moderate speed. Farm machinery and equipment, as well as industrial machinery, are now provided better than ever with safety devices.

Tung Nuts Back in 1904, Dr. David Fairchild of the government bureau of plant industry secured a quantity of Tung nuts from China. They were planted widely in this country, in all except cold climates, and are now beginning, has sprung a new industry which aims to furnish essential quick-drying oil to the paint industry.

A bumper crop in 1940 provided 5,000,000 pounds of tung nuts with a million dollar income to growers. A narrow belt in the southern states, 50 to 100 miles wide, has been found best suited to growing tung trees.

These come into bearing in the third year. They yield nuts with heavy hulls the size of small apples inside of which are from three to seven seeds. Machinery used in crushing the seeds is similar to that used for crushing oil from cotton seed, peanuts and soybeans. The residue left is pressed into cakes and returned to the grower who uses it for fertilizer.

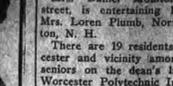

During the last ten years, before the outbreak of the war with Japan, imported tung nuts from China were much of this was of inferior grade and adulterated with other oils. It has sold from 3 1/2 cents to 10 cents as 27.2 cents per pound in barrels at New York. With this foreign supply unavailable, the superior American product is finding a ready market.

Mills equipped for dehulling and crushing tung seed have been established in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana.

In a population of 138 million, approximately 100 million are there are hearty eaters, but adding much of this would have had on the each of us would have been the average, 1,422 pounds of food in a year if all the food were evenly divided for the five-year period 1920-1924. In the "prosperity" years 1928-1929 the average went up 23 pounds to 1,474 pounds.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Actual experience in the world's war fronts has proved the collapse of an essential safety feature for both Naval and land based planes. They are made of rubberized material, easily inflated.

At the Battle of Midway an Army Lieutenant, after bombing a carrier, was forced to bail out of his bomber. He was able to get a "thin edge" of the entire battle from his collapsible boat and was later picked up by an American plane. Your purchase of War Bonds with at least ten per cent of your income every payday will help protect the lives of men who are flying for you. Get behind them today. U. S. Treasury Department

EVERYBODY EVERYWHERE

U.S. WAR BONDS

Did you ever consider having a "come as you are" party? This can be a lot of fun—and the stipulation is that your guests must come as they are dressed when they receive the invitation. Obviously the invitations should be telephoned as it is much more probable that you would find your guests in strange costumes by calling them at unconventional hours. You could start your conversation with "What were you doing?" They may reply with "painting some old furniture" or "baking a cake" or even "taking a bath." You can see the possibilities of costumes for this type of party—and most of your guests will play fair with you.

GARDENING in the SKIES

The care of the shrubbery in the Fall is so important that, although my previous articles have dealt mainly with the care of the garden, I am tempted to write a few paragraphs on this vital subject. Gardening in the Skies should be limited to the care and protection of our trees, but only a week or two ago we defined a tree as having a single stem at least ten feet tall, bearing fruit or crown. This could apply to some of our shrubs.

Very soon now the ground will be frozen solid to the depth of a foot or two which is as deep as the roots of most of the common shrubs around the house extend. You have noticed that in some cases the soil settles more or less around the buildings, especially if the ground was filled in around the cellar wall.

Such rodents as skunks, rats, chipmunks, mice and even snakes will often burrow under the ground in an effort to get into the cellar. This, of course, loosens the soil, leaving air holes around the roots of the shrubs of your shrubbery. Therefore, it is a good practice every fall to soak the soil and tamp it down around the plants, giving it enough water to fairly drown the roots once or twice before the last hard freeze. At the same time the foliage can be washed off to give a clean appearance for the winter. Many an evergreen winter kills because the roots freeze dry.

Trimming and shearing is usually done in August and a little growth has made the evergreens look a bit shabby. A small amount of shearing now to even them up, will not harm them and will make them look nice and trim for the winter.

After the ground is well frozen mulching will help protect the plants. Rhododendrons need a heavy mulch of oak leaves to protect the roots as well as to furnish acid for the soil.

Oldest Lawyer in County Observed Quiet Birthday

NO. BROOKFIELD—Judge L. Emerson Barnes was 99 years of age yesterday, Thursday, the 19th, of his life. He was born in 1843. He claims he was 100 although the town records of Hardwick give his birth date as Nov. 19, 1843. The judge says, "I know my age. No need to quibble on that point."

Judge Barnes is the oldest lawyer in the County as well as the oldest alumnus of Amherst College. He spent the day, not in too good health, and with only his closest friends to greet him, at his home on High street.

A satisfied "old fashioned lawyer" living on a small village farm. He was named district judge by Governor Crane in 1902; but declined to serve for several years. He still practices law.

Mr. Barnes graduated from Amherst College in 1871, taught school for a while and began the practice of law two years later. He was married four times, his present wife being the former Christie A. White of Syracuse, N. Y., whom he wed at age 85.

The judge says, "His way of living is an example how to keep fit for a century. He never wore an overcoat, never used rum, whiskey, coffee or tobacco. Saved his own wood."

Judge Barnes never missed a town meeting as long as he was able to attend and was "popular" in keeping down the expenses of the town.

THAT Robert F. Jander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Jander of 11 South street, Spencer, is one of the boys who has registered at Assumption College.

THAT The Parent-Teacher Association held their meeting Thursday, November 19th at the Grove Street Mrs. Bertha Warren of Worcester was the speaker, her topic being "Child Welfare."

THAT Santa Claus is on his way to the homes of the children of the town. He is expected to arrive on Monday in Worcester, where he will be at the Xmas shopping now.

THAT With the ammunition shortage, the birds and beasts will multiply so that it will be good hunting when the boys return home.

THAT Bud Pharyny has been as liberal with his blackberry jelly as he was last year. He boasted at the week-end when in college.

Mr. Barnes took to his bed about a week ago, suffering from the influenza of old age. Mrs. Barnes felt that he would not be strong enough for an exciting day so they had planned a week ago.

Pretty Pony Won By Alfred Morin

While on Mechanic street this week your reporter met one of our leading citizens who entered a certain jewelry store with some very choice choice tickets on a very nice, natty, pony. "Henry, the Bighaired," saw visions of being able to give every kid in town a ride on said pony, should he win it, so he made a considerable investment in an effort to win. Now all Henry has is this Ballad from his able pen.

A BALLAD
By H. V. Emond
It's in the bag in a game of tag
That brown and white pony pony.
It is no brag that the pretty nag
Was due to be named "Baloney."
It's got a new home. It won't be alone.
This phoney pony "Baloney."
It will sure wear bells, and the story tells
It took plenty of Emond's "Baloney."

Now another tune is that Bill Bertie made this pony so toney
That the merchants of town would have gained renown
With big signs on the back of
"Baloney."
Be that as it may, a pony eats hay
And hay costs lots of "Baloney."
So Henry and Bill are contented still
To let Fred feed the pony "Baloney."

Dear Editor:

For years I had read the Country Gentleman Magazine from issue to issue. And when I got the November copy and sat down to read it almost at once, there I found a lovely, homely article by one Hazel Andrews. Now, says I by myself, why can't you write a nice Thanksgiving piece? No sooner said than put off until later. So now finally, here goes. Thanksgiving is not just dinner, it is a day for us that I like. I got a very dear friend that just naturally don't talk about, but he has been very good to me and we sort of get closer together a little more on this day. I think, more so than any other day. I shall get up from bed early on Thanksgiving morning because the twoimps that I have for granddaughters will be here. They are a little like the ones that wake up the crowns in the morning and are like the guy that wakes up the bugler in the army. After a light breakfast, the Junior Guild of the Congregational Church in their vestry, Friday, December 4th, various groups of the Guild will preside as follows: Group I, Mrs. Mary Porter, Chairman, Food and Candy; Group III, Mrs. Nan Wilson, Chairman, Novelties; a booth for Christmas cards, and Timmings will be planned. The Woman's Guild will have an apron sale of which Mrs. Fred Smith is chairman.

The supper, served from 5:30 to 7:30 is titled "A Main Street Cafeteria," under the supervision of group IV of which the following are co-chairmen, Mrs. Elvira Sargent, Mrs. Leon Schilling and Mrs. Linton Dester. The "Players" Guild will provide an entertainment at 8 p. m. Mrs. Marion Weston, president of the Junior Guild, is general chairman.

Bits O' Beauty

Bless the Lord, Oh my soul; and all that is within me, bless His Holy name.

Psalms 103-1

I THANK THEE LORD

For sun to hold this spinning orb in space,
For moon that fills the night with borrowed grace,
I thank Thee, Lord.

For stars that gleam above the blackest night,
Like truths, eternal, lighting way of right,
I thank Thee, Lord.

For hills and vales and fertile plains,
For storm tossed clouds and gentle rains,
I thank Thee, Lord.

For family folk and fireside joy and care,
For friends and neighbors, who my life must share,
I thank Thee, Lord.

For food of faith and joy of hope so sure,
I'll make love strong and willing to endure,
I thank Thee, Lord.

For gratitude and other virtues, blest,
Which sanctify and purify the rest,
I thank Thee, Lord.

W. B. T.

Thanksgiving

As we count our blessings and name them, one by one, at this season of the year, we shall find that gratitude is the essence of and the well-spring of love. Love is not a silly, soft, effeminate thing. Love is strong, robust and rational. If we love God, it is because we are truly appreciative of and grateful to Him for bringing us into His creative world and supplying us with all things needful for our material and spiritual well-being. In the material world, this is the season of harvest. The hay mows are packed to the roof. The grain bins are filled to capacity. For in autumn's harvest, trust is born to live with winter through the storm.

If we love our neighbor it is because we are grateful for what our neighbors are doing for us. I may be an editor and my neighbor a shoemaker. It would probably take me several weeks to make a single pair of shoes and it might take my neighbor several weeks to prepare a newspaper. But he and I, each in his own sphere, do something for each other for which we should both be grateful. If each time we sat down to our breakfast we paused a moment to contemplate the scores of neighborly services that had been rendered to make the meal possible, I am sure our meal would be doubly appreciated. The table cloth came from Ireland or the linen for it did. Perhaps some barefooted Irish lassie sowed the flax seed and another spun the linen thread from which it was woven by another who stood at a loom all day to weave the beautiful designed damask cloth that combines beauty with a simple repeat. Coffee, from far-off South America, had to be brought up in steamships manned by hard-working sailors. The cream for the coffee and milk for the porridge was brought to the house in the week, small hours of the morning by a milkman who worked while we slept, to say nothing of the farmer who must tend to his cattle with such care and regularity in the life of service so truly exemplified by Alexander J. Seamon of North Brookfield, who for over 14 years has not been off his farm over-night. Carry this thought on and on to infinity and you will find that the showers of blessings that filter into the soil of our lives and seep down through our emotions into the well-spring of gratitude and love are such that if all men everywhere would be truly grateful to each other and their Creator, it would be easy to love the Lord, their God with all their heart, and their neighbor as themselves. And with just a little added gratitude, they could even love their enemies, because mercy and forbearance are kinsfolk of gratitude.

Dear Spencer Friends:
Just a short letter to say that I have been transferred much nearer home as I am now in one of the finest outfits in the country and like my new outfit very much, for I am now the M. P. D. The work doesn't worry me a bit for my country needs me more here at camp, than working on the home front, for I am here in the army. Being away from home for nine months has made a new man out of me.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

At Midway, in the Coral Sea and from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia, the Navy patrol bombers are searching out enemy bases, ships and transports and "completing their mission." The Navy Patrol Bomber costs about $750,000.

Our factories are turning out hundreds of these bombing ships. Yet it is only through your investment in War Bonds and Stamps you can do your share to help provide patrol bombers for our rapidly increasing air force. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in these Government securities and do your bit to win and shorten the war. Our airmen are depending on your help.

- (1) The word latent means: (a) unusual; (b) heavy; (c) hidden; (d) a soup spoon.

lead with the ring. Keep the halter on him in the early stages of ring training, then teach him to lead on a staff.

Teach the bull to offer his ring by rewarding him with an apple, carrot or any tidbit he likes. When handling his ring do it firmly but avoid harsh handling unless the bull is very headstrong.

Professor Albreton's final advice is that the best way to handle a mature bull is—very little.

Special Roosts Train Chickens

It doesn't take long to get chicks started on the roost, if roosts are built on frames with cross pieces made of lath. These frames at first are placed on the floor. They are only two inches high and the chicks go on them at once. After a few nights they are suspended from the ceiling by wires and lifted a few inches off the floor. To steady the frame one edge can be placed against the side of the building. The roosts are lifted gradually until the desired height is reached.

Dried foods, called dehydrated by the highbrows—are coming to the fore. Their advantages for both storage and transportation are greatly reduced bulk and weight.

Where wheat is being held in emergency storage, floor joints should be examined to make sure they can carry the load. Wheat is 10 times heavier than an equal volume of loose hay.

Rev. N. Bond Fleming

In cooperation with the War Prisoners' Aid of the Y.M.C.A., the American Bible Society recently shipped 400 Bibles, 700 New Testaments, 1,500 Psalms, and 3,500 Gospels and Acts by way of the Cape of Good Hope for ultimate use by American Prisoners of war and internees in Japan.

Through chaplaincy associates in Geneva, Switzerland the Society has also sent about 400,000 Bibles, Testaments and scripture portions to war prisoners and refugees in Germany, Italy and France, and through other channels to prisoners in India, South Africa, Egypt, the West Indies, Canada, and the United States. These were in 27 different European languages.

"If I had never believed in the Church before my disbelief would be disturbed by the kind of people who hate the Church," said Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, New York clergyman and author, recently. "All of the totalitarian states have been having trouble with the Church. In Russia they all but obliterated the Church; in Japan they compelled its unification under state control, so that they could get their hands on it; in Italy there has been a running fight between Mussolini and the Vatican; in Germany the Nazi party has cribbed, cabined, and confined the Church, often imprisoned its priests and ministers, and tried to organize an opposing religion of race and nation. From all of which one gathers that with all its faults the Church of Christ is more important than many of its own members, even had supposed."

the handling of a herd sire down to a science.
A bull can't talk intelligibly, but he still has sense and feelings, according to Professor Albreton who gives the following advice about handling these masters of the cow family.
The bull is a creature of habit and early training can establish desirable traits. Teach a bull calf how to behave in public at an early age.
A two-week old bull calf is not too young to be taught good behavior.
At six or eight months bull training is almost impossible. First teach the bull to lead at your side. Do not let him trail behind four or five feet. A bull with a running start has made many trainers the undignified part of an uplift movement. Do not let him get his head down or get in front of you.
Be firm, but not harsh. Make the lessons alike so that the bull won't need to remember too many things. Make leading a habit.
At eight months old insert a light ring in the bull's nose. Let the nose heal before educating the bull to Spencer, Mass., Dec. 3.—The Spencer shoe company, of which Edward K. Klevan is chairman, has made a splendid contribution to the salvage campaign conducted by the firm under the leadership of A. L. Klevan, which included the donation of 100 pairs of shoes to the Red Cross. In addition to the shoes, the Klevan company has also donated to the Red Cross a quantity of clothing, including coats, hats, and gloves. The shoes were distributed to the needy through the Red Cross and other relief agencies. The Klevan company is a well-known manufacturer of high-quality shoes and has been in business for many years. The company's contribution to the Red Cross is a commendable example of corporate social responsibility.

Leicester Scenery

Dear Editor:—To protect shrubbery and doorsteps from rodents, if you will take a package of any kind of tobacco and pour a gallon of boiling water over it, allow it to stand until cool and then sprinkle around the place you wish to free from the attention of the dogs, you will find that after the first sniff they will leave. The reason for this advice is the fact that I have just given the recipe to Pid Baker. I met him up the street and in-as-much as I had not seen him for some time, I asked him if he was holding up for the winter. "No," said Pid, "I just couldn't get out of the house and my sister is mad at me too, she says them dogs around the house is driving her to distraction." "What dogs?" I asked, "I thought that you only had one dog." "Taint him," answered Pid, "It's them dogs that keeps coming to the house." "Last year," Pid continued, "Bob Thompson got a deer. He was going through the woods up back of Podunk and he saw an old scraggly hair deer leaping up against a tree. Bob thought it was too easy a shot so he yelled "Shoo," but that deer just looked up sort of sad like, spit out his last two teeth, looked at them disgustedly, gave a groan and flopped down to die of old age. Bob brought the deer home, hid the hide and cut up the carcass, then Bob got real generous; he gave all his friends some venison. He gave me a steak. Pid stopped and lighted his pipe, got it gurgling in his satisfaction and after I had shifted to the windward, he continued, "That slice of deer meat was so tough that you could not cut it with an axe, the gravy was even tough. When I saw that I could not eat it, I just nailed it to the shed door, to remind me of Bob. I wish that it was his hide. It stayed there all year till just a while ago when the sole of my hunting boots got a hole in them. I looked at the piece of deer steak and thought, that there would make a good strong piece of sole leather. So I nailed it on my hunting boots. It was hard nailing and a bit stiff when I put 'em on and started to walk in them. It was a pretty good day so I went for a walk through the woods down two or three hours and every now and then I'd hear a dog sounding as though he had hit a hot scent. Just as I was coming out of the woods into the road up back of Curran's about six dogs came out of the woods. When they saw me, they started to bark and beat it up through the woods in back of Lane's and down the hill to my house. For two weeks now, up until this last heavy rain, them dogs have been following that trail that I left with the deerfoot soles on my boots and I ain't hardly been out the house since." Just then a couple of dogs came up the street, smelling the road as they came. When Pid saw them he grabbed his cane and started off down the road. I followed Pid and told him about the tobacco mixture and he has sent word that he has soaked his boots in the mixture and has not been bothered since.

RED CROSS WILL ENLIST MARRIED NURSES NOW

Married nurses who are otherwise eligible for war service will now be accepted by the Army Nurse Corps, according to announcement made by the Nursing Service of the American Red Cross, to which is entrusted the recruitment of nurses for active war duty. The new regulation stipulated further that such married nurses will not be retained in or assigned to the same camps where their husbands are stationed, and that if transfers produce such a situation, the nurse will be assigned elsewhere. Nurses with minor children will be accepted only when adequate provision has been made for their care elsewhere than at the Army post, nor will commutation quarters be arranged except when other quarters are not available. Nurses must serve wherever assigned, as with any other military or military nursing activity. Simultaneously has also come official confirmation of a fact which had been previously understood, that nurses assigned to overseas duty, whether in the Army or Navy Corps, receive a 20% increase in pay. The Worcester County Red Cross Committee for Nursing Enrollment will sponsor a series of service rallies during the month of December throughout the county, at which the film "No Greater Glory," will be shown, and in some instances hospital service flags will be dedicated.

Frank Parker Revives Gay 90's

SPENCER:—Yes folks! It looked like the gay nineties as Frank Parker drove past the Spencer Leader Office windows in the Sugden Block as he sat erect in his Democrat wagon driving a fine roan horse through Main Street. When asked about the new style or the revival of the old style, Frank said that he intended to do his best to conserve gasoline for the duration and that it was really an enjoyable drive from Cottage Farm to town which brought back many happy memories of by-gone days.

Modern Civilization

Casualties to the U. S. armed forces from Pearl Harbor to Nov. 15, excluding the African Campaign have been 5,694 dead, 3,435 wounded and 39,827 missing or prisoners, a total of 48,956. These figures are from the government. Casualties to American workers through accidents in the same period have been 44,500 dead and 3,800,000 wounded. These figures are from the National Safety Council. The Council offered the comparison today as evidence that accidents help the Axis in draining America's manpower that is vital to victory. The total American accident toll since Pearl Harbor has been 89,000 killed and approximately 8,800,000 wounded, the Council said. Among the victims are thousands of skilled workers and key men in the nation's war program, who cannot be replaced. (These figures no doubt cover many minor hurts. Ed.)

Reluctantly Parts With Old Flag

Mr. and Mrs. Treffe Boose of 17 McDonald street, Spencer have had the flag which flies on special occasions from their home, for 32 years. The colors in the old flag are still good but it is tearing at the seams so Mr. and Mrs. Boose are replacing it with a new flag this week.

MUST WE LEARN THE HARD WAY!

(Extract from letter of a minister in Bournemouth, England, to the people of Britain.)—"Link and Visitor"—August, 1941.

God is preparing His people for a New Order—a people burning with a pure passion of the love of Jesus. This New Order will usher in the kingdom.

We have been a pleasure-loving people dishonoring God's day picnicking and bathing—
NOW the seashores are barred: no picnicks, no bathing.

We have preferred motor travel to church going—
NOW there is a shortage of motor fuel.

We have ignored the ringing of the church bells calling us to worship—
NOW the bells cannot ring except to warn of invasion.

We have left the churches half empty when they should have been filled with worshippers—
NOW they are in ruins.

We have not listened to the way of peace—
NOW we are forced to listen to the way of war.

The money we would not give to the Lord's work—
NOW is taken from us in taxes and higher prices.

The food for which we refused to give thanks—
NOW is unobtainable.

Lives were refused to live under God's control—
NOW are under the nation's control.

Nights we would not spend in "Watching unto Prayer"—
NOW are spent in anxious Air Raid Precautions.

"If my people which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." 2 Chron. 7-14.

Heart Searchings

The above was handed to the writer by an old friend of boyhood days and no doubt truly represents some of the heart searchings of the besieged people of Britain after over three years of war that has devastated their hamlets, villages and cities with destruction from the skies and humbled their pride as Britain's merchant marine sinks beneath the waves. . . . The writer has been to Bournemouth and visited its charming beach on a Sunday afternoon—oddly enough I did not go to church that day. . . . Being located on the Channel side of England no doubt the city has suffered from many inhuman air raids and we can well imagine that the beaches are dotted with "fox holes" and lined with barbed wire. . . . As yet we have been spared the devastations from the skies and the fear of invasion. Is it because we are more righteous, or simply that our turn has not yet come? . . . Surely our tribulation is sufficiently great to bring us to our knees as our loved ones leave us to fight in every corner of the globe against a generation of pagan haters, cradled and suckled on the dregs of remorse and race hatred and schooled in the devilish ways of destruction. . . . To ninety-nine per cent of our people this war is a distasteful enterprise forced on them by circumstances over which they had no control but which were brought about by all of us losing our vision of a better way of life. . . . We may have been a wee bit better than some other nations but we have been in a large measure over-prosperous as compared to many other peoples in the old worlds. . . . The new world of the Western Hemispheres, with virgin soil, virgin timber, virgin mines, and virgin freedoms of our democratic way of life had great responsibilities. . . . Millions of the people of Europe looked to the late President Wilson and the American people to lead and guard them against future wars when they lay down their arms in the armistice. . . . The American people through their elected representatives in Congress betrayed the trust sworn by their president and an impotent League of Nations led the world into the abyss while we fiddled as Rome burned. . . . True, we were peace loving. . . . We took no spoils from the last war. . . . We coveted no nation's land and wished them all good. . . . But we failed them nevertheless. . . . Because we refused to be our brother's keeper. . . . We failed the oppressed peoples of the leadership of which we as a nation were the stewards. . . . Now, we are suffering, all of us, for our sins. . . . Our flesh and bone brothers in Britain are beginning to confess and turn to God for guidance. . . . He will not fail us, if with all our hearts we seek Him.

News In The World Of Religion

Contributed By
Rev. N. Bond Fleming

Because it finds juvenile delinquency on the increase, and young men and women facing not only danger and death in battle but also facing temptations and baffling problems at home, the International Council of Religious Education, which has a constituency of 25,000,000 people, has undertaken an extended wartime program of service. It plans to give increased service to children in defense and adjacent areas, to young men and women who are the reserves of tomorrow's fighting and service forces, to the millions under arms who need a religious ministry, and to men and women at home "who not only need spiritual insight and power for the experiences of the war and the post-war period, but who ought also to be enlisted and trained for Christian leadership during the emergency."

"One of the war aims of our nation should be the strengthening of the religious spirit among the people and the increased support of religious institutions," according to Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Synagogue Council of America. "When a nation fights for its very existence, spiritual stamina is a priority need. America needs the soul power which religion qualifies. We need the faith in the victor of the right which religion embues. We also need the universal outlook of religion for the building of a just peace after victory comes. Religious institutions, the churches and the synagogues, which are the carriers of the religious message and program, have a primary claim upon the allegiance and support of the American people."

Word reaching the United States from Norway indicates that Bishop Eivind Joseph Gerggrav, head of the Norwegian Church who has been imprisoned by the Nazis, has begun the translation of the New Testament into modern Norwegian while he is in prison. Due to efforts to replace several dialects of the country by a Norway-wide tongue, a new translation has become a matter of importance during recent years. Bishop Berggrav is starting by translating the Epistles of St. Paul written while a prisoner in Rome.

While the churches and mission boards that have missionaries in the Philippine Islands have had no direct word or other contact from their scores of representatives in Churches and schools there since Manila fell into Japanese hands, there is increasing evidence that these men and women are being well treated and that many of them, if not all, are carrying on some of their former activities among the Filipino people. A recent Tokyo broadcast confirms earlier information that American missionaries were at first interned, then released on condition they would do strictly missionary work. Now the Board of Missions of the Methodist church has received through the American Red Cross, relayed by the Japanese Red Cross, a message from Superintendent Ernest E. Tank of Manila, that he and his group of some 25 Methodist missionaries are "safe and well." Presbyterians, Congregationalists and some others have somewhat similar assurance.

GARDENING in the SKIES

Tree wardens all over the State are urging the planting of trees to replace many that were destroyed four years ago. We must give much attention to the conditions in which these trees are going to exist for life; their root space, soil conditions, drainage. There are sewer pipes, gas mains, hard surfaced roads and side walks, wires and cables overhead; added to these are all sorts of insect pests and fungus diseases, all of which figure in the long list of obstacles which lessen the livability of young trees. All these conditions call for serious thought just where to plant, in the long list of obstacles, an entirely new set up of conditions, and with the car came all sorts of tree pests and the spread of diseases. The extended use of electricity has also brought with it many problems that were not present years ago.

These conditions call for a bit of thought. Are we to continue to set and maintain trees so close to the streets and highways that they endanger the lives of passers-by, or their pedestrians or those in the addition? The original need of shade trees does not exist to-day, as most traveling is done in closed cars. When we sit behind "Old Dolly" with the top back, moving along at the rate of three to five miles an hour, we had time to admire the beauty of the individual tree but to-day we pass, for example, the most beautiful tree along the highway in a split second. The only impression one gets of the landscape is in mass paintings or the beauty of the hillsides.

North Newsy Notes

The final meeting of the Nutrition Class, sponsored by the Civilian Defense and Extension Service was held in Grange Hall, last week, when Mrs. Katherine Seamon used her subject, "Yeasts and Breads." These groups have been well attended and much credit is due Mrs. Seamon and the Civilian Defense committee, the sponsors.

Another effort sponsored by the Defense Committee is the Emergency room in the Dumas Block Sunday afternoon. Many thanks are due to the committee for their good work and to the staff of the hospital for their cooperation.

Reverend Wilfred Dufault of Assumption College spent Thanksgiving Day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Etienne Dufault of Clark St. Roger and Robert Berard, students at the Assumption College, are spending their Thanksgiving vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Berard of Prospect St. Sr. Etienne, de Jesus of Barton, Vt., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ida Conch of Church street.

Ann Picard of Manchaug celebrated her fifth birthday with her brother, Eugene Picard, at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dolor Collette of Church street. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gregoire of Waterbury, Conn. formerly of Spencer were week-end guests of their relatives.

Rehearsal for Christmas music is held weekly at St. Mary's church with Mrs. Yvonne Elder as director. Howard Thompson of Mechanic street, a patient at Memorial Hospital, suffering from pneumonia, is in his history—why this year they have been able to carry just about double the volume of freight and passenger traffic than they moved in 1939, when Hitler invaded Poland.

But there is a limit. As seen by Joseph B. Eastman, Director, Office of Defense Transportation, there is "a clear and definite need for new locomotives and new freight cars... and if we are to attain and maintain maximum utilization of existing facilities, they must be kept in prime order and repair."

Facing still greater demands upon their facilities in the coming crucial year, railroad men are steeling themselves to meet whatever lies ahead. Given the tools—the steel to work with, they mean to see to it that the lights guiding vital railroad transport remain green from coast to coast.

Over the Garden Wall

We get so used to trying to manage the other man's perspective that we are likely to find a while we are managing ourselves. I've noticed that if there is a particularly bad day with withering winds, filled with withering seeds in the air, and the weeds are sure to be kept down, it is a sign that the winter is just getting started.

One of the high lights of my autumn season was the lecture of William Lyons Phelps at the Clark Field. His subject was "Truth and Poetry." He set out at once to prove that there was more truth in poetry than in science. He said a scientific treatise of twenty-five pages is read in the morning; a scientific book must be very recent to be true, whereas the first edition of poems was always the most colorful personality he ever met was Mr. Russell who always wrote as "A. E." Once this gentleman visited him and talked to him steadily for ten in the morning; he will visit to ten in the evening, a thing very few people had ever been able to do (Of course he was not there when that visitor stood for the text of his lecture—"narrative" poetry is always second-rate; the great poetry is poetry of tradition. It is simple, everyday occurrences treated with such insight that they become exquisite. Mr. Phelps excluded Homer's Iliad from this rule and set a dead-line of June first next to read a good prose translation of the Iliad. An evening with him was a treat. He said that he could not live on the heights all the time; there'd be no heights in that case, but he believes us to get there as often as we can, whether we reach them through church attendance, fine music or a choice book.

Bits O' Beauty

As the days of a tree are the days of my people.
 Isaiah 65-22

Growth of Oak (a fable)

A sage sat pondering beneath a tree Whose swaying branches bowed As if to show some courtesy To one so wrinkled-browed. When presently the sage awoke From out his reverie He slowly said, "My dear old Oak You are an idle tree. "You simply let your branches dance To every wind or breeze. You are a creature of blind chance The same as all the trees." "Oh no," the aged tree replied, "I live and breathe like you, We both are subject to a tide That's ever changed and new. "Your life, like mine, is shaped and swayed By zephyr or by storm, While myriads of things have made Your tree of life take form." W. B. T.

How Are We Shaping Up?

All nature teaches us that it is the myriads of little events which tend to shape our lives. . . Many of these events are only sensed by our sub-conscious minds. . . Others jar us out of a rut and start us on a new way of life. . . One swallow will not make a summer nor will one summer make a man. . . Our characters may have the sturdy form of the enduring oak or the bythe grace of the bending bowing birch. . . Or then again we may be like the old apple trees of the orchard which are still giving their all in fruit for others for long years after it would seem that their very hearts have been eaten out with giving. . . "As the days of a tree are the days of my people," . . . Of the earth, earthy yes, but also looking to heaven for sustenance of sun and rain. . . Greeting the gentle southern spring zephyrs with smiles of gratitude or bracing themselves with fortitude against the rigid blasts of winter's worst. . . At the present time most men and women, too, are bracing themselves against the devastating blasts of wars desolation. . . Many are asking themselves what good can come out of all this travail and sadness. . . As this is being written the wintry blast is scourging the group of spruce trees just outside my window. . . They are talking it. . . I remember some of my favorite oak trees scattered about New England whose great branches have been battered? yes. . . Broken? yes. . . Beaten? yes. . . Twisted? yes. . . Tonight these old friends of mine are taking it again for the ten thousandth time. . . Are they destroyed? no. . . They have been made beautiful as mother Nature soothes with her south wind or tests their mettle with the scourings of the north wind's worst. . . If God so shapes the literal forms of the trees in an environment suited to the development of their graces, is it not probable that he is placing us in an environment of both good and evil that we may develop characters sturdy and beautiful? . . . As we plan for our new year resolutions why not start now to formulate those plans so that our resolutions like the plans of an architect may be well drawn before we start to execute them? . . . Here are two resolutions which the writer is planning for himself: First to find one character lesson from the Bible each week, and second to find its counterpart in mother Nature's great book of learning. . . If the writer keeps this resolution, these one a week vitamin thoughts will, inevitably help keep him in soundness of mind and spirit.

Buy Wisely

At this season of the year we are all apt to be so burdened with the joy of buying Christmas gifts that we may be tempted to be careless with our selection. . . This year, more than ever we should buy wisely. . . We should buy useful and enduring gifts. . . Gifts of gold and precious stones are always valuable for a lifetime and often such gifts stay in the family for generations. . . Items of wearing apparel are also wise gifts this year. . . Home furnishings in like manner are wise war time gifts. . . What about toys and games? . . . By all means these are vitally essential. . . I know of a grandmother who boasts that two or three clotheshers were all that were necessary to keep her tots happy and employed when they were young. . . Now isn't that just like old grandma? . . . This particular grandma forgets that her children were the children of farmers and that they had little chicks to peep and interest them to say nothing of calves and birds and flowers in abundance and a thousand and one other toys of mother Nature's making. . . By all means give the boys and girls toys. . . they are great primary educators. . . Dolls create loving affection in the little tot's heart and games and mechanical toys create intelligence in their little heads. . . Buy sweets and flowers for your sweetheart, whether or not you are married to her, she needs all the tokens of affection you can give her in these trying times. . . There are lots of other things we can buy and give but above them all we can give expression to our goodwill in words of cheer and smiles from the heart which cost only a little appreciation of what all other living things are doing for us. . . This is the real lesson of the Manger.

News In The World Of Religion

Contributed By Rev. N. Bond Fleming

In the midst of Iceland's preparation to defend herself against possible invasion from Europe, the foundations of a new Protestant cathedral have just been laid in the town of Reykjavik, now boasting a population of 30,000. The cathedral will be in the center of the business section of the town. Funds for the completion of the structure are being raised not only through Denmark.

Under the direction of Bishop Y. but among friends in Y. Tu, Chinese leader of the Protestant Episcopal Church in West China, a new mission has been started by the Rev. T. L. Song in Yunnan Province near the western end of the Burma Road, among the Min-Chia, a tribe of some 300,000 people who are aboriginal inhabitants of this region and are now neighbors of thousands of Chinese church people who migrated recently from eastern China because of the war conditions. Two houses and a farm have been rented as the first church among these rural tribespeople.

"Training children and girls has been the chief joy of my life," says Miss Ella M. Rieger, who has "mothered" some 20,000 Pittsburgh girls and women during her 36 years of active service as a deaconess of the Methodist Church. As director of women's and girls' work at the Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries for the past 25 years, from which position she has just retired, she has acted as "parent" teacher, grandparent, nurse and advisor. During this time she has taught thousands to knit, sew and crochet, many of whom have sent their own children to her for instruction in later years. Pittsburgh-born, Miss Rieger sensed the needs of her home city and in Sunday-school teaching, class work, personal counseling and visitation in the homes, has contributed much in service to make her native city a better place in which to live.

Because no medical man is available for the post, the Rev. C. Bertam Rappe, of Chicago, missionary of the Methodist Church in Chungking, West China, is serving as superintendent of the Methodist Union Hospital in that city, while the surgical and medical work is carried on by Chinese doctors and nurses. The Hospital is carried on in three widely separated places. Within the city limits is the old hospital, used as a clinic and receiving ward; patients gladly stay in its doorless and windowless rooms until they can be moved elsewhere in an ambulance donated by Madame Chiang Kai-shek; six direct hits by Japanese bombs have ruined the buildings, but not the service. Twenty-one babies were born in two months in a dug-out of this compound during air raids. In a suburb of the city is the Emergency Hospital and the surgical department where air raid victims are cared for. In a mountain retreat, 20 miles outside the city, the hospital has set up bamboo and plaster buildings, caring for 50 patients. A recent improvement is a delivery and operating room deep underground.

Ever since the Japanese army began its invasion southward and westward into central China, a number of missionary and government universities and colleges have "migrated" ahead of the enemy, and many of them are now on campuses in Chungking, Chungking and elsewhere in Free (West) China. Practically every campus in the west houses two to four schools, some of which have moved hundreds of miles with their faculties and parts of their student bodies.

Elmwood L. Macklin, assistant treasurer for the Leicester Water Supply District, announces that until further notice he will be at the tax collector's office in the Town Hall each Friday evening from 7:30 to 9 to collect payment of water bills. Mr. Macklin is handling the collections on water bills due to the illness of Walter Warren, treasurer of the water district.

Leicester Girl To Wed In Washington

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Brown of East Brookfield in World War I Leicester announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Barbara Brown, to Officer Candidate William J. Bryan of Camp Davis, N. C., son of Dr. William A. Bryan, superintendent of Norwich State Hospital, and Mrs. Bryan of Norwich, Conn., both formerly of Worcester, will be Dec. 12 at 4 o'clock in Washington.

Miss Brown, whose father is a member of the faculty of Leicester Junior College, was graduated from Arlington Hall Junior College in Washington and American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York City. Her stage name is Barbara Winslow. She has appeared with a Summer stock company in Marengo, Ill., with the Village Hall Summer Stock Company in Framingham and in Christopher Morley's Mill Pond Playhouse in Roslyn, L. I.

Plenty of Fawning About One Fawn

It all happened when Doc Chevalier and Bob Jandrow took a few days off to hunt the elusive deer in the wild and woolly forest in the Seacoast area. Doc Chevalier thinks the results are splendid. He reports that he got a fancy, fat fawn, weighing about 100 lbs. of delectable venison. . . Incidentally, he brought pictures to the "Leader" office to prove that he got this beautiful fawn but as the Editor saw no venison steak, we refused to make a plate to publish the picture. Hunters take note: If you want your picture in the "Leader" or "Union" or "Banner," remember we like venison steak.

Now back to the fawning about the fawn. Henry Emmond claims these pictures are old stuff but the Dr. insists that he is still one up on Henry who has been hunting for 15 years and never got more than a jack rabbit. When Henry heard of this, he said that if the Dr. really got a fawn, he doubted very much whether it had been weaned yet. To this the Dr. replies that as he was in doubt himself as to whether or not it had been weaned, he brought it home for Henry to feed but not to feed Henry. Apparently neither Henry nor the Editor are going to get any of this venison.

There are reports that we can count on Henry for some venison as he has a fool proof system this year and will surely get his deer if planting turnips in the middle of the dense Charlton woods does not fail him. Doc Chevalier says the next few days will tell the story.

Bits O' Beauty

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for their's is the kingdom of heaven. Matti. 5-3

The Beggar Of Bethlehem

At Bethlehem's gate a beggar lay
Outside the village wall,
He had no home or place to stay,
Nor comforter at all.

The night while all Judea slept
He heard the Angel's song,
Into his heart it gently crept
And healed its every wrong.

When later wise men came to bring
Their gold, incense, and myrrh,
This poor man brought to his new king
The gifts we all prefer;

For faith, a golden censer, held
The fires of hope and love,
Whose myrrh and incense now compelled
Praise to his God above.

W. B. T.

The first words of the greatest sermon ever preached were those at the head of this column . . . The infinite wisdom that inspired them knew that all that followed would be of no avail if a contrite heart was not there to receive them . . . This world will ultimately be saved "through the foolishness of preaching" . . . 1900 years ago Paul was telling the learned (?) of his day this simple truth . . . They did not realize that it was the essential truths of Christ's gospel message that he had preached to the poor, which the apostles re-echoed, that were at that very moment leavening the hearts of Jew and Greek, bond and free, Roman and barbarian alike in a manner that would stay the ravages of paganism and preserve sufficient Christian virtue in the social and political order to make life worth living until the Kingdom of God should come . . . After reading 1800 pages of Gibbon's "Roman Empire" I am convinced that the cycles of human progress (?) have been formed in eras of poverty and peace vs. pride, wealth and war . . . These cycles have followed each other almost as regularly as the inevitable tides . . . Men and nations have amassed wealth with its attendant pride, ease and luxury which in turn made the populace soft, licentious and pleasure loving and at the same time made their neighbors, less fortunate, peevish and covetous . . . The results have always been the same . . . The pattern never changes . . . The issues may be different but the essence of the evil is always the same . . . Poverty and peace . . . Pride and war . . . God's favor rests on the contrite of heart . . . They are teachable . . . They are grateful . . . They may mourn, but they receive comfort . . . They are meek . . . They hunger and thirst after righteousness . . . They are merciful . . . They are pure in heart and being peacemakers they shall be called the children of God . . . The "Guest Editorial" that follows indicates that some of these virtues still live even in a nation at war.

We Do Appreciate

GUEST EDITORIAL

Dear Editor: As we approach the holiday season, our minds and hearts are filled with thoughts of the boys in service, which is only natural and as it should be. But I've been wondering if we couldn't just pause long enough to give a little thought and a pat on the back to those in Spencer who are serving on the home front.

To me it seems that they are very important as a protection to our country in case of trouble and as a background of courage and support to those who have gone away, as well as those who are left behind. There is very little glory in this work and a lot of grief and many a headache and I, for one, would like to extend them a word of praise and try to compensate them in a small way and encourage them to keep up the good work. It would also let them know that the good people of Spencer are aware of what they are doing and do appreciate it.

We owe thanks to many: To Mr. Whitcomb, who has carried on the great burden of our Civilian Defense Organization and to all those who have gone before, as well as his entire staff who have done well in their work; To Mr. Beebe, who has given so untrudgingly his time and self; To Mr. Squire, who has done much to help and instruct our Air Raid Wardens; To Mrs. Burkill, who has so efficiently taken care of the difficult job of keeping the personnel of the report center functioning; To those men, who have given their evenings to attend to the required duties of that branch of our defense and to all our women volunteers for day duty.

To our women who have given themselves and their time to enter into training in canteen work and motorized units and have worked hard to impart this knowledge to all who care to learn.

To our teachers, who have had so much added to their already heavy duties by assisting with our different rationes.

To our active Chairman of Salvage Mr. McDonough, we owe sincere thanks. He has done a grand job and the money thus acquired has gone to assist two worthy organizations—the U. S. O. and the Red Cross.

To our Doctors and Nurses, we pay high tribute and now they are a very important part of home defense. Our draft board has had a herculean task and have worked diligently and long to take care of this duty. Our rationing board has one of the most thankless and discouraging jobs in the entire set-up and I am sure no one envies them. But they, too, are doing their duty and must be included in this with our thanks.

To still another of our citizens, Raymond Towers, who has performed quietly and efficiently in his duties connected with our defense, we extend sincere thanks and regrets at his leaving this work.

Last, but certainly not least, let me direct a particular word to our own energetic Miss Chalkbanks, who has placed duty before self to such an extent that we think of her with reverence. Faithful to a fault, she has rendered great assistance to our surgical dressing units and is an inspiration to us all.

To all of our people, we owe something. I could go on and on mentioning this one and that one and yet I'd be sure to over-look someone. For very few have not been touched in some way by this terrible war and very few have failed to render in some manner to their patriotic duty.

Sewing and knitting is constantly going on and I am sure Mrs. Hannah Stone is to be congratulated upon her great contribution with the aid of her workers.

So let me say in passing, that though I may not have mentioned "you" or "your organization," I nevertheless mean you and you and you. And I know that everyone is aware of your very fine work and cooperation and wish you well and fervently hope that you will be called upon to keep this up too much longer and that this war will end and our boys will be soon home and our country can get back to normal and that we will all have time to remember with thanks to God, the fine work you are doing.

Hoping this little word and thought of mine may brighten somebody's day and encourage you to go on, I am,
Sincerely yours,
Wanda E. Spooner

THEM'S NOT PLAYTHINGS

WE'VE GOT TO TAKE GOOD CARE OF OUR ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES NOW!

Yes! We Americans were a careless family up until Pearl Harbor. It was easy to replace things we broke. Conservation was not so important. But now it's different. We've stopped the waste. We've plugged up the leaks with Yankee speed and thoroughness. Now we have a hard time finding even a tin can to bang away at now. You see, now a saving from Uncle Sam. And she's taking good care of her electrical gadgets, too! What with appliance manufacturers turning out bulbs and such, toasters and flat irons and things one getting mighty scarce. It pays for to take good care of them so they'll last. And she is helping to win the war when she does!

You Came Down the Long Assembly Line

YOU go roaring into battle . . . a huge monster . . . the deadliest engine of destruction that ever crawled over the earth! A year ago the railroads began assembling the materials of your being—the rich, red ore of the Mesabi range . . . a mountain of limestone . . . scrap iron from a thousand small-town junk heaps.

Your steel came hissing hot from the mills—in billets, blooms and slabs—and was fanned out by rail to processing plants from coast to coast.

Back you came in pieces—tens of thousands of them—from five-ton hunks of armor plate to delicate hair-springs light as a feather.

Your engine from the East—your transmission from Detroit—your tracks from Cleveland—your copper wiring from upstate New York—your guns from the government arsenal.

You moved down the longest assembly line on earth—the railroads of America—then by rail again to the docks, swaddled in grease, with a sign chalked on your side—Bound for North Africa.

News and Views OF THE Boys in Service

By FRANK D. WILEY
Phone North Brookfield 509 if You Have Any News

Some "buddy" sent your reporter a copy of the "Knockout News," a newspaper published at Fort Greely, Alaska. Thanks, I'm getting a great kick out of it. Perhaps you will too, for here are two poems taken from the front pages:

Twinkle, twinkle, Rising Sun,
For your rising nearly done,
You shone alright before the light,
But darkness follows after light!

Japs be nimble,
Japs be quick,
But they'll find the Yanks
Darn hard to trick.

John Hammond of the Marines, stationed at Farlow Island, N. C., has been on furlough with his wife and family at his home on South Main street, North Brookfield.

Pvt. Francis Troy, of Oakland, is stationed at Student Detachment, Class 4249, Squadron C, Lyndall Field, Fla. and Private Josie Hardy, also of Oakland, 606 Tech. Training School, Barracks 516, Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Note: In a radio broadcast at a Marine Base, one of the boys, who had been plenty of a sight since the Japs, was asked to step to the microphone. The announcer said to him, "Can you tell us anything about fighting in the Pacific?" "Yes," said the Marine. "We will share the Pacific with the Japs anytime." The announcer, rather amazed at what he said, asked him a second time, "Yes, fifty, fifty," said the Marine. "We'll take the top; they can have the bottom."

A letter just received from Private Henry Grabert, stationed at 1454 Barracks, 620 Tech. Training School, Madison, Wis., states that through these columns, "A Spenser" was granted permission to be on the same side now. He is all ready to go across. I am in the last month of school; working on real airplane radio and transmitters. Thanking you for the first one, I have spent away from home, and I certainly thought of home, and all of you.

Henry, in his next paragraph, expresses what is typical of a million boys now overseas, quote—"I do hope that the little fellow, referring to the reporter's grandson, will never know the meaning of war, and may he grow up to live in a new world, which the boys over there are fighting for."

Bits O' Beauty

"Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."
 Matt. 6-10.

The Birth of A King

Three wise men watched the Western sky
 For stary message from on high;
 And when in faith, they saw it there,
 They quickly followed it to where
 The Son of God in manger lay
 Among the cattle, on the hay.

For faith, the guide-star of the soul,
 Forever burns while ages roll,
 It led them and encouraged them
 Until they ached at Bethlehem
 God's glory shone from Heaven above
 Upon the Son of His first love.

These men had read the prophets' word;
 Each Sabbath day God's voice was heard
 Re-echoed from the lips of men
 Revealing how, and where, and when,
 Messiah, their great Savior King,
 Would be revealed and blessings bring.

The Shepherds, too, were men who knew
 That God would keep his promise, true;
 And though amazed when angel bright
 Shone so resplendent in the night,
 They found sweet peace when they had heard
 The best assurance of his word.

Then suddenly the heav'nly throng
 Burst into bright celestial song
 And all the hills and valleys rang
 With echoes of the words they sang:
 "Glory to God," with this Amen,
 "Peace on the earth, goodwill to men."

And now today we wait anew
 Fulfillment of his promise, true,
 That Jesus, born to be our king,
 Will yet return and blessings bring,
 When all the earth, redeemed from sin,
 Will love and serve, and honor Him.

The Return of The King

Just as truly as Christmas marks the beginnings of Christian hope and Easter the assurance that hope's fulfillment so the Ascension contains the promise of the return of Jesus to the earth to complete his mission as Savior of the world. . . . At this very moment, while you read these lines, thousands, on bended knee, are intoning the words of our Lord's prayer, "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."

It was the Angels who announced the prophetic words, "Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace and good will to men," and it was the Angels who promised the return of Jesus to the earth when at His ascension they said, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven. . . . Nearly all the prophets who prophesied so accurately of his first coming speak of the glories of his kingdom. . . . We have all been inclined to give these prophecies a spiritual application, but as time goes on it becomes increasingly apparent that the world of men of themselves, cannot redeem the world from its everincreasing strife and confusion. . . . When Jesus taught his followers to pray, "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven." He was here on earth, in Palestine. . . . Why should we not give the words the most literal application and really pray for the return of Jesus to establish his righteous reign of peace and goodwill over all the earth. . . . Just before his passion did He not say? "If I go away I will come again" and were not his last words in the last message he gave to John in Patmos? "Surely I come quickly" . . . This fair earth is too marvelous a creation to be permitted to disintegrate and perish through the folly of men. . . . Four thousand years ago, God declared that, "All the earth would be filled with His glory" . . . The Angels re-echoed this sublime thought at the birth of our king. . . . Let us take up the refrain this Christmas and with hearts full of faith and love for all mankind, pray from the heart, "Thy kingdom come."

Leicester Lines

Leicester. The name of William Martin, 65, of 1033 Main street, was placed on the danger list at City Hospital when his condition became critical Dec. 17th following an accident in which Mr. Martin suffered a fractured hip. Mr. Martin was walking down Leicester Hill to work at Al's Gas Station at the foot of the hill when he was struck by a car driven by Miss Berntha Lovell of Lake avenue. He was immediately taken to City Hospital, Worcester. Chief of Police John Tobin investigated.

At a meeting of the Leicester Buddies Service Club it was decided to compile a list of birthdays of boys from town in the service so that a greeting may be sent them at the time of their anniversaries. Families, relatives and friends are asked to co-operate in this plan, and send in the date of birth of anyone close to them in the service. Mrs. Ralph Russell is in charge and she may be reached by calling 4011, and those not having 'phones may send her the necessary information.

Another useful storage room, and usually the simplest and best for the home with finished basement—is the special storage room in the basement.

A small room space, five or six feet wide and as long as may be needed, is separated from the rest of the basement by a tight wall. A door is fitted into one of the partition walls. At least one outside window is needed so air circulation can be maintained and the temperature controlled to some extent. It is important that the basement room be insulated overhead and in the partition walls to cut off all possible heat transfer from the basement or from the room above.

GARDENING in the SKIES

By Frank D. Wiley
 It is a mistake if anyone says, "No use going into the forests and hills this Spring." It's worth your while if only for the pictures in black and white. At no time of year are the trees more beautiful than in Winter, when the black boughs and stark swags show up against the gray sky with a pure white bed of snow underneath.

No two oaks are alike yet they look as sturdy as if shaped out of cast of iron. Its heavy trunk is rooted like a rock, covered in lichen to fall, during the winter's coldest blast of wind.

The elm, in contrast, runs up forty feet before a branch appears, which look quite slender after viewing the oak tree.

The conifers stand out even more against the sky and snowbound slopes of the hillside, holding the last snow storm in their dark green foliage for a fortnight sometimes.

The pines, spruces, firs and hemlocks are alike in having cones and needle-like leaves, but you would never pick a pine for a Christmas tree. Spruces are the most popular.

Cedars are much different from the needle-leaved trees. The tiny, flattened leaves overlap each other. The junipers have purple berries instead of cones, and so it goes, only a few warm days in January, February or March, whenever they come, will bring out the pussy-willows down by the brook or in the swamp, and as we enter into the coldest months of the year, we look forward to Caledonia Day to see if the "ground hog sees his shadow" and then to the 21st day of March for the formal opening of Spring.

Attach your Christmas wagon to this star and fill it with our greetings and wishes for a Merry Christmas!
