Farmer Attracts Attention By Enlarging Pasture

NEW BRAintree — Thomas Small, Sr., dairy farmer and salesman of agricultural supplies, here is attracting attention through enlarging his improved pasture on the Barre Cut off Road.

This past summer a large area, cleared in the fall of 1952, was limed, fertilized and seeded and work was started across the road. Through the area now being cleared, ran a brook from a spring fed swamp beside the road. In normal times this swamp furnished a large amount of water and the 11 acres beyond the wandering brook were seldom accessible to the cows.

As a first step, a ditch was constructed by a heavy dozer straight from the swamp to an outlet area. A survey by the Soil Conservation Service Technicians showed the most desirable grade for the ditch and the channel, which was constructed wide enough to carry all the water and to keep it from spreading over the area.

The banks have been smoothed and seeded to winter rye which is now 6" tall and will afford protection against washing as well as furnishing an early supply of green feed next spring. To provide an all weather road to the area beyond the ditch which will be cleared next year, a stone fill is being built at the upper end.

The total area of improved pasture when completed will be 22 acres, or enough to furnish feed for 22 head of stock for the entire summer.

Other conservation practices established by Mr. Small include 44 acres of cover crops, 35 acres of Pasture improvement, 500 feet of drainage, 3 ponds. He has also set out 250 Norway Spruce on an area not suited for clearing for hay or pasture.

The area to be cleared next by Mr. Small adjoins the farm of Charles B. Thompson, chairman of the board of Supervisors of the Northwestern Worcester County.

Teen-Aged Driver Delivers "Spot News" By Cracking Up Car In Newspaper Yard

WEST BROOKFIELD — A news writer at the Tri-Town Weekly on Route 9, West Brookfield, didn't have to look far for a spot-news story Tuesday morning on arriving at the newspaper plant. The smashed-up remnants of a green sedan which had been driven by a teen-ager were sitting in the driveway waiting. Mute evidence of the force with which the car struck is the defaced and barked tree in the yard. It seems a minor miracle that the youngster in the car at the time of the crash wasn't hurt.

The driver, Ave J. Casey, 18, 594 Main street, Southbridge, claims that he was travelling west at the time of the accident Monday night and had just passed another car when, he believes, the steering knuckle broke, causing his car to swing around and crash into the tree.

The force of the crash threw the driver into the back seat, according to witnesses.

Trooper C. H. Marden of the State Police barracks in Brookfield investigated.

Journalism Class Tours Tri-Town Plant; Sees News Progress From Writer To Press

BROOKFIELD — Members of the English class, grade 11 and 12, of Brookfield High School, visited the TRI-TOWN WEEKLY plant yesterday morning. The visit was in connection with a class project in journalism.

Mrs. Loring Coes, Jr., Acting Editor, met the group and conducted them on a tour of the plant, demonstrating the typical handling of a news story from the editor to linotype to make-up stone and press.

Several news stories from Brookfield in this issue were suggested by members of the class. They are: Dolores Fournier, Virginia Morey, Jacqueline Caron, Paul Martin, Francis Martin, Philip Mead, Richard Mundell, Roger Mundell, James Allen, Carleton Morey, Richard Robidoux, Robert Mason and Paul Spence.

The newspaper will seek sponsorship from local merchants and manufacturers for a new series of advertisements designed to present, through modern media, a laymen's appeal on behalf of one of the 20th Century's greatest needs—that for a stronger spiritual fibre in the free world in a time of great peril.

The newspaper itself will share in the sponsorship of the "ad" series and a portion of the income will be returned to the Laymen's Committee for continuance of their work.

Laymen of the Roman Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths have banded together in a concerted effort to bolster the Churches and Synagogues and in particular to promote attendance at religious services. Charles E. Wilson, chairman, and former president of General Electric, makes clear that this involves no compromise on the part of the three faiths as to belief but is a program of mutual benefit.

First of the "Religion Ads" will appear in next week's edition of the Weekly. For further information concerning the purposes of the Laymen's Committee please turn to the Editorial page.

The Spooner Murder In Brookfield Whereby Bathshua Spooner, Daughter of Brig. General Timothy Ruggles of Hardwick Became The First Woman To Be Hung In Massachusetts.

Chapter 9
Any resume of the history of our Quaboag area would not be complete without mention of the Spooner murder which took place in Brookfield on March 1, 1778. The story has been told in newspapers, pamphlets and books for over one hundred and seventy-five years; and here it is again.

Bathshua Ruggles was born in Sandwich, third daughter and sixth child of Timothy Ruggles and his wife, Bathshua Newcomb. Her parents moved to Hardwick in 1754 and soon her father gave up the practice of law to join the army as a colonel and become a fighting man. (He returned from the French and Indian Wars a Brigadier General.)

We have not been able to learn at what time Bathshua Ruggles met and married Joshua Spooner of Brookfield but at any rate she did and the year 1778 found her at the age of 32 living in Brookfield, near the corner where the Old North Brookfield road branches off and Main street continues on up over Blanchard Hill, past the fruit farm.

She was unhappy in her marriage according to testimony at the trial following her husband's murder. Soon after they were married disension took place until finally she had a "complete aversion" to him and planned several ways to murder him.

One of them was finally carried out. It happened this way. Two British soldiers, wandering past her house on their way to Springfield from Worcester were called in by a man whom they thought at the time was a British soldier. (He was evidently a serving man in the Spooner household.)

They rested by the fire and were fed and soon Mrs. Spooner came in to talk with them. She said that she had a great regard for the British army for her father was in it (he had become a Tory at the start of the Revolution.) They talked more and were invited to spend the night since her husband wasn't at home and it was a very stormy night.

These two soldiers were James Buchanan, a Sergeant under Burgoyne, born in Glasgow, Scotland and 30 years old; and the other a private, William Brooks, of the same army, was a native of Wrentham, Strafford county, England, aged 27.

They accepted the hospitality of this strange woman and during the second day of their visit with her she told Buchanan that she and her husband did not agree. Further she told him that he was not really expecting her husband to return from this trip to Princeton for a Mr. Ross had gone with him with an ounce of poison which he had promised to give to Mr. Spooner at the first convenient opportunity. (Ezra Ross was an ex-Continental army soldier, a lad of 18.)

She invited them to stay until she discovered whether her husband would return or not; they were glad to remain there. After the rigors of war, it seemed a wonderful home and comfortable.

After ten or 11 days Mr. Spooner did return. Among other things he was not pleased with the amount of liquor he had to pay for at the local tavern which had been marked against him by his wife's guests. He asked them to leave immediately but was persuaded to let them stay another night by the fire.

Mr. Spooner was afraid that they would rob them, he told a neighbor the next day, so he spent the night in the adjoining room with his money chest under his head and his silver spoons and newtner nearby!

Several more days were spent in town, hiding in the barn, drinking at Cooley's and Gilbert's taverns and meeting sometimes with Mrs. Spooner in secret.

Another whole day was spent house during Mr. Spooner's absence. When he returned and went upstairs to bed, Brooks was supposed to go up and murder him in his sleep for which he was to receive one thousand dollars. But Brooks' courage failed him. Mrs. Spooner taunted him about being faint-hearted. It had been planned to put her husband's body in the well as soon as he was taken from his bed for his wife thought that everyone would then think that he had fallen in.

This is the knocker from the door of the Spooner house. It is now the property of the Merriek Public Library in Brookfield.

ned to put her husband's body in the well as soon as he was taken from his bed for his wife thought that everyone would then think that he had fallen in.

Soon another plan was decided on by the unhappy wife. One of the men was to awaken her husband after he retired at night and tell him that one of the horses was very sick. And then when Mr. Spooner went to the barn to kill the horse he himself would be killed by one of the men and left under the horses feet so that when he was found would be thought that he had been killed and trampled by him. But one of the men persuaded the boy who was supposed to call Mr. Spooner not to do it, so that plan never worked out either.

The next day Brooks and Buchanan made up their minds to leave Brookfield and Mrs. Spooner for good and to continue on to Springfield. They started off and went as far as Western (Warren) where they found work in a smithy; soon they needed some food and decided to go after them in Worcester.

On their way they stopped off at Mr. Spooner's and told his wife that they had found work nearby. She was glad of that and said that she would follow them to Worcester the next day on the pretense of wanting to see her sister there. Furthermore she promised that she would give each of them some money.

The next day in Worcester she did give Buchanan some paper money, as much cloth as made a shirt and six or seven hard dollars. She said that she had had not any more money but begged him to buy some poison.

He bought a drachm of Calomel and made it up into 20 papers which she was supposed to give her husband at night. (She never did.)

As the two men didn't have enough money to buy the files they wanted she said that she would try to buy them for them. They stayed a while longer in Worcester and then went on to Western, stopping at the house in Brookfield on the way.

There they found Ezra Ross with a brace of loaded pistols for he had promised Mrs. Spooner that he would kill her husband that night on his return from Cooley's tavern. After some discussion it was decided that the noise of the pistols would alarm the neighbors and so they decided to knock him down as he came into the house.

A lookout was stationed at the sittingroom door for his homecoming. In the meantime Mrs. Spooner served some flip and then dinner and then some rum.

Then Mr. Spooner came. According to the account of the murder published soon after the trial "it was time for the Devil to show his power over them who had forsaken God." And so the murder was committed.

William Brooks stood by the gate leading into the kitchen and knocked Mr. Spooner down with his hand when he went past him. When he tried to speak, Brooks took him by the throat and part-

LARK BUNTING

©1953 National Wildlife Federation

Here is a sparrow that even the rank amateur will recognize as being out of the ordinary run of sparrows. About 7 1/2 inches long with a wing-spread of 11 1/2 inches and a tail 5 1/2 inches it could be classed as larger than a Song Sparrow and smaller than a Towhee. The male in breeding plumage looks more like a small blackbird or maybe one might say a sparrow-sized blackbird. The male has large white wing patches. In the fall months the male, female and young are brown with striped breasts and white wing patches. The bird weighs about one ounce, which is more than a Junco weighs.

The Lark Bunting has been found all the way across the continent from the Pacific Coast to Massachusetts. The winter months are spent south of southern Texas, Southern Arizona on to Sonora and southern Lower California.

In all its range it is essentially a bird of the open plains rather than of the wooded areas. In its natural habitat it feeds on the seeds of weeds, grass and grain and on grasshoppers, beetles and weevils. In some instances it has been noted that 78 per cent of the food may be grasshoppers so there is little doubt about the usefulness of the bird under these circumstances.

The nest is built on the ground, often sunk into the ground. It is made of grasses and is lined with grasses. In the nest the female lays 4 to 5 eggs each weighing about 1-1/4 ounces. The eggs are light greenish blue rarely sprinkled with reddish brown spots. There may be two annual broods but this is not always the case. After the nesting period the male loses the black appearance which makes him look like a white-winged blackbird.

ly strangled him. The other men came out of the house and took Mr. Spooner's watch. Buchanan took off the victim's shoes and was then struck with the horror of what they had done. Ross and Brooks took Mr. Spooner's body and put it in the house where he met the widow Spooner who seemed "vastly confused."

She went upstairs and brought down money in a box. The box would not open and she could not find the key and asked Buchanan to break it open which he did. She gave the money to each of the three men and then distributed her late husband's clothes among them, one receiving a waistcoat and breeches another the same and a shirt.

The men soon set off for Worcester, planning to meet Mrs. Spooner there in a fortnight. But in the morning they "went to drinking" in a tavern and showed their money and silver buckles and the watch and people became suspicious of them.

News of the murder soon reached town and they were all, Mrs. Spooner, Ross, Brooks and Buchanan, taken in.

Trial took place right away. They were examined and the three men readily confessed their guilt while Mrs. Spooner admitting it, said still that she had planned the murder but did not really mean to have it go through. All were found guilty.

The date of execution was set for June 2, but it was set back a month while Mrs. Spooner was examined to determine if, as she said, she was with child. The committee, although they were later found to have been wrong, said that she was not.

And so the quartet met death on the gallows in Worcester, July 2, 1778 and Mrs. Spooner had the dubious distinction of becoming the first woman in Massachusetts to be sentenced to death by hanging.

Missionary-Evangelist - To Speak At Palmer Church On Friday

PALMER — Emil Aanderud, missionary-evangelist from Mexico city, will appear at the Faith Baptist church Friday evening Nov. 6, at 7:30 to speak of his experiences in Mexico. Rev. George Carapelle announced that the church is currently holding its services and activities at the Congregational church in Thordike.

Mr. Aanderud, a vibrant personality, is an artist of the trumpet. Before going into Christian work, he traveled with nationally known bands in this country and abroad. During World War II, he played with one of the leading bands in the U.S. Army. Since the close of the war, Aanderud has traveled extensively in Christian work, both in this country and abroad, appearing in many High School assemblies, colleges and churches.

Mr. Aanderud has spent the most part of the past two years "south of the border." He will give a startling, uncensored report of "Inside Mexico." World-conscious people will be particularly interested in learning of his many unique and extraordinary experiences south of the border. He will relate incidents that occurred in his travels that seem incredible to a modern age. His documentary reports read as the acts of a first century apostle. Mr. Aanderud will answer any questions that touch the relationship with our southern neighbors.

All Brookfield Schools To Be Closed Friday, Teachers Meeting
BROOKFIELD — Local schools will be closed all day tomorrow, November 6, in order that all teachers may attend the annual Worcester County Teachers' Association convention.

Between 9:45 and 11 A.M. various meetings will be held attended by teachers according to their special interests. Such topics as "Our Responsibility of Education in a Democracy," "The Elementary Role of the Elementary School Principal," "Today's Challenge to the Social Studies Teacher in the Secondary School," "Primary Needs of the Primary Child" will be discussed in the session.

In usual business procedure, securing possible costs in routine practice. But postal officials are barred from this established business practice.

As an example Post Office has been compelled to pay air mail rates and subsidies fixed by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Due to recent disclosures CAB now pays subsidies out of its pocket, as of Oct. 1st.

Thus an estimated total air mail subsidy for this year of $20,655,000 will not be charged against postal service.

But the postal service, paying rates of 6 and 53 cents per ton mile as fixed by the CAB, will pay airlines $56,070,000 this year for supposed service charges.

There is a lot of discussion that there is an element of subsidy even in the service rate of 45 cents per ton mile. In a recent

"SMALL BUSINESS"

The drive to increase postal rates on all mail, including newspapers, to reduce operating deficits, has up interesting side-light on U. S. Postal Service.

The list of top career postal employees is not the most happy one, and it is to their credit that they make the most efficient service.

Various times, criticism crops up and P. O. employees are staffed with people lacking understanding of business principles, and Congressional committee hearings on subject indicate statements of this nature are largely due to ignorance of the handicaps under which the service operates.

No one knows what a 15 cent per ton mile rate might do toward lowering other mail transportation costs. Testimony in a previous hearing established that in past few years rail mail rates have increased 85%.

Robert S. Henry of the Association of American Railroads estimates that rail rates for carrying mail are 16.2 cents per ton mile. In this rate, of course, is figured the transportation of the railway mail clerks.

However, competition has a strange way of working to lower costs. If the Post Office could fly mail for 15 cents per ton mile, in order to meet this competition, railroads might be able to reduce their mail rates.

It's interesting speculation, but will remain speculation unless Congress decides to give the P.O. authority to meet this competition on straight business principles.

But until such time that the Post Office is in a position to reject being loaded with unnecessary costs, and is able to bargain for services as a free agent on the open and competitive market, it appears that no increase in postal rates can be justified.

HAPPY HUNTING & FINE FISHING

WHERE DO WE STAND?
Dr. R. W. Eschmeyer, Executive Vice President, Sport Fishing Institute writes, "I have prepared two lists of states, they are in my desk drawer. One is a list of twelve states which appear to be leaders in fish conservation - the other is a list of twelve states which seem to be at the rear end of the national fish conservation procession. If they leave my office, they will make their exit via the wastebasket-in very small pieces."

That brings up the question, what constitutes progress in fish or game conservation? Studying the older fields such as medicine and agriculture, we find medicine has made unbelievable progress due to research, education, and constantly rising professional standards.

In agriculture the research program was accompanied by an extensive educational program. Trained county agents and soil conservationists have played an important role in this advancement. Here, as in medicine, research, education, and higher professional standards can be credited with the progress made. Let's measure fish conservation on this same basis.

We must get the facts (research), get the public to accept the facts (education), and have competent personnel to conduct the program. Let's not lose sight of the fact that fish conservation has become a highly specialized field - its no longer a matter of simply planting fish more or less indiscriminately.

At the top of this column I asked the question, Where Do We Stand? Dr. Eschmeyer wouldn't tell but I have an extremely strong hunch that the Bay State is one of the top states in the first list of twelve.

IT'S GETTING TO BE A HABIT
One after another Massachusetts is losing good men in the Division of Fisheries and Game. An announcement comes that Daniel Grice, Wildlife photographer has resigned. The education office will really miss him. In addition to research photography, two-color, sound movies, the first ever made by his office have been made available.

All youngsters attending the conservation camp, as well as their parents will probably remember Grice. One more in the long list of valuable men being lost to our sportsmen. Dan has accepted a similar position in Tennessee. It is impossible for our state to keep good men working for peanuts. How long will it last?

TO BE HONORED BY LASHAWAY ROD & GUN CLUB
I have been the recipient of many complimentary memberships, entries in fishing derbies, etc., and have been deeply touched by this thoughtfulness. On Tuesday night, November 10, the Lashaway Rod & Gun Club have requested my presence at their meeting at the Lashaway Inn in East Brookfield.

The officers and members wished to keep secret their intentions, but being doubtful as to my plans for that date, informed me that the club were going to present me with an honorary life membership in their club. I am keeping that date open fellows, and will be there. Thanks a lot for your good fellowship.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER GETS SHOT
In a group swapping hunting stories one of the stories was really outstanding. It seems this fellow with a companion flushed a grouse. The hero? shot both barrels and a bird dropped, he yelled, "I've got him", and ran over to pick it up. But it seems it wasn't the grouse he had shot at, the victim was an owl that was very much dead. The grouse escaped, and our hunter went home and put his gun in a closet, and he says it is still there.

To make matters worse, the friend had the owl mounted and every time our hero visits this pal, he is reminded of his last hunting trip. Oh no, I wouldn't tell you his name. He is a well known electrician and Deputy Fire Chief in South Barre. Oh! Oh! perhaps he will go hunting again — FOR ME. Sorry, but this was too good to keep.

OUTDOOR LIFE - NOVEMBER ISSUE
A clip from one of my columns appeared in the above magazine. It was the incident where an angler, Dick Cody fly casting hooked a bluegill. The bluegill was sized by a three pound bass, and the fins of the bluegill wedged in the mouth of the bass in a manner that held him captive. Dick fished both fish.

NO CAVIAR FOR GOVERNOR BUT FISH "MYSTERY" SOLVED: Governor Harter (second left) is shown examining the 20 pound, 42 inch sturgeon which was captured recently after dark off Oyster Rocks in Parker River, Newbury, by personnel of the State's Division of Marine Fisheries. For several years, this species of "mystery fish" was observed leaping out of the water in the Parker River, to the puzzlement of North Shore anglers. There were many theories that pollock, trained biological crew of the Commonwealth caught the sturgeon. Unfortunately, the sturgeon had apparently cast its spawn this spring because the two pounds of caviar normally found in a five to seven year old female sturgeon of this size were unavailable.

Public Should Not Subsidize Trucking Spokesman Says

BOSTON — The public should not have to pay for roads built to support heavy commercial trucks, an Eastern railroad spokesman said last week.

R. G. Henderson, freight manager of the Boston & Albany Railroad, told a session of the Eastern Railroad Presidents Conference course on community relations at Boston University that all forms of transportation — surface, air and water — should have an opportunity to compete on equal terms.

"It is sound policy," Mr. Henderson said, "that the users of every form of transportation be required to pay the full cost of that form of transportation, including their fair share of the cost of facilities provided through the use of public monies. And when we say their fair share we mean just that and nothing more."

Railroads, he pointed out, receive no subsidy of any kind. The speaker cited as an example of subsidy to other forms of transportation the "more than three billion dollars" of taxpayers' money which he said the federal government has spent on rivers and harbors since the turn of the century.

Mr. Henderson said that in addition to mail subsidies the airlines receive, they have free use of beacons, radio beams, special weather service, radio and radar towers, provided and maintained at a federal expenditure of about $100,000,000 annually.

"The full cost of providing passenger service by air between New York and Chicago is approximately twice the cost of providing passenger service of the finest type by railroad," he said.

"But because the taxpayers pay about half the cost for everyone who wishes to fly, the airlines can afford rates that enable them to take on a large share of the profitable long-haul passenger business."

Referring to railroad competition from the highways, Mr. Henderson said that there is abundant "irrefutable evidence that large and heavy commercial vehicles are receiving subsidies at both state and federal levels."

He mentioned studies in California, Oregon, Washington, Illinois, New York and New Jersey, adding that:

"Each of these studies has indicated that large and heavy trucks are not paying their fair share of highway costs at the state level."

"It is the philosophy of Eastern railroads," Mr. Henderson said, "that government is under no obligation to furnish highway facilities not needed by the general public merely to accommodate large and heavy trucks engaged in commercial transportation. We believe that trucks should be adjusted to roads designed and built for the use of the general public, rather than that roads should be adjusted to the necessities of large and heavy trucks engaged in commercial enterprise."

The advantage of this subsidy to the trucking industry, the speaker pointed out, is shown in interstate Commerce Commission figures which indicate Class 1 motor carriers on the average pay only 3.7 cents out of each revenue dollar for "their untrammelled use of our highway system as their main line right of way."

On the other hand, Mr. Henderson continued, a comparative figure for the railroad industry would be the 23 cents out of every revenue dollar which the railroads must spend to provide their own roadway facilities.

Woman Learning To Drive, In Accident At Brookfield Sunday

BROOKFIELD — The intersection of River St. and the state road was the scene of an unusual automobile accident last Sunday afternoon about 3. A car operated by Mrs. L. E. Williams of 105 Main St., Southbridge entered the intersection from a westerly direction and suddenly swerved to make the turn on River rather than Common St. Mrs. Williams, who was learning to drive, saw a car operated by James Allen of Central St. heading towards her vehicle on River St. Since she was on the wrong side of the street, her husband grabbed the wheel to avoid a collision, and his car struck a telephone pole, causing considerable damage to the front of the vehicle.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Edith Shaw, a passenger in the former's car, were treated by Dr. R. F. McCarthy for shock and minor injuries. Officers of the Brookfield barracks investigated the crash.

Class I Milk Price Will Stay At October Level

The New England basic Class I milk price to producers will stay at the October level for November, Richard D. Apin, Federal Milk Market Administrator for the Greater Boston, Lowell-Lawrence, Springfield, and Worcester, Massachusetts, marketing areas, said in announcing a Class I price for November of $5.65 in the basic 201-210-mile zone and a price of $6.17 at city plants.

The economic index in the New England basic Class I price formula rose slightly from last month. Mr. Apin said the small increase in the economic index was due to a slight rise in the wholesale commodity price index for September and an increase in the consumer income index for the third quarter of 1953. New England basic wage rates October 1 were $4.85 for the level of milk. This gain was offset by a decrease of 46 cents a ton in the price of dairy ration for the year ended October 17. For the year ended October 24, the price of dairy ration averaged $79.50 a ton. Mr. Apin released the following estimates of the basic prices for October: in the 201-210-mile zone of the Boston milk city plants: Boston, $5.83; Lawrence, $5.98; Springfield, $5.98; and Worcester, $6.00.

Mr. Zabeck West Saturday

BROOKFIELD — Miss Prizio, daughter of Mr. Theodore Prizio of West Brookfield, was married to Mr. S. Zabeck of South Warren, in Sacred Heart Church, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. Michael Sheehan performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace, over slipper satin with open neckline edged with Chantilly lace and medallion applique. The gown had a fitted lace bodice over slipper satin with a dirndl bouffant Chantilly-lace scalloped-edge skirt with a tiered knife plaited nylon petticoat, a long Chantilly-lace train and slipper-satin slip with knife tip veil of French illusion tulle with a matching lace crown caught with sequins and edged with tulle ruching. She carried a cascade of white roses with stephanotis streamers.

Miss Bernice T. Prizio, sister of the bride was maid of honor and wore green velvet with tulle skirt and carried yellow pompons. The bridesmaids were Miss Katharine Snyder and Mrs. Mary Trubel of North Brookfield. Both were gowned in dusty rose velvet with tulle skirts. They also carried yellow pompons.

Karen Ann Snyder was flower girl and was attired in yellow taffeta. Her brother, Barry Michael Snyder was ring bearer.

The bridegroom was attended by John Samek of West Warren.

The ushers were Horace Neimeis of West Warren and Michael Trubel of North Brookfield.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Golden Gate. For a honeymoon to Niagara Falls the bride wore a suit of orchid wool with dark accessories and an orchid corsage.

Both are graduates of Warren High school. The bride is employed in the office of McLaurin Jones Co. of Brookfield and the bridegroom is with the Air Force, now stationed in Pensacola, Florida.

"Over the ages to change the law of supply and demand—through government controls, private combination, or any other means — has eventually resulted in failure and, in many cases, national disaster.

NORTH BROOKFIELD — The annual inspection of the Fire Department occurs Saturday afternoon. Marble tablets bearing the names of those citizens who lost their lives in defense of the old flag, have been placed on either side of the town hall.

BROOKFIELD — Hon. Washington Tufts for 34 years agent of the Boston and Albany road is hale and hearty at 74 as most men at 40. But he does believe in the democratic party. At a meeting of the W.C.T.U. of Brookfield on Wednesday Mrs. J. S. Barrows read an interesting and comprehensive report of the annual meeting at Fall River the other day, to which herself and Mrs. Dr. Grover were the delegates.

SPENCER — John O'Connor is making an extensive addition to his residence on School street. Miss Mamie Slayton has returned from her visit south looking very much improved in health. Business in the shoe department of the big shop is rushing. A few minutes past one o'clock Saturday the top of the smoke stack at E. E. Stone & Co's mill yielded to the elements and fell to the ground. No one was injured. But it furnished an opportunity for joker DeWolfe to make remarks about taking the chimneys in in stormy weather. Alec Ethier, clerk at H. P. Howland's grain store on Wall street has been sworn in as public weigher. Conny Mack and family of Washington, D.C., are expected here in a few days. He is to play ball in California this winter. An umbrella with a changeable handle is one of the novelties of the season developed by the long rainy season. They are a great convenience for parties who are disposed to borrow.

Podunk — It is estimated that Podunk has fall pigs enough to supply all the surrounding towns. Nearly every farmer has from one to eight dozen each and they are old enough to be taken away. Such numbers was (note to printer: stet) never known before and they propose to continue the business providing they can find a market for them.

Colonial Quaboag

by ELIZABETH CARLTON COES

Concluding chapter of this series translates and interprets some "place-names" by which the Quaboag Indian indicated spots in area.

Chapter 10

When this series of ten articles was coming into form in our mind we decided, and then glibly promised in print, to include one or two local place-names to be written under the watchful eye of one William Roberts Carl of Springfield, recognized authority on Algonquian place-names, who happens to be one of our parents. We say "glibly" for we apparently approached this with wide-eyed innocence, having no good excuse for not knowing what a colossal amount of work is needed to analyze each Indian word.

The language of the Quaboag Indians was that of their parent tribe the Algonquians. The term "place-name" is exactly that—a term describing a place where the speaker happened to be at the moment and always includes a description of the place. The Indian knew no names as such. (He never had a name himself until given one by the English.) Some locative word spellings have been so distorted in repetition and copying down that it is impossible to trace their meanings. To its users the Algonquian language was never a written language and pronunciation of the same word obviously varied from place to place. As the English tried to copy the syllables they substituted sounds with known spellings and undoubtedly lost some of the original sounds. Neither was it an acute, definitive language, for the locale of the place named, itself, has to be taken into consideration in translating into English.

In the correct interpretation of the words which are used in this concluding chapter of this series of Colonial Quaboag, all credit must go to Mr. Carlton. (If any misinterpretations are here they have been caused by a layman's philologist's lack of understanding of the fineness in correlating the root of a word with its locale. However we have worked carefully and believe that all interpretations are right insofar as they carry something of the original meaning of the word.)

Perhaps in doing a regional article we should first take the word Massachusetts. Divided into Algonquian syllables we find "mass", "wachu", "et". "Mass" signifies great; "wachu", mountain, and "et" does the work of the preposition "at"; therefore we find "Massachusetts" places us "at the great mountain." (In this word mountain may signify the Blue Hills or some other hills along the coast.)

Lashaway is found in the area as the name of a dammed pond in East Brookfield. The breakdown of the word indicates that probably part of the area there carried the name at one time. Lashaway is the same word as Nashua. Ashway, Ashualot and Natchaug and all are found in many places in New England, notably in New Hampshire and in our own area on a map of the original deed from the Indians. Lashaway is shown near the head of Wickabog pond. It signifies "midway", "between" and was usually applied to a point of land between where two streams meet. In West Brookfield it names the point between Wickabog pond and the Quaboag river; in East Brookfield the point between Seven-mile and Five-mile rivers.

Near the West Brookfield line in Warren we find Naltaug brook (earlier spelled Naultaug). Breaking this into Nal-taug we find the word "nalla", "nanna", "nallek" showing above or below as the case may be; "taug" ("paug") has the meaning pond. Naltaug effect of "below the pond" with therefore might translate to the implication of being below the settlement at Wickabog.

Quaboag breaks into two syllables. The first, "qua" is defective as it is too short and abbreviated in writing. It is possibly taken from "m'gwik" which was often shortened to "qua". The general significance of the word is, in effect, low, sunken lands; "boag" "haug" is a water word and signifies "still water", and "pond". Therefore, Quaboag translates to "lowland, still water" and refers to the river and pond of that name.

Wickabog, the name which the English gave to the pond in West Brookfield, breaks into two parts; "wicka", with the significance in effect of "end" and "boag", also "haug, bega" water words with the translatable meaning "pond" and "still water". In this manner we find that Wickabog does not refer to the body of water at West Brookfield but to an Indian camping ground at the end of the pond about where the so-called Old Indian burying ground is located. (In fact this settlement is the reason that the ground is so-called.)

Little Alum pond, while perhaps not exactly in the area covered by these articles, is so close as to deserve an interpretation. "Alum" is an Indian word for sachusett places us "at the great mountain." (In this word mountain may signify the Blue Hills or some other hills along the coast.)

In the southwestern part of Brookfield is a section which is called Potepaug to this day. One of the transportation routes for school children is covered by the so-called Potepaug bus which goes through this part of town. "Potepaug" evolves into "paqua" which signifies out-of-the-way, off the road; here again we find "paug" meaning pond. The name probably referred to Baker pond which is not near the early path through town and therefore is out-of-the-way pond.

In the original plan of Leicester, Paxton was included and therefore Hasebunashik hill can be claimed as an area place-name. However it appears to be a misnomer for the reference is not to a hill but to a swamp. "Ash", "sak", "lak" show a meaning of green as under-ripe and usually signify meadow, "we" is a root word for water. The rest of the syllables in the word are so distorted as to be untranslatable. But the indication here is that the word is misapplied to a hill, for the root of the word hill is "adene" or "ahden" as in Katahdin, "most important hill" in Maine.

Wachusett being part of the same word as Massachusetts signifies "at the mountain."

In the Northern part of New Braintree and in Braintree is a section called by the Indians Wimmusset which has been changed to Menemeseet and now is Wimmisett. Syllabically it breaks to "wini" or "mini" signifying many and "musset" which derives from "mushayus" which was a wet thing; the Indian name for mink! Therefore we discover that Wimmusset means "many wet things place", or, a good place for mink!

Mason's brook, which was dammed to make Rice's mill pond and Rice's reservoir in Brookfield, was called Masquabamisk by the Indians. Here again we find the root "isk" meaning something green; "mas" great "m'qua", big, long sunken; "bam" broad; therefore, a broad extended bog covered with grass and reeds.

The meadows along the Quaboag river were called Nanantomqua, with the significance of above or below the upright rocks. A walk into the upland countryside above either side of the river meadows will soon illustrate what was meant here.

Quacumquaset, another pond in the area is not a place name but is named after an Indian sachem and is therefore translatable. And so we come to Podunk, the most controversial word of all!

First we shall say of Podunk that it does not mean "place of burning" as so erroneously reported in Temple's "History of North Brookfield," a generally reliable, if restricted, source of information. We shall not go into the reason why the word is not as Mr. Temple translated it but instead we shall show what the true meaning of the word is and why.

Due to the lack of regular school facilities 86 pupils to school regularly in Memorial Town Hall.

Briefly, the meaning of Podunk is, in effect, "a place where a river makes a reverse turn." We shall show where this is applicable to the Podunk of the Brookfields and to another Podunk near Hartford, Connecticut. The first mention of Podunk in this area appeared in the deed which was given to the English by the sachem Shatoockquis in 1663. In this deed the section called Podunk is pin-pointed and described as "a little meadow called Podunk at the north end of Quaboag pond."

Podunk also appears on the deed given the English at Windsor, Connecticut. Mr. Quinn, the topographer of the two localities shows them to be alike in a general way. Both are meadows; both have rivers running through them. In both localities the rivers make round turns and flow back in nearly the opposite direction. At Brookfield the river swings around to run parallel to the pond leaving a strip of land only wide enough for a road between it and the pond. At Windsor, the Podunk river flows into the meadow in a northwesterly direction, turns north, then swings around and goes south parallel to the Connecticut river, leaving a narrow strip of land between it and the Connecticut and enters the larger river where the bank has finally eroded away.

"In its first Connecticut form Podunk appeared in 1636 as Potaeke which is a round or circle word. Early Connecticut records do not spell the word twice alike. It appeared as Podanke in 1641, then Potunde in 1671 and finally evolved into Podunk in 1686 which is where we find it first in Brookfield in 1665.

"Round words of the language were, peteek, round; peteg, round, spherical; petek, back turns, half circle. Pika, petek, petek are roots which apply to places in which the distinctive feature is a bend or turn sweeping around to the reverse of the original direction."

Taking into consideration the topography of the areas named Podunk and finding them so similar in that each is a meadow and that near each the related stream makes a reverse turn and runs parallel to the larger body of water before entering it and where a long narrow neck of land separates the stream before it turns into the larger body of water, the meaning of Podunk clarifies into the definition given above "a place where a river makes a reverse turn."

It is really a much pleasanter, if less romantic, name than the incorrect one and inasmuch as local Indians didn't burn captives it is even more logical than the preceding proof indicates!

In conclusion to the first ten Colonial Quaboag articles, with apologies to Roger Williams who in 1643 published a "Key to the Languages of America," we shall say "Hawunshet, Ntanneimmin, Tautineawayan." Farewell. We shall be going. We thank you.

The Iron Content Of Brookfield Water Once Made Town Spa And Health Resort

BROOKFIELD — Now that the town of Brookfield has appropriated money to be spent removing the iron from the town water which is drawn from springs on the shores of the Quaboag river, it comes to light that sometime before 1828, these same mineral waters were a spa for invalids and drew people from far and wide who came and drank their waters!

Many cures were attributed to the "chalybeate springs". They were found to be "highly beneficial in use for dyspepsia and similar diseases." A project was formed to protect the springs from occasional inundation by the rising pond and "to render it a permanent resort."

How surprised our town was of that day would have been the idea of spending $100,000 to remove the iron from the water. Robert was employed by McLaurin-Jones Paper Co. field before enlistment.

Robert was employed by McLaurin-Jones Paper Co. field before enlistment.

WEST BROOKFIELD — The P.T.A. will sponsor a square dance tomorrow evening, November 13, in the auditorium of the Fort Gilbert School. Music will be provided by Wally Smith and his band, and dancing will be from 8 to 12.

Proceeds of this square dance will go towards the purchase of the much-needed freezer for the new Fort Gilbert School. A fund was started some time ago for the freezer but recently contributions have slowed down. Arrangements for the dance are being made by the "Village Squares," the square dance club organized some time ago by Mrs. Stanley Kelley and Elvin Ploof. Tickets are very modestly priced at fifty cents and the committee hopes that many not only from West Brookfield, but other Quabog Area towns will turn out for an evening's fun for a very worthy cause.

Brookfield Woman Saves Grandchild From Infuriated Ram

BROOKFIELD — Mrs. Helen Rohan of Long Hill road proved herself both courageous and quick-thinking on Monday of this week when she saved her grand-daughter, Eileen Buckles, 18 months, from an attack by a vicious ram in the front yard of the Rohan home.

The child, daughter of the former Beatrice Rohan, is visiting her grandparents at present and was playing in the yard while Mrs. Rohan was hanging out the family wash. The animal, owned by Michael Pecha, next-door neighbor, wandered into the yard and attacked the little girl. Mrs. Rohan tried unsuccessfully to drive the animal away with a stick. She finally hit the infuriated beast with a piece of iron pipe which was lying nearby, killing him.

The child was treated by Dr. Millman Pease for cuts and bruises on the face, head and hands. Chief of Police Victor Guerin, also a resident of Long Hill road, investigated the incident and removed the carcass of the ram.

Pole Barn Being Built For 4-H Fairs At Camp

NORTH BROOKFIELD — Local 4-H'ers will be interested in the progress made in the construction of a pole barn at the 4-H Camp in Spencer.

Donald Proctor of Spencer, chairman of a fund raising committee, has watched the growth of the Worcester County 4-H Fair for a great deal of interest. Mr. Proctor, a prominent Ayshire farmer and father of some very successful 4-H'ers, noted that the fair was growing.

Under the chairmanship of William I. Boyd of North Brookfield, and the assistance of approximately eighty other civic minded people of the county, in the past few years, the number of entries have increased from 100 to almost 300.

The fair committee has been working almost $900 each year. Mr. Proctor suggested a barn at the camp would be used for a great many occasions, too.

His idea got the first real endorsement when the Worcester County Farm Bureau voted $200 to start. Chairman William I. AREA SCOUTING ENCOURAGED BY NEWS OF MOVEMENT'S GROWTH

Scouting throughout the area got real encouragement with news that growth of the Boy Scout movement has required the building at a new, larger National Headquarters.

Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, has announced that contracts have been let for the Headquarters consisting of a two-story office building and one-story warehouse being erected on a 40-acre tract in North Brunswick Township, New Jersey, about two miles southeast of New Brunswick.

Occupancy of the premises is planned for early next summer. Present administrative offices of the Boy Scouts of America occupy three floors at 521 West 57th Street, New York.

Dr. Schuck said that the new air-conditioned National Office of the Boy Scouts of America will meet the need for additional space.

made necessary by great growth and the desirability of bringing together, for administrative and coordinative purposes, the Supply Service and the rest of the national Boy Scout organization.

The entire operation including land and construction will cost approximately $3,000,000.

The Boy Scouts of America recorded an active membership of 3,183,266 boys and adult leaders last Dec. 31st. The boy membership has increased 41.3 percent in the last four years and in the same period its adult leaders increased 37 percent. The movement's monthly magazine "Boys' Life" increased from 467,000 nearly five years ago to its present 885,000 circulation. The increase in membership was accompanied by a large increase in the Supply Service operations, over-taxing present facilities.

The National Council also owns the Schuff Scout Reservation at Mendham, N. J. where since 1933 it trains men for professional careers in the organization, and conducts many training courses for volunteer leaders. The Schuff Reservation will be a 45-minute drive from the new National Scout Office.

Mr. Proctor is chairman of a committee raising funds to construct a building at the Camp to house 4-H livestock exhibits at the 4-H Fair.

GUEST EDITORIALS
TALK IS CHEAP
 Editor's note: Members of the Journalism class at the Brookfield High school were invited to write editorials for this paper. We have chosen the two which we considered had most pertinent subject matter, one contributed by a girl and the other by a boy.
 No one realizes how they can hurt another by talking even though they do not always mean what they say. Children in school, especially boys, do not seem to care what they say. Boys these days are very boisterous and do not care what kind of language they use when in the presence of girls. As you know, some girls use the same kind of language but, as you must have been able to tell, it did not sound very well. The boys like to pick out a certain girl and make fun of her, talk cheap to her and on some occasions may "try something." This certainly is no credit to the boy or boys and the girl certainly is very hurt deep inside even though she may not show it. If boys are smart, they will become wise to the fact that a foul tongue will get them nothing but disrespect and into trouble at one time or another in life.

WE NEED A RECREATION PROGRAM!
 Since Brookfield is in a stage of rapid progress, we would like to mention the idea of a recreation program. Improvements in the town have been progressing at a rapid pace in the last year, therefore we should think seriously about this type of thing at this time.
 We need a recreation program for the benefit of the town and the teenagers both that would include a well-rounded variety of activities. As it is now, the young people of this town, on the average, have no place to go to when it comes to the question of entertainment unless they go to the city. Hunting for fun does not work out too well, for wise choices of humor and excitement are not always made. As evidence of this, we offer you the number of traffic and vandalism charges that are blamed on the younger set.
 The advantages of a recreation program to our town and the teenagers are:
 1. It will teach youngsters the meaning of fair play.
 2. It will acquaint them with the use of team work.
 3. It will teach them how to be both good winners and good losers.
 The cost of a recreation program is not great. We are sure that the young people of this town will work for what they really want. After we get the "ball rolling" the organization could be self supporting through the sale of dance tickets, dues and an occasional food sale.
 A well balanced program would really help the townspeople, for it will make our homes a happier and better place to live in. So, come on, let's get going.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Results of Last Week's Elections Are Being Sifted For Evidence of Political Trends

Did The People Speak?
 The past week has been a field day for editorial writers, columnists, radio and TV commentators, for at least a few elections were held on November 3 in scattered states, cities and Congressional districts. Everyone, Democrat and Republican alike, has been sifting the meager returns for scraps of evidence pointing towards trends to be expected in 1954 and even in 1956.
 There are many on both sides of the political fence who profess to see in the results which placed Democrats in the Governorships of both Virginia and New Jersey and sent a Democrat to replace an Ike man in a wealthy New Jersey Congressional district, definite displeasure with the Eisenhower administration. Many also appear to be surprised that Robert F. Wagner, Jr., ardent Fair Dealer, was elected Mayor of New York City so handsily over his Republican opponent and the Liberals' well-known candidate, Rudolph Halley.
 As we have noted many times in these columns, there are deep-seated and serious reasons for a sober belief that the Eisenhower administration is disappointed in the results of 1952. That it has lost ground with many elements of the voting population, that many far-reaching measures must be taken by the Republicans in Congress and at the White House, if they hope to return a Republican Congress to power next November.
 However it seems only reasonable to suggest that the scattered returns of November 3, in elections held on frequently intensely personal and local issues, are not a fair barometer of national political trends. In New York City, surely, no one should have been surprised at Wagner's victory. The Republican candidate was little known and not a compelling political personality, while Mr. Halley appeared to be running chiefly on the slightly showman's fame of his TV appearances two years ago during the Kefauver committee crime investigations. Further, the strength of the Democratic machine in the great metropolis has remained basically great over the years.
 In New Jersey, the Republicans were running against many seemingly well-founded accusations of corruption and fraud in high political offices, further, they were without the candidacy of popular Governor Driscoll, who refused to run again. The candidate, Paul Troast, further placed his head in a noose by the famous

Today's Meditation
 from "The Upper Room"
 Go ye therefore, and teach all nations. (Matthew 28:19.) Read John 4:31-38.
 In 1260 Nicola and Maffeo Polo, Venetian traders, made the long overland journey to Peking. The great Mongol ruler, Kubla Khan welcomed them. Nine years later when they started home, he gave them a letter to the Pope asking for 100 monks to teach the people Christianity. When the Poles returned to China in 1271, Nicola's son, Marco, accompanied them, but not 100 monks. Thus one great missionary opportunity was lost. How different history might have been if the Church had met the challenge.
 In some countries in recent years doors of opportunity have been slammed shut. In other places, doors of opportunity are open as never before. It is our duty to work and pray that these opportunities today may not be lost, that the money and workers to supply these needs may be found.
PRAYER
 Our heavenly Father, forbid that we should fail Thee. Let not indifference, fear, greed, or sloth hinder the spreading of the good news of Christ. Give us faith, courage, consecration, and zeal to meet the challenge of the world's needs. In the name of Christ who taught His disciples to pray, "Our Father . . ."

 Governor
A PROCLAMATION
 November is the month in which all Americans traditionally set aside a day to offer thanks to the Almighty. We give thanks for our Nation where the rights and liberties of the individual are safeguarded for all. Religion is the source of the good and abundant life.
 We have a national, non-sectarian program sponsored by a committee composed of laymen from the three major faiths, and supported by twenty-three national religious bodies, seeking to encourage increased attendance and support for all churches and synagogues.
 In these days of uncertainty and strife, we have greater cause than ever to reaffirm the spiritual values on which this Nation was founded. As we turn more and more to our place of worship, we find our strength constantly renewed by the inspiration and guidance to be found only in religion.
 NOW, THEREFORE, I, Christian A. Herter, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, do hereby proclaim the month of November, 1953 as asking each citizen to attend his chosen house of worship throughout the month and regularly every Sabbath in the year ahead, in order that religion may be strengthened as a daily force in American life.
 GIVEN at the Executive Chamber Boston, this second day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and seventy-eighth.
 CHRISTIAN A. HERTER
 Secretary of the Commonwealth.

 The Lesson-Sermon "Mortals and Immortals," Bible passages include the following words of Christ Jesus: "He that is of God heareth His words" (John 8:47).
 From "Science and Health" by Mary Baker Eddy, the following was read:

 The Golden Text is from 1 John 3:9:

State Treasurer Asks Help In Stopping Atrocities
 State Treasurer Foster Furcolo has asked the American people to demand that President Eisenhower take immediate action to stop the massacre of thousands of Polish soldiers by the Communists in World War II.
 Furcolo's statement follows: "The United States Government's 'do-nothing' attitude about the Katyn Forest Massacre of thousands of Polish soldiers by the Communists in World War II has been one of the most shameful and cowardly acts of the American government. America must wake up and realize that thousands of American prisoners who were murdered by the Communists in Korea would be alive today if our Government had followed the recommendations of the Congressional Committee investigating the Katyn Forest Massacre."
 "I was a member of that seven-man Congressional Committee and our report blue-printed the Communist pattern of mass murder of prisoners and predicted the identical thing would happen in Korea. I urged a program that would stop such wholesale butchery. Nothing was done."
 "Twice in the past year, I pleaded with President Eisenhower to take action that would save the lives of prisoners. I regret that the proper action was not taken in spite of the warning."
 "For a long time, those of us who served on the Katyn Forest Congressional Committee have been trying to awaken the American public to what would happen to our prisoners in Korea. It has happened. It will happen again unless President Eisenhower and the Administration do something to carry out the recommendations of our Congressional Committee made over a year ago. Those recommendations outlined peaceful steps that will save the lives of prisoners of war."
 "The Administration must be forced to realize that the people of America demand such action in the part of our Governmental leaders. The President has had a year in which to act and nothing has been done. I told him a year ago that every day of delay would mean the murder of more American prisoners. I repeat my warning today."
 "I hope the people of America will demand that President will act immediately."
Young Folk Interested In Progress Of Massachusetts
 Young America is interested. In the opinion of Elmer E. Young, a general representative for the new Massachusetts Department of Commerce, that is news . . . good news.
 Speaking before a civics class at the invitation of William Hewson of the Chelmsford Junior High School, Mr. Young found the pupils—ranging in age from 12 to 14 years—unusually interested. A deluge of intelligent questions were aimed at Young regarding the progress of Massachusetts as a state.
 Explaining generally the operation of state government, Mr. Young spoke of the Commerce Department and its functions and Gets 5-year term . . .

Plans To Extend Driver Education Now Underway
 Plans to expand the driver education movement intensively in the nation's rural areas, where it is weakest because many small school districts feel they cannot afford courses in safe driving in their high schools, are under way following the 11th annual driver education breakfast conference which featured the insurance industry's participation in the recent National Safety Congress at Chicago.
 The conference, sponsored jointly by the accident prevention department of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies and New York University's Center for Safety Education, which was founded and is largely supported by the Association, marked the twentieth anniversary of the driver education movement. It was highlighted by reports of two states which have begun to solve the cost problem in rural sections by instituting a cooperative "circular course" in driver education in order to make it available to students in several adjoining counties or school districts.
 Driver education administration of 31 states who attended the breakfast forum were offered this cost-saving plan as one means of providing training in safe driving in thousands of "little red high schools" comprising most of the 57 percent of the nation's 20,084 secondary schools which still do not offer such courses.

International Friendship Being Stressed In Area Schools

International friendship between school children in this country and children in foreign lands is being stressed by the Junior Red Cross at schools in Worcester and the 32 surrounding towns, including Leicester, Spencer, The Brookfields, and Warren conduct their annual enrollment for service.

It is reported in Washington that the retail-sales-tax idea which the administration entertained for several weeks received such violent reaction from the public it actually scared its proponents. It was for this reason that President Eisenhower promised that the government would not seek to put a sales tax on articles when the retailer sells them.

The Treasury Department is now studying a plan to put a sales tax at the manufacturers' level. It has been pointed out that such a tax would be passed on to the consumer in higher prices. At the moment it is predicted that the reaction to such a tax will be as great as against the retail tax and the administration will drop the idea.

Of all its problems, taxation is the biggest headache facing the administration. The G.O.P. campaigned on the promise of lower taxes, a balanced budget, and free enterprise. As yet the administration has been unable to meet the lower taxes promise.

To find itself unable to balance the budget because of rising costs of government operation, foreign commitments, and national security. It can not reduce taxes without a balanced budget and it can not balance the budget with reduced taxes.

As a result the administration has been searching for a way to eliminate unpopular taxes and substitute other measures not so unpopular. Here again it faces an impossible task. The seed has been planted that taxes should be reduced. The natural result has been that all taxes are unpopular. That is not a new thought as far as the American people are concerned.

They have never liked paying taxes; they will never like to do so.

President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson are not as far apart on foreign policy as most Republican and Democrat politicians would like to believe.

For instance, Stevenson recently suggested that a nonaggression pact with Russia might be a good thing to relieve tension in Europe. Later, after a call at the White House, Stevenson reported that the President to be "very interested" in the plan.

Stevenson said of the plan: "If Russia was unwilling to accept the proposal it would be rather apparent that her peaceful professions aren't as sincere as they might seem." He added: "It would put the Russians on the spot with respect to their intentions."

The fact that the American people are more religious than at any period in their history is substantiated by a recent report of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.

The council reports the latest revision of the Bible has sold more copies in its first year than any other book ever published.

The revised version of the Bible is the book of 15 years by 32 scholars and was authorized by 40 Protestant denominations. It has been received by waves of praise, as well as bitter criticism. However, it has been approved by most major church bodies including many that did not participate in the project.

Building For Parish House And Social Center At St. Aloysius Church Purchased By Bishop

ROCHDALE — The land and a two-story building at Depot Square, occupied by the Red and White Grocery Store, has been sold to the Roman Catholic Bishop of Worcester by the owners, Anthony F. and Jeanette Brown of 12 Chalmers Road, Worcester.

Rev. Francis R. Rupprecht, pastor of St. Aloysius Church, said the property will be converted into a parish house and social center and that it will be available for occupancy by January 28, 1954 or sooner. Fr. Rupprecht said the new parish center will serve for both social and religious activities and the parish school of religion will also be conducted there. Social activities will include suppers, plays and teen-age dances. He is considering the installation of a movable stage and eventually the building will be equipped with a kitchen and other facilities necessary to serve church suppers.

The building is 35 feet by 60 feet, of cement block construction, and was erected by Mr. Brown in 1943, a year after fire had destroyed the building in which he had operated a store since 1935.

A small waterhole was insufficient to save a barn and forty cows when the milk room began to blaze not long ago. Even a pile of water at the right time would stop most fires, yet for a large farm building, a half dozen 2 1/2 inch streams may not be enough, once it is involved. Make the size ample for any contingency when you plan your farm waterhole, and allow for the thickness of winter ice.

HAPPY HUNTING & FINE FISHING BY LEE MATTHEWS

HUNTER — FARMER MEETING

The Bay State Hound & Wildlife Protective Association are holding a meeting for all farmers and hunters, at Legion Hall, Rutland, Sunday Nov. 15th. The time is 3 P. M. This is a chance for all hunters and farmers to get together and talk over their troubles. This is one meeting where your talk may help to bring a better understanding of one another's problems.

Let me assure you at this time that there are regular guys in both the farmer and hunter groups. Come to this meeting and find out. Refreshments will be served.

WHY WE LOSE GOOD MEN

Let's take the average salary of the technically-trained fisheries worker in the Northeast states. They receive about $3732 per year, and this makes them among the lowest paid in the country. Compare this with the national average of the following trades among non-professional, non-supervisory employees: general building construction, $4100—general metal industries, $3730—electricians, $5100—plumbers, $4560—plasterers, $4480. As of June, we are informed that the anthracite coal miners were averaging $92 per week or a total of $4784 per year.

The above figures tell a rather sorry tale! Fish conservation has become a highly skilled science, calling for some years of specialized training. We are demanding more fish for more fishermen year after year, and we are depending on these efficient fisheries workers to provide these fish. If low salaries are certainly no incentive for them to do their best. Low incomes lead to low morale. Low wages enable other states to lure our best workers away from us, and who can blame the workers?

If the Northeast states wish to have good fishing and keep our best men we must first of all pay our trained workers something more than starvation wages.

THIS MUST BE (TRUE)

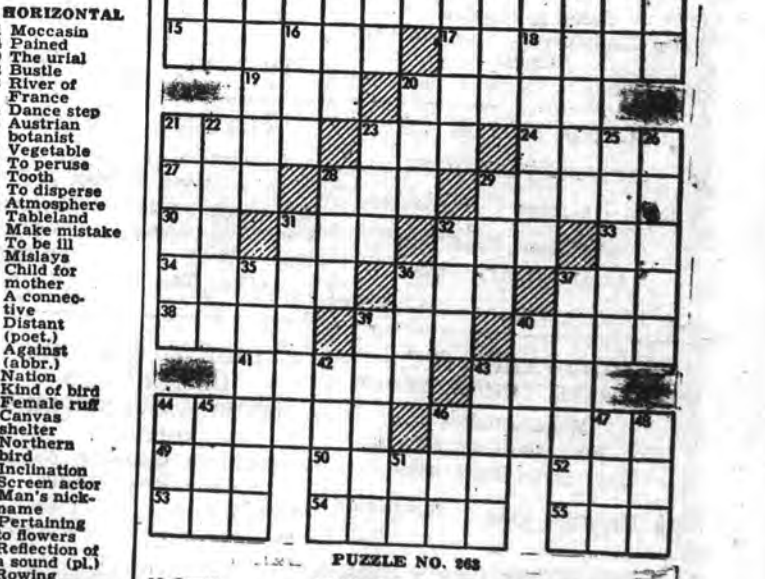

Richard Rice Jr. and his pal, Jackie O'Shea fishing Country Pond, New Hampshire were having rather a quiet time in their boat, still-fishing. Dick was aroused by a sudden strike, and his line parted between the float and the tip of the pole.

As the boys started for shore in disgust, they spotted the float skipping along on top of the water. After following it for about two and a half hours the boys retrieved the line and were rewarded with a two and a half pound bass. How do I know this is a TRUE story? Well it came from Conservation Office Clark (TRUE).

A TIP IN TIME

Many years ago while deer hunting in the Adirondacks a member of our party had a chance to bag a real trophy buck. This animal had one of the finest racks I have ever seen, and it was my thought what a beautiful head the hunter would have to mount for his den. The man was a splendid shot and tried to shoot the buck, but his rifle refused to fire for the simple reason the oil he had used on the action had congealed. Many of my friends have found that Fulerum oil does not congeal in the coldest weather. If your favorite dealer cannot supply you, send one dollar for a bottle with applicator top, to the Fulerum Oil Co., Franklin, Penna.

TEEN - AGE TOPICS THE HOT ROD CLUB

BY RICHARD MUNDELL

First of all let's get the true definition of "hot rod." Most people think a hot rod is anything that has four wheels, beat up, old, and goes fast. Well, they're wrong. A true hot rod is a very safe vehicle, in fact, a lot safer than a great many passenger cars. It has been built entirely over again with the brake, engine, front end suspension, steering, and road ability greatly improved. A hot rod is constantly checked and re-checked for the slightest defect. A great many of the safety improvements of the automobile have originated on a hot rod.

The Hot Rod Club is an organization formed to promote safe and legalized hot rodding. The hot rod club sponsors drags (the hot rod word for races) which are held on a drag strip especially constructed for that purpose or on an abandoned air strip. Before each drag each car undergoes a rigid inspection. Each car must pass the test one-hundred percent or it is not allowed to run.

The club also sponsors reliability runs. A reliability run is not to see how fast you can go, but to see how well you can drive and follow instructions. A course is marked off before the run and an instruction sheet is given to each driver telling where to go, the distance, and the time it takes driving at a speed less than the legal speed limit. Points are deducted against the driver for any law violations and for driving too early.

or too late. More points are given for being too early than too late. A hot rod club has very strict by-laws. Any person who is fined for any traffic violation is fined double by the hot rod club and his membership is suspended. Members with cars having loud mufflers, poor brakes, etc. are compelled to adjust these parts immediately to Massachusetts Registry standards.

It also encourages courtesy on the highway. The members of the club are courteous to all other drivers. Any person who is given to person who has been assisted along the road, The cards read: This Assistance was given by a member of the Rutland Piston Mangers formed to organize hot rodders into a civic, law abiding, constructive group who are dedicated to "Safety in Construction—Safety in Operation."

Area Folks Taking Up Square Dancing

Quite suddenly the old-fashioned Square dance has returned to favor in the Quabog area. Hardly a week passes now but that sets are being made up somewhere nearby and all the folks are swinging their partners down and around.

Although it may look complicated to the uninitiated, the dances are not intricate as soon as a few simple terms are learned so that one won't douse-do when he is supposed to be honoring his corner lady. Then anyone can swing his partner with the best.

SPENCER EXCHANGE CLUB is sponsoring a Square dance in the Spencer Memorial Town Hall Friday evening. The caller will be Ted Webster. There will be refreshments and a door prize. William J. Rogan, chairman, is being assisted by Carol Dowdlewicz, James McSherry, Jr. and John Sydnor.

HAPPY HUNTING & FINE FISHING

BY LEE MATTHEWS

COME NOW, LET'S BE REASONABLE

Have been giving plenty of thought to an article recently published in a number of newspapers by an organization named, "Institute for Safer Living." This happens to be the first time I have ever heard of them. The article contains some good advice as a whole, but I take exception to one statement. "All hunting accidents are needless." When it is true that the majority of them could be avoided, there are some that are really accidents.

This group refers to the hunting seasons as "open season on children," and also states, "never allow a child under the age of 14 to accompany a hunter on a trip." The laws of most states do not permit a younger of that age to hunt, and I have a grandson only ten years of age. He has been on hunting trips many times with me, and carries a toy double barrel shotgun, and believe me he handles this toy gun like a veteran hunter. He has been taught what to do, and what not to do.

My dad gave me my first rifle instruction on my fifth birthday, and the lessons of safe firearms handling and the lessons in good sportsmanship, learned at that early age, just seems to be part of me.

HOW DANGEROUS A SPORT IS HUNTING?

Most people who do not hunt, and probably some who do feel that it is the most dangerous sport of all. Such, my friends, is not the case. The National Safety Council publishes figures some time ago, I haven't the report in front of me at this writing, but as I remember it, hunting was in eighth place. More dangerous sports were, fishing, swimming, baseball, football, and skiing. Motoring is not considered a sport, but more people are killed in one week on the highways, than in an entire year of hunting.

The above facts are startling are they not? I haven't seen any statement by the so-called, "Institute for Safer Living," advising parents not to take the children out for a ride in the family car. Most automobile accidents are also avoidable.

An old saying, "Ignorance is Bliss," may be true, but let me tell you that ignorance of proper handling of firearms, kills and maims an awful lot of persons every year. I taught my children to handle weapons at an early age, I want my grandchildren taught in the same manner. Remember complete knowledge of firearms can save lives—ignorance of basic safety rules can, and does, take lives!

JOIN A SPORTSMEN'S CLUB

You will find a group of sportsmen gathered around the cracker barrel (oh they don't have them now-a-days) well they gather around something, and one will hear argument after argument. Some of them have excellent ideas too, but just where does it get them? After the session is over they go their separate ways, and that's that.

The place for these ideas is in a meeting of a live sportsmen's club. It is there the ideas can reach the right people, in turn to be taken up at the League's meeting. It is a great source of annoyance for a legislator to ask me just what is wanted. In most cases the men you elect wish to please their voters with the right kind of laws. If you cannot agree among yourselves, how in the name of goodness, can you expect them to know?

So join a club, share your ideas with others. Instead of blowing off steam where it will do no one any good. If you know, or think you know what is best for conservation, get busy and join that club nearest you. They need you, and you need them. All clubs need active members, and that means men who are willing to work. Remember in union there is strength. JOIN THAT CLUB, NOW!

ONE HUNTER — THREE PHEASANTS?

This incident coming from Springfield is one example why judge's get grey fast. It seems this hunter with some friends was pheasant hunting, someone shot a bird which fell near him. His dog brought it to him. Shortly after his pointer flushed another bird which he shot down. This giving him his two legal birds, he started back to his car, and on his way back another bird fell near him and his retriever brought it to him. He was picked up with the three birds in his possession. At this writing the case has not come up. What would you do? That's the $64 question.

THANKS FELLOWS

At a recent meeting of the Lashaway Rod & Gun Club Inc. of East Brookfield I was the recipient of an honorary life membership in their club. This was made as a mark of appreciation of my efforts in promoting conservation and better sportsmanship through my column as well as my personal efforts.

In accepting this great honor I was interrupted by the president who reminded me that it not only was honorary membership, but a full one which carried all the benefits of a member. In other words I am now an actual life member of the club. As this is the very first time this club has made an award of this kind, mere words cannot express the gratitude I really feel.

Mail will reach me in care of this paper.

WEST BROOKFIELD — This picture shows a section of the abandoned Old Burying Ground, also called the Indian Burying Ground, on Cottage street, West Brookfield. One of the graves shown here are of famous men who made West Brookfield their home during Colonial times. One was Diederick Leertowwer, Consul to the states of Massachusetts and New Hampshire from The Netherlands during the 1790s. Inside the iron railing, behind the post, is the final resting-place of Judge Jedidiah Foster who wrote the first draft of the Massachusetts Constitution, from which was framed the Constitution of the United States.

The cemetery received the name "Indian" from the fact that its location is the site of the Indian village which bore the name Wic-wic-a-bog at the head of the pond now called that name. The first to be buried here were two young men who had been killed by the Indians between there and North Brookfield. This was soon after the resettlement after the dispersion following King Philip's War.

It was used until 1810 when burials were made in the church-street ground. Then the more men who were killed in the meadow between here and the South Parish (Brookfield) were buried here in 1710.

A rocket-powered research plane recently set an unofficial altitude record by flying to 83,235 feet—well over 15½ miles above sea level!

Everything costs you less in FORD

You can have a Ford V-8 engine, an Automatic Transmission, Power Steering... with everything... for hundreds of dollars less than any other similarly equipped car.

Let's examine what we mean by "everything."
We would first mention V-8 power. For it's great to have the smooth "zip" that this kind of engine alone, can offer. It whisks you up hills, travels you through traffic with "git" no other type of engine can match.

We would then add an automatic transmission to the list. This, alone, takes most of the "edge" out of the bumper to bumper driving in and around our cities before and after work... and on holidays.

We would include, naturally, power steering. We do this because those of us who have driven power steering cars know that nothing short of a chauffeur can add more to our driving ease.

Now, here's where Ford comes in. Why? Because, in Ford, you can have all of these things to the n'th degree and for hundreds less than you would pay for them in any other car!

Let's examine these Ford features. Brief yourself on the advantages of the Ford systems as compared with any that you are familiar with in any other car. Better still... take a Test Drive in a Ford. Then you'll learn first hand why Ford is worth more when you buy it, worth more when you sell it!

Ford Master-Guide power steering lets you turn the wheel with one finger while the car is standing still... cushions wheel shock and makes handling easier and safer even on rutted roads. But, unlike some others, it gives you a safe "feel" and it's geared so you don't have to change your driving habits.

The Ford V-8 Engine is the same type of engine powering America's costliest cars. Yet it's priced hundreds lower than any other V-8 in any other car. It's the super-refined result of Ford's experience building more V-8's than all other makes combined.

Fordomatic Drive, unlike most others is really two drives in one. You get the get-up-and-go and savings of automatic mechanical gears plus the smooth power-flow of a fluid torque converter. You'll never shift again once you shift to Fordomatic Drive.

Smooth Ride and other fine-car features are there in a Ford. Ford proves that a car need not carry gas-eating extra weight to smooth you over the bumps... to hug the road. And you get the last word in safety, in beauty and in savings too, in a Ford.

See Ford... Value Check Ford... Test Drive Ford today!

Pitch Contest League Continues
EAST BROOKFIELD — The pitch league will swing into action once again on Monday evening, November 30, at the Lashaway Inn, with play scheduled to start at 8 P.M. The standings in the league at this time is: American Legion in first place with 35 points, followed by the Firemen with 45 points, with the Rod and Gun and Redmen tied for third with 44 points. This meeting is attracting quite a bit of bantering and friendly arguing among the contestants of the respective teams, due to the closeness of the standings and Mr. Rusicki proprietor of the Lashaway Inn, expects the largest gathering of the young season, as in all probability it appears that a change of a complete record in the standings is quite possible and he expects an upset or two may be in the offing. At any rate everyone is expecting some red hot competition at this match and as expected none attending should be disappointed.

The First Thanksgiving
The first Thanksgiving feast celebrated by the Plymouth Pilgrims was held in November of 1621—one year after the arrival of a ship bearing fresh supplies. Curiously, it was called "struggle for existence." The hardships which the colonists endured during the first months are familiar to us, but only in a legendary sort of way. It is difficult to recreate in imagination the black reality of that first winter during which "half the company" perished of starvation and illness. Governor Bradford in his history of the lean years commented:

"For summer being done, all things stand upon them with a weatherbeaten face, and the whole country full of woods and thickets, represented a wild and savage hue."

Yet despite the loss of half their number, and the prospect of unending struggles ahead, the tiny band came through it magnificently. For Bradford added:

"they knew they were pilgrims, and looked not much on those things, but lift up their eyes to the heavens, their dearest country."

That first Thanksgiving feast was held to rejoice at the arrival of a ship bearing fresh supplies. Curiously, it was called the FORTUNE. They also celebrated the gathering of a fair harvest and the achievement of peaceful relations with the "Indians," many of whom "came among them," including "their greatest king, Massasoit."

For several years the colony ran neck-and-neck with starvation, but they never lost heart, or considered giving up and returning to England. These simple people were truly great forefathers. And as Bradford concluded his record of those early strivings, the light which they kindled shone throughout the nation:

"Thus out of small beginnings greater things have been produced by his hand that made all things of nothing; and gives being to all things that are; and as one small candle may light a thousand; so the light here kindled hath shone unto many, yea, in some sort, to our whole nation."

If we in 1953 could only recreate the reality, not only of the early strivings, but of that early triumph how much more meaningful our Thanksgivings in these modern times would be! Even so, it will be a thankful time, for what Bradford did not fully realize was that the light there kindled was destined to shine unto many, many generations!

Today's Meditation from "The Upper Room"

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26
Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all is within me, bless his holy name. (Psalm 103:1) Read I Thessalonians 5:15-23.

Today, as did the psalmist of old, we thank God: for the knowledge that He is our heavenly Father, and that His love will never let us go.

For the gift of His Holy Spirit and our opportunity to worship Him in spirit and in truth.

For the revelation given to us through Jesus Christ, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. For all those ways in which He continually reveals Himself in beauty, truth, goodness, and love.

For the knowledge that the love is stronger than all other forces because it never fails.

For remembrance that God has a will for us and wants us to discover and follow it in our lives. For assurance that in Christ we can be fellow workers with Him.

For knowledge that we have the comfort of the Holy Spirit, so that in all the cares and occupations of our daily living we may remember continually that we are ever walking in His sight.

For peace which passes all understanding and keeps our hearts and minds in Christ, our Lord.

PRAYER
O Lord, our Father, we pray that Thou wilt dwell within us. Help us to go forth with the light of hope in our eyes, the fire of inspiration in our lives, with Thy Word on our tongues, and Thy love in our hearts, in His name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
Take the loving hands of God I commit myself.
F. Fagan Thompson (Alabama)

Christian Science Column

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE COLUMN
Man's God-given dominion over evil of every sort will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon. The Bible reading contains this passage from Ephesians:

"Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand" (6:10, 13).

The following passage will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God" (228:25-27).

The Golden Text is from III John:

"Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good of God: but he that doeth evil hath not seen God" (1:11).

OLD NORTH BROOKFIELD LANDMARK

Down To Earth
A Weekly Garden Column
For Our Area
Elizabeth T. Gault
Now that Thanksgiving Day is really here and officially, with due form and ceremony, we are recognizing our true debt of gratitude to God for the bounty of the earth which truly supports and makes possible this fabulously complex civilization of ours, let's spare one moment to consider how each one of us can conserve this marvelous productivity in the little space that we are responsible for. The precious top soil that makes a garden possible must be somehow fed and kept replenished if we are to avoid the tragic "worn out" acres that result from greedy farm practices. In the forest the leaves drop from the trees and are safely kept there by the protection of the trees themselves. There they decay and add their bit of precious nourishment to feed still other generations of trees. A backyard compost pile that returns to the soil all this waste-free vegetable matter is one way that the small backyard agriculturalist can help this continual renewal to take place in his domain. Amen.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

by WILLIAM G. FLETCHER

Many People Feel Americans Are So Engrossed In Past Errors That We Neglect Present Problems

While people here at home are deeply involved in discussions of the widespread Communist conspiracy within our gates, important events continue to unfold in other countries—events which may have equal or greater meaning to us than mistakes of judgment which may have been made in the past. There are many people who feel that we Americans are so engrossed in the White case and others that we are neglecting urgent problems of the present.

It now appears that there will be basically important decisions and changes in the international scene in Europe during the next six months, and every American ought to be well aware of them. Our immediate interests are heavily involved. The decisions all stem from what now appears to be a certainty: the Soviets do NOT WANT any sort of conference with the Western Powers about the German problem. The last note from Moscow laid down conditions for such a conference which Malenkov and Co. knew were utterly unacceptable to us. They effectively slammed the door on hopes for a meeting of the "Big Four."

This avenue being blocked, it is now absolutely necessary for Britain, France, the United States and West Germany to proceed with the development of what might be called a "new balance of power" in Europe. There is the possibility of a new approach to the attempted creation of such a balance will involve the creation, at last, of some totally new political and military institutions in Europe.

In Paris, a debate has been going on in the National Assembly for a week and is still in progress as this issue goes to press on the question of whether France approve the idea of a, the formation of a European political union and, b), a European Army, to be composed of forces drawn from France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Both of these revolutionary plans were proposed more than three years ago by the outstanding French statesman, Robert Schuman, then Foreign Minister. The French diplomat was not necessarily wholly wrong in some new devotion to a "European spirit." Indeed, it is quite certain that he devised these two ideas, political and military, as a recognition of the fact that West Germany must be absorbed into active European politics and arms and, above all, as a means of avoiding the creation of a separate national German Army.

Since the proposal made in 1950, the French have held back from any definite commitment from either of the plans, while, ironically enough, the Germans have been pressing for their adoption. The feeling of the French is that, ideally, there would be no German in arms at all, and no political connection with Germany. Every fact of life in Europe today, political, military, ideological and economic, demands that Germany be readmitted to the European community as a constructive member.

At the same time, M. Reynaud in an important interview published this past week in the U.S. NEWS AND WORLD REPORT, the Vice-Premier of France, Paul Reynaud, stated that the new "United States of Europe" (the European Political Community), will come into being "not far from the beginning of the new year. This would mean that for the first time in history a legislative body directly elected by the people of six nations, will sit as a parliament of Europe with authority over the above that of the individual national parliaments. A far-reaching step, indeed.

At the same time, M. Reynaud and others like him hope and believe that France and other nations will ratify the treaty which will create the European Defense Community, or the European Army. Under this agreement, certain percentage of men to the army, and they will serve not as national units but as members of the European Army. The complement of men coming from France and Germany will be exactly the same. To anyone with a fresh view of history, such steps will appear almost impossible to believe. French and Germans serving in an international army side by side? Germans serving with other Europeans whose countries were invaded but a few years ago by Nazi armies?

Impossible? To many, it has appeared a theorist's dream. Actually, it looks as if it were coming to pass as a direct result of the pressure of cold reality, not from any sense of European idealism. The recent memory of the ravages of war—and the flaming desire to avoid another-coupled with the urgent pressure from Soviet military might, plus the constant prodding from the all-powerful United States, are combining to bring about a series of events of which men have dreamed for centuries.

No one should expect miracles to result from the simple process of reification by all nations, which may happen early in 1954. The path of cooperation among six European nations, each jealous of its traditions, will be thorny indeed. We should look upon the new ideas as an event of surpassing historical importance. It is, in the long view, only incidental that these likely events are wholly helpful to American policies.

Down To Earth

A Weekly Garden Column
For Our Area
Elizabeth T. Gault

Now that Thanksgiving Day is really here and officially, with due form and ceremony, we are recognizing our true debt of gratitude to God for the bounty of the earth which truly supports and makes possible this fabulously complex civilization of ours, let's spare one moment to consider how each one of us can conserve this marvelous productivity in the little space that we are responsible for. The precious top soil that makes a garden possible must be somehow fed and kept replenished if we are to avoid the tragic "worn out" acres that result from greedy farm practices. In the forest the leaves drop from the trees and are safely kept there by the protection of the trees themselves. There they decay and add their bit of precious nourishment to feed still other generations of trees. A backyard compost pile that returns to the soil all this waste-free vegetable matter is one way that the small backyard agriculturalist can help this continual renewal to take place in his domain. Amen.

Parsley is thriving mightily these days in my yard. It is so pretty for a garnish that I have taken up into pots as much as I think the sunny cellar window will accommodate. If I can only remember to water it at decent intervals it will be available for "parsley potatoes" all winter. Just melt as much butter as your conscience will let you use and add chopped parsley to make it boiled potatoes (and then try to exercise off the added calories). But is it good while it is going down! Also, to paraphrase an old sampler motto "What is Home Without a Mother?" let's say "What is vegetable soup without some parsley?" and forthwith go out and gather—our crop and dry it gently for winter soup.

After the rich and filling plenty of the Thanksgiving feast a simple frugal home-made vegetable soup is a fine dish for Friday. Use plenty of parsley.

Old Sturbridge

Popularity Grows

By the end of 1953, over half a million people will have visited Old Sturbridge. The establishment of the village as a public attraction to the public in 1949 and year since that time, attendance has sharply increased, and 5,000 the first year to 1953, the end of 1953.

One of the big reasons why Sturbridge Village attracts and more visitors, each year that it is growing and steadily, may seem incongruous to some, but actually the village is a progressive one. While it is open to the New England past, it is open to expansion and ideas. In this respect, it has an advantage over many comparable establishments.

From the very beginning, ideas behind Old Sturbridge Village were to show and bring through both restore buildings, working craftsmen the way they were in New England during early 1800s. The Yankee of the period was a clever, highly efficient combination of craftsman and farmer who worked industriously and imaginatively to supply themselves and other with everything necessary for a comfortable, though not luxuriously, existence.

State Woodlands Open To Deer Hunters Mon.

The invasion of Massachusetts woodlands by deer hunters will get underway at 6:30 a.m. Monday, and continue until 5 p.m. every day through Saturday.

This year only four deer checking stations will be in operation. These will be found at Barre, on the Common. In Westfield at Mower's Station and Restaurant, on Route 20; another is to be located at the junction of Routes 8 and 9 in Coltsville. In Deerfield at the junction of Routes 5, 10, and 116, on the Common.

These stations will be in operation only for the first week. It is felt that of enough deer would be brought in the second week, which is devoted exclusively to bow and arrow shooting, to maintain the stations.

A 11 hunters having deer and within a reasonable distance of one of these points are urged to bring the animal in for checking. The information obtained is of great value to the technicians, and for your future hunting.

Civil Air Patrol Observes 12th Year

SPENCER — On December 1 the Civil Air Patrol, leader in civil aviation in the United States celebrated twelve years of service to the nation in this fiftieth anniversary year of powered flight.

CAP has many missions, but one of its prime purposes is its cadet program which stimulates an interest in aviation among the youth of America. Under the CAP cadet program, air-minded teenagers, boys and girls 15 to 18, are provided with training which may be applied for either military or civilian purposes. The Civil Air Patrol has a moral obligation to the Air Force to have 100,000 CAP trained cadet members, but that responsibility has been only partially fulfilled at the present time.

There is a CAP Squadron in Spencer.

REMEMBRANCES FOR VETS ASKED

QUABOAG AREA — For the 33rd consecutive year, the Disabled Veterans Christmas Remembrance Committee, which pioneered the work of bringing Yuletide cheer to hospitalized veterans, is seeking funds for its program.

Approximately 9,000 veterans, confined in 80 hospitals, this year will receive packages containing useful articles as well as things that are typical of Christmas. The committee makes every effort to reach all veterans who are patients in Massachusetts hospitals and every Massachusetts veteran who is in any hospital in the Continental United States.

To finance its work the organization depends entirely upon the donations of those who sympathize with its effort in brightening the holiday season for the bed-ridden former fighting men, some of whom, as veterans of World War I, have been recipients of the Christmas packages each year since the work began, and many of whom have no relatives.

Checks sent as contributions should be made out to Allan Forbes, Treasurer, DVXRC, at the State Street Trust Co. The initials are important as ear-marking the donation.

Student Representative To Be Elected Dec. 4

SPENCER — David Prouty High School will make preparations for Good Government Day Friday, December 4 by electing from its student body one representative who, on March 12, 1954, will go to the State House, Boston. This student representative along with one from each high school in Massachusetts will for that one day assume the government of the commonwealth. The names of all successful candidates chosen this Friday will be placed in a glass bowl at the state house and drawings will be made to determine who will for that day hold the office of governor and other executive officers as well as who will be senators and representatives.

At the local high school the election has been preceded by a spirited political campaign in which the various candidates have appealed to the student voters for their support.

Roland Aucoin, principal of David Prouty High, is in charge of this very interesting student activity, the purpose of which is to create a lively interest in state government among high school students.

Spencer Boy Gets Class Numerals

SPENCER — Class numeral awards for 35 Norwich University junior varsity football players and managers were announced today by Athletic Director Duke Benz.

Among those receiving awards was William Berthiaume, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Berthiaume, 3 Mechanic Street; John Brugnoli, Scanton, Pa.; Anthony Carbone, Stoneham, Mass.; James Chikares, Gloucester, Mass.; Charles Chrity, Cambridge, Mass.; Edward Colacurcio, Fairfield, Conn.; William Craske, Chicago, Ill.

LEICESTER — According to a notice received by Supt. of Schools Edmund F. Tierney from the Department of Education, the Town of Leicester will receive $68,953.36 this year as State reimbursement towards the support of our public school system. This is an increase of $3,401.10 over a year ago.

Reimbursement for public school transportation, under Chapter 71, was increased from $14,996.06 to $15,482.15. For General Education, under Chapter 70, from $51,456.20 to $53,471.21.

This reimbursement program means a net cost to the Town for the support of public schools is $132,233.75, out of a total expenditure of $201,187.11 for the same period of time.

According to Supt. Tierney, these allotment increases have been granted to the town by the state because of the tremendous growth in the school census of children between the ages of 7-16. In one year the school population in this age group increased by 1006 children.

These figures are based on the school year which started in September 1952 and closed in June this year. Many new housing developments in town account for some of the added school population.

Thanksgiving Day Brides

MRS. BERNARD DEMERS

SPENCER — Miss Lucille Jette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Jette of 87 Chestnut street, became the bride last Thursday of Bernard Demers, son of Mrs. Romeo H. Demers of 42 Chestnut street, at St. Mary's Church.

Miss Mary Jette, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Edna Courmoyer and Miss Marie Demers. Roush H. R. Demers, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Willard Dragon and Harry Berthlaume. Madeline Racicot was flower girl and David Cook, ring bearer.

Louis Dragon, uncle of the bride, sang "Ave Maria" during the mass.

The bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over white satin. The fitted bodice had panels of Chantilly lace, was button trimmed, had a mandarin collar and long, fitted sleeves coming to points on the back of her hands. The satin skirt had an over skirt of scalloped Chantilly lace. Both skirt and overskirt had chapel-length trains. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was fastened to a transparent crown adorned with rhinestones and glitters. She carried a fan bouquet of white roses and pompons with ribbon streamers.

Her wedding ring was the one that belonged to her great great grandmother.

A reception was held at the Le-York and Pennsylvania the couple home. After flying to New will live at 42 Chestnut street.

If you use bottled gas, be sure that the cylinders are safely set on a solid foundation and at a safe distance from any cellar window or opening through which gas might reach the basement. All piping and fittings should be kept tight. Leaking gas is nothing to be trifled with, as several recent fires have showed.

Spencer Church Host To Extension Memb's

SPENCER — "Christmas in Many Lands" was the theme of the presentation of the Worcester County Extension service at the Spencer Methodist church on Monday afternoon.

Members of the local church were hosts to church members from Oakham, East Brookfield, Hardwick, New Braintree, Leicester and Warren. There were more than two hundred in attendance. Tableaux were presented depicting Christmas observance in Poland, Sweden, Greece, Hawaii, and Holland.

In addition, there were exhibits of food and customs from these countries.

A film, titled "Christmas Everywhere" was shown and was followed by a "tasting tea" in which goodies, made from Christmas recipes, were sampled with Hawaiian punch.

The committee from the Worcester County Extension in charge were Miss Irene Davis and Miss Evelyn Lyman.

MOTHER NATURE TRIES A NEW COAT
Here we are, watching Mother Nature try on a white fur mantle. We don't think it fits very well. Here and there a rib of dried grass shows through, and it is far too short. It is neither broad enough nor long enough to keep her warm.

We can almost guarantee that it will soon be dirty. It looks as if it won't wash well. We think the first drops of water to touch it will shrink it beyond recognition.

But she is only shopping now and has no intention of buying this early in the season. It will probably take her weeks to make up her mind.

But Father Time will wait for her, and we are all pretty sure that before the Winter is over he will provide her with the thick coat of snow she is so half-heartedly searching for this morning.

Down To Earth
A Weekly Garden Column
For Our Area
Elizabeth T. Gavitt

Now that we have had a little freezing weather, it is time to consider the parsnip situation—if you have any parsnips in the garden. Personally I like parsnips but I find that some people don't—what really puzzles me is why it takes so long to grow a parsnip. There doesn't seem to be anything more complicated about it's structure than a carrot and carrots grow twice as fast. Maybe it is creating the swell that takes so long. Anyway, they have to be planted fairly early in the spring and they are at their best after they have been frozen in the ground—all winter—and that is nearly a year after planting time—and if you want seed you have to leave the parsnip in the ground most of the following summer, too. Sort of a late adolescence—like a northern spy apple tree—you wait a long time for a crop you don't have to rush into a decision about the way you are going to cook it. There's plenty of time after you get it. Boiled and seasoned with butter and paprika is one good way but if you glaze them in butter and sugar in a frying pan after they are boiled they are much better or fry them a delicate brown in butter alone.

My Rhode-Island grandmother used to make a parsnip stew that was awfully good—I thought—for a hot simple supper such as we had in those days. None of this dinner-at-night-stuff with four or five courses plus cocktails and ending with a liqueur. Baked beans Saturday night and Sunday breakfast and cold baked bean sandwiches with ketchup and salad dressing for lunch one other day at least. This stew is going to get cold before we even get it made if we don't hurry it up.

Place some thin strips of fat salt pork in an iron kettle and let it cook to a golden brown. Add a good slice of onion, finely chopped and then slices of pared parsnips and potatoes to half fill the dish—letting them brown just a tiny bit—add a teaspoon of sugar and salt to taste. Add enough boiling water to keep them from sticking to the kettle, cover tightly and let steam over a medium flame until they are tender—then add top milk to cover and cubes of three day old bread (like dumplings) about 1½" on a side—if you can, Sherlock Holmes, a loaf.

Put on a tight cover and steam 15 minutes. Serve in deep soup dishes with butter floating on top after the bread has steamed. Wish I had some RIGHT NOW.

Today's Meditation
from "The Upper Room"

God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh. (Romans 8:3) Read Hebrews 3:12-15.

Someone has said: "God has left nothing undone." He has watched over the human family from the beginning. He graciously provides for us. With infinite wisdom He laid plans for our redemption by sending His Son as a living revelation, a Teacher, a Saviour, a Reconciler. He sought to prepare the human family for the Redeemer. Through thousands of years of faithful tutoring this preparation was accomplished.

One night in Bethlehem came a signal from God. It was seen by the shepherds upon the Judean hills. Light burst from heaven. A brilliant star shone in the sky. Instantly, an angelic choir was singing. The shepherds were told the story of a little Babe in a stable in Bethlehem. What a perfect Christmas!

What a perfect Christmas awaits all those who accept God's gift of love—Christ, the Lord, Christ, who is joyful for all those who receive and gratefully acknowledge heaven's gift.

PRAYER
We thank Thee, our heavenly Father, for Thy Son's coming. We pray that Thou wilt keep the light of Thy love shining over the path of our pilgrimage. Nurture us in faith and help us to live by those spiritual qualities

What Will The Issue Of The 1954 Political Campaign Be?

WHAT IS AN ISSUE?
To listen to the politicians or to read many editorials this past week, one might have thought that the 1954 election was just around the corner. Already, debate is hot on the subject, what are the issues in that campaign going to be? Usually, there will be a sharp difference of opinion as between the Democrats and the Republicans as to issues, naturally, but this time we are witnessing a serious dispute within the Republican ranks. The President "hopes" that "Communists in government" will no longer be an issue by next November; Senator McCarthy, Senator Saltonstall and many others have flatly stated that it will be. The assumption seems to be that they will say to the voters, elect Republicans, or turn the nation over to renewed threat of "Communist infiltration."

Without entering into the merits of this dispute, it seems difficult to believe that "Communism" will be the only, or even the chief, issue next fall. Are not many Americans concerned about other aspects of our national and international affairs? Are not the people going to make a critical assessment of the Republican administration's record in other fields?

It is relatively simple to draw up a brief list of some highly important items which almost inevitably will be in voters' minds in 1954. One of the first will be the tax reduction, especially on personal incomes, as great as it could or should be? On the 1st of January, there will be a 10% reduction in personal income taxes. Will this satisfy the great majority of people, millions of whom voted for Eisenhower in 1952 in the fervent belief that the weekly Federal bite would be severely cut? Many are waiting with deep interest to hear what Ike will say on this subject when the Congress reconvenes in January.

In many sections of the nation, the farmers are pretty clearly dissatisfied with the administration. Prices on farm products have declined, crops have been hard hit by unfavorable weather conditions, and many farmers claim that they are not receiving sufficient assistance from the Government.

Lions Club Presents Visual Aid Equipment For Use In Brookfield Union No. 8 Schools

NORTH BROOKFIELD—A Massachusetts vision testing machine has been presented to the schools of Union No. 8 schools in Brookfield, North and East Brookfield by the Brookfield Lions club.

The Lions club is comprised of men from the four Brookfields and has been in existence for nine years. The current president is Allen Wiltcomb, East Brookfield; first vice president, Aime Morin, North Brookfield; 2nd vice president, Harry Manchester, East Brookfield; 3rd vice president, Francis B. Bland, Brookfield; secretary-treasurer, Donald Pierce, East Brookfield, recording secretary, Kenneth Tyler, North Brookfield.

The club meets the first and third Thursdays of every month at 7 P. M. at the Crossroads Restaurant, Brookfield.

Money is raised for various community requirements such as athletic equipment, visual aid equipment, resuscitators, emergency contributions and any other requirement that the children of our four communities might have. Eye glasses for the needy and scholarships for high school students are also part of their program.

The primary purpose of the International Association of Lions Clubs was the alleviation of suffering among blind people. Through their constant effort and interest in this phase of the betterment of humanity, the Lions are now engaged in a tremendous research project in an effort to determine the cause of baby blindness and also the restoration of sight in blind people.

This concerted effort is being made by the Lions clubs through out Massachusetts and it is known as the Massachusetts eye research movement. The committee representing this movement feels safe in predicting that it will not be that long before it will be in the name of our Lord. Amen.

For and About The Home

by Edith L. Holmes

This quick-to-fix chowder makes an excellent luncheon or supper dish and will be a favorite with the youngsters. They'll like, too, French bread, baked apple, chocolate milk.

- 1 lb. potatoes
- 1 pkgs frozen peas
- 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 24 teaspoons pepper
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 3 strips bacon
- 1 sliced onion
- 1 7-oz can salmon
- 1 large can evaporated milk

Pare and thinly slice potatoes. In deep kettle, place potatoes, peas, salt, pepper and boiling water. Cover; cook about 10 minutes, or until potatoes are tender. Meanwhile, cut bacon into small pieces, cook in skillet until crispy; remove pieces, and aside. Add onion to bacon fat and saute until tender and lightly browned. Add to cooking vegetables, along with salmon (juice and all). When vegetables are tender, pour in evaporated milk, stirring gently. Cover; heat 2 minutes longer, but do not boil. Serve immediately, sprinkled with bacon bits. Makes 4 servings.

Helpful Hints

If you wax the snow shovel before using it, the snow will not cling to it. A piece of paraffin rubbed over a warm shovel will do the trick.

When painting flower pots, just turn them upside down over a tin can. The can acts as a stand and may be turned as the pot is painted, protecting both your hands and the pot. Leave the pots on the cans until dry.

When tying packages, dampen the string. This prevents slipping while tying. String shrinks as it dries, making knots more secure.

HAPPY HUNTING & FINE FISHING

BY LEE MATTHEWS

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

The tale I am about to relate to you may seem pretty far fetched, but it is very true, and just a sample of the ridiculous laws some persons are trying to have passed. Only the response of you sportsmen, through letters and phone calls to your law-makers can prevent many from passing. Now for the tale.

Very recently a man came to me and said that he had an idea on how to prevent hunting accidents, and sought my aid in having a bill introduced. In brief this is the idea. "To prevent all hunting in Massachusetts, and to control the increase of game with professional hunters employed by the state." Wow! I don't think it is necessary to state that my best efforts were put forth to talk this man out of his idea. On the one hand you have the enormous amount of business lost to the sporting goods stores, and on the other hand the staggering cost of paying the hunters in the service of the state. Pity the poor taxpayers, if a bill like this should ever pass.

DON'T GET LOST

With deer season coming up soon in spite of all warnings there will be the usual cases of hunters getting lost. In some cases the lost hunters will be experienced ones, it can happen to you. There is little or no excuse for you to be one of these hunters. If you are going in to unfamiliar territory, get a compass and learn how to use it.

For all intending to invade strange areas topographic maps of all areas in Massachusetts are available. A little study of these maps can save you from wandering around in a daze. Carry one with you, folded, one takes up little room in a pocket. For all in or near Worcester, Davis & Banister Inc. 24 Pearl St. have a supply on hand. For those in the Springfield area, I am sure that Johnson Book Store stock them also.

HALF A BUCK MAY GET YOU A BUCK

Dear hunters wishing to hunt the Barre-Petersham area can get valuable assistance by obtaining one of the maps being published by the Barre Kiwanis Club. This map was compiled with the valuable assistance of conservation officers, soil conservation personnel, and others.

The map shows the areas where deer have been seen recently, shows roads, landmarks, and other helps to the deer hunter. For a copy of this map send fifty cents to the Barre Kiwanis Club, Barre, Mass. HALF A BUCK MAY GET YOU A BUCK!

HOW SMART ARE FISH?

If you are one of the few who think that fish don't learn by experience, just look over these figures. In a state survey in Illinois, 1027 marked bass were placed in a lake. It took only an average of 24 minutes each to catch the first 50 but, by the end of the first day it took more than two hours to catch a bass. On the second day it took from 5 to 6 hours, and from 10 to 15 hours on the next three days.

In other words, although most of them were still in the lake, it took about thirty times as long to fool a bass as it did at first. The memory of an escape from a hook, or perhaps the sight of a bass-companion caught and fighting was apparently enough warning for the others to beware of the lures. Are you still doubtful of the smartness of fish?

BEWARE OF BEARS

Unless you have hunted in other states, you may not realize that bears can take a tremendous amount of lead. Unless hit in a vital spot with a high powered rifle, they can stay on their feet a long time, and travel unbelievably fast for such a large animal. Unless I should run into a bear in deer week, when carrying larger ammo., when I see a bear while loaded with small shot, my feet are going to carry me in the opposite direction, and fast. Because bears when wounded are BAD!

Write to me in care of this paper.

Farm Prices Decline

Preliminary figures of the Department of Commerce estimate that farmers spent at least 10 per cent less for non-residential construction, machinery, and farm vehicles in the first half of 1953 than they spent in the same period last year. The Department notes, pending final reports, that decline in plant and equipment outlays "may have been closer to 15 per cent."

DEER SEASON AHEAD

Most of us are not generally fond of snow, winter would please us immensely, that is all we need. It is then we all hope to see the first snow. The white stuff. Yup, next Monday before daylight lines of cars coming from West heading toward Barre and points beyond will be early risers.

More deer than at anytime in the last fifty years now roaming our woods and fields. A little snow will make an all time record kill in the Bay State. Other hand weather such as we have had recently another poor year, as we have had the past two years can decide that.

First and foremost of all tips on deer hunting is your target. Take that fraction of a second that second look to make sure it is legal game. If you would do this what a drop there would be in accidents, only the hunters themselves can reduce the number.

TIPS TO DEER HUNTERS

Daily hunting hours are from 6:30 A. M. to 5 P. M. Only shotgun not larger than 10 gauge and bows may be used.

All deer hunters must wear lead clothing of lead either about head, shoulders, or back.

Hare and rabbit hunting prohibited Dec. 7 to 10 only.

May I suggest that all hunters obtain a copy of Game laws from your city or town clerk. Know and obey them. To be enjoyable hunting it must be legal. Get your deer, not your man.

Emergency Town Meeting Called In Leicester

New School Rooms Be Increased To 22

LEICESTER — Selectmen have posted a warrant for emergency town meeting to be held in the town auditorium on Thursday, Dec. 17 at 8 p. m., to see if the town will appropriate a sum of money in addition to the appropriation of $50,000, which was made on July 15, for the purpose of erecting, equipping and furnishing an elementary school building on Pleasant street with classroom space increased from 14 to 22 rooms.

NOTICE

NORTH BROOKFIELD — The Worcester Social Security Office, Bureau of Old Age and Survivor's Insurance, representative will be at the local Post Office building Friday, December 18 from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. instead of on the regular date as the last Friday of this month is Christmas, according to Joseph A. Gleason, office manager.

Area Woman Hit By Falling 40-Ft. Ladder

LEICESTER — Mrs. Mabel Murphy of 48 Pleasant street, suffered a broken left ankle, lacerations of the scalp and back injuries, shortly before noon last Monday, when a 40-foot extension ladder was blown from a building at 418 Main street in Worcester.

She was taken to the Worcester City Hospital in the emergency ambulance of the Police Department.

The ladder is owned by the Max Sign Co., Inc. of Everett, whose workmen were installing a sign on the building.

West P. T. A. With One Job Well Done Tackles Another; Now Seeks To Outfit Band

WEST BROOKFIELD — The Parent Teachers' Association in West Brookfield still strives to accomplish what most say is impossible. Through its Ways and Means committee one project after another is started with what seems a goal too high to achieve—yet, with the cooperation of the townspeople, the teachers, the parents, and yes, the children of the school, each project gets to the top!

Now that the freezer fund is "closed and finished" project, the committee is feverishly working on the Bad Fund.

Because of the enthusiasm of the children, the Christmas Pageant of 1953, was a great success, both financially and entertainingly. The P.T.A., because of this successful presentation, can turn over a check in the amount of $298.91 to build up the Band Fund.

The Band needs uniforms, new instruments, and added music. The P.T.A. is working hard to finance their purchase. Let us hope the town will continue to uphold such civic achievements!

Aid For Spencer Schools Increased; Covers Nearly 28% of Total '53 Cost

SPENCER — The Spencer school committee has been aided by the state department of education that Spencer receives $53,335.47 in state aid for local schools in 1953. This is broken down into $49,400.27 for general school and $4,935.20 for school transportation. This exceeds the aid for 1952 by $1,026.00.

The aid is based on the number of children in a community of the ages of 7 and 16 and the amount of local real estate. The money received goes into the fund of the town and can be used only by appropriation at meeting. It covers about 28% of the cost of Spencer schools in

Communion Breakfast For Spencer Dec. 13

Area Hunters Find Deer Plentiful In This Section

Reports from throughout the Quabog Area indicate that this open season on deer in Massachusetts will find an equal if not larger kill than last year. More were registered at the checking station on Barre Common up to Tuesday night this week than last year.

Hunters would have been happier to see at least some of the rain which has fallen in the past week coming down as snow to make the tracking easier.

Two members of the staff of this paper had the opportunity during a recent week of coming into rather close contact with a handsome eight-point buck who jumped into the road ahead of the car in which they were riding and missed being struck by a matter of inches. The animal in his terror, became entangled in a wire and brush fence and thrashed around desperately for several minutes before freeing himself and bounding gratefully off across the fields, where we secretly hope he has successfully avoided both the musketeers and the Robin Hoods during this week and will the archers next week!

FISHIN'S GOOD... Little Terry Paulin had plenty of luck when he caught this fine string of bass in Lake Eliote at Cypress Gardens, Florida. Terry won't tell what he used for bait.

HAPPY HUNTING & FINE FISHING

BY LEE MATTHEWS

OH DEAR — NO DEER?

At a New Hampshire deer checking station, a hunter drove up and requested that the attendant check his deer. Taking one look at the deer, the hunter was told that he had shot a guernsey heifer. He was quite insistent that it was a deer, until bystanders verified the attendant's statement. He then said, "Well if it is a heifer, the car behind me has one too." Sure enough, there was another heifer, on the car following him. These two hunters really thought they had shot deer, or they would never have brought them to the checking point.

SPORTSMAN OF THE YEAR

This man has done plenty of hunting in his lifetime, and the story I am about to tell is absolutely true. He was hunting in a Northern state, and his party driving down a wooded road, spotted a good sized doe, the jeep was stopped and he was told to take it, as he was a guest. He alighted and loaded his rifle, but before he could squeeze off a shot, something happened. Two fawns had followed the doe from the woods into the road, and were nursing from her. My friend seeing this scene held his fire, stood watching for a few seconds, unloaded his gun and climbed back in the jeep. He just couldn't do it. I may add that not a member of this party ribbed him about the incident.

BILLS

Many bills have been filed, some good and many bad. A step in the proper direction is one filed to require instruction for young hunters. Young hunters should have instruction; the public schools should be the place.

One bill filed by Rep. Thomas E. Key should be killed and quick. This bill would bar all types of rifles for hunting. Ye Gods and little fishes, think of how the woodchucks would increase if this bill should become law. All farmers will buck this one.

Sportsmen's clubs will be discussing, and cussing some of these bills, so attend the meetings, where your voice will be heard and do your part in deciding which ones will help, and which ones would hurt. Remember, your law-makers wish to know what you want: TELL THEM!

WHO GETS THE DEER?

Before ending this part of the column I wish to draw your attention to a little known fact. Most hunters think that the first one to reach a deer to bleed its owns the animal. This my friends is not true, it belongs to the hunter who fires the shot which kills the animal.

Every season I hear stories of hunters bleeding and claiming deer that other hunters had shot. Don't let this happen to you. If you bring a deer down, and someone else claims it, inform them it belongs to you, if an argument starts don't fight over it find out the registration number of the car bearing it away and report it to your nearest Conservation Officer. He will do the rest.

Please Everybody with these Christmas Gifts!

New Worcester T.V. Station Now On Air

Engineers at the WWOR-TV transmitter in Paxton have been telecasting a test pattern on Channel 4 since the 15th of November and this past Friday, December 4th, WWOR-TV went on the air at 4:00 P. M. with a full program schedule. Programs are now telecast daily from 4:00 P. M. to about midnight.

Chief Engineer Donald P. Wise said that the test pattern was telecast in order to check coverage and allow his engineering staff to adjust all the transmitting gear for peak visual and aural performance. He also stated that the WWOR-TV test pattern would be on every day from 9:30 A. M. to beginning of the regular program schedule, so that the Channel 4 area technicians could continue to make proper set and antenna adjustments on new installations or in connection with Ultra High Frequency conversions. Grand opening festivities for Worcester's first television station will be held on December 15th; detailed program schedules will be carried in most of the area's newspapers, as well as on WWOR-TV.

Frank Knight, popular radio announcer formerly in this area is news editor for the new TV station.

"All too many of the American people temporarily it is fervently hoped have been dazed by the spellbinding propensities of the Government-Gowns-Yea system. It is high time for these citizens to sit down and calmly... ask themselves if they really wish to give up the liberties which they now enjoy... and to subject themselves to the tyranny of a bureaucratic system..."

TEEN AGE TOPICS SHOULD EIGHTEEN YEAR OLD BE ALLOWED TO VOTE?

BY DAVID MORRILL

It is an old story that if an eighteen-year old boy drafted he should be able to vote, but if we would think a little we would find another side to the story.

It is well established that an eighteen-year old person can be taught discipline, in other words, to soldier well, also that a six year old can be taught to ride a bicycle well. Neither, however, qualify the person to take part in local, national nor international affairs as the voter today is often called upon to do.

When a person becomes old enough to pay taxes and own property in their own name, then and only then do I feel that they are old enough to take part in the regulation of taxes. If minors are not allowed to accept responsibilities that should be considered as a right of citizenship, I think that eighteen year olds should NOT be allowed to vote.

A smart Michigan collie, who enjoyed snapping at the heels of his master's herd, saved that herd recently when the barn got afire. The farmer tried to enter the barn to get the cattle out but was prevented by the smoke and flames. The intelligent farm dog managed to get in and herded the cattle out safely.

Police Chief 'Shammy' DeLude, Ass'n Head Had Interesting Experiences Since 1932

BY MILDRED R. BARRY

NORTH BROOKFIELD — Chief of Police Leo L. DeLude of Nursery avenue was recently elected President of the Southern Massachusetts Police Association.

"Shammy", as he is affectionately called by his friends, has been diligently for the town of North Brookfield since 1932. During the four of duty he has had interesting experiences.

When Dennis Boyle's store on Main street was robbed of several hundred dollars worth of clothing, Shammy was called in to investigate. He was taking into Superior Court on 15 or 18 counts.

When numerous safe cracks in the area were mysterious, Shammy was responsible for the apprehension of the thieves before they could accomplish their purpose.

Another job well done comes to mind when Shammy started the Juvenile Program which transmitted between the Police office and the children of the community. The Halloween and Christmas parties, Charity Circles, the major league baseball games are included in this program.

Good luck to you, Shammy, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy!

COMMENTS ON THE NEWSPAPER STRIKE

New York City's newspaper strike during the past weeks has had results which have reached in and touched us here in our Quabog Area. Aside from the obvious fact that many people, over 20,000, have been put out of work and that the people of the world's largest city are having to change their habits in keeping up with the world's news, there are other ramifications which are interesting to us in New England who are living our lives in the manner to which we like to be accustomed.

First of all, let us consider the saddened advertiser. With his most abundant harvest season upon him, suddenly the means of reaching the people has been taken away. And the customer finds that if he goes into the City stores to shop, he doesn't know what to look for, or even where to look for it!

Reports from those travelling into New York by rail are that there is more than enough room in the cars now at a time when extras are often needed. Movie houses are undoubtedly playing to more empty seats than usual; and pity the poor legitimate players whose openings have had no reviews to greet them at dawn!

The Sunday shopper who reads the Big City papers, with check book in hand, is frustrated and can't send for the things he would ordinarily buy through the ads. In fact, he can't even know what he is missing!

And there are many here whose thinking about national and international affairs is guided by opinions of writers in the leading New York dailies. What to do? Or think?

But there is a silver lining to most every cloud. We hope the area people who, because of the newspaper strike, are not going into New York now, will find that local merchants also have fine, up-to-date stocks of gifts and toys and clothes to please the most fastidious.

And another bright spot, according to a report from the New York City Department of Public Works, is that the street litter there is very much less in these newspaperless days!

Down To Earth A Weekly Garden Column For Our Area Elizabeth T. Gavitt

Christmas is such a wonderful season if we can only keep it simple and meaningful. When we can get something appropriate and just right for a particularly lovely friend and we send it with a real genuine note of affection and appreciation for that person's friendship or love we have truly participated in the celebration of the Christmas festival. But the real religious aspect and the deepest meaning of Christmas is apt to get pushed into the background with too much "exchange" of gifts. If Aunt Marybelle sent us an emerald-tipped, 19 carat gazo last Christmas we must find a solid gold, diamond-studded, pink mink-lined flowerpot for her lest she think we are not appreciative.

For a gardening friend, it seems to me, the most appropriate sort of gift is one connected with gardening. It can be very simple, and yet if truly suitable, one of the most acceptable remembrances of the season. After all, are we not celebrating the humble birth of a lovely Child whose spirit of love and service were outstandingly sincere and simple?

What could be more deering for a shut-in friend who loves flowers than a blossoming African violet plant with masses of buds to keep opening? Or a pot of lily-of-the-valley pips ready to open, or a potted amaryllis bud to watch as it throws out a husky stalk and then its beautiful big flowers? Or a terrarium made with your own hands and filled with tiny plants from the woodland, mosses and berries like the scarlet partridge-berry to make it colorful? Or a tiny window greenhouse for orchids, or a bag of sunflower seeds to bring the winter birds to the window for company?

For the really active gardeners on your list, those who like to "get in all over" there is a tremendous range of possibilities. How about a really good pair of pruning snips to help keep the evergreens trimmed and tidy? Or a pair of soft gardening gloves for mother or a pair of long-stiff cuff gauntlets for father to use when he wrestles with the rose bushes or raspberry canes next spring? Or, if father is the type, how about one of the fascinating small tractors or power cultivators or lawn-mowers to make his gardening more fun?

Some rose growers send a token rose in a plastic box at Christmas as token of a rosebush ordered for spring delivery which makes it possible for the recipient to have an actual present to undo with all the gay wrapping and festive air of the gift at the proper time.

For those of us who live in the country and have access to all sorts of lovely evergreen material, the gift of a box of assorted evergreens might not be as much of a gift as it would be to some friend in an apartment in the city but there it would help to supply that touch of the countryside that they remember and at least make a decoration for their door.

There are many gardening magazines that are most welcome and give pleasure all the year and memberships to various horticultural societies and even societies specially devoted to roses, or lilies, or gladioli etc. etc. that make very acceptable ways of reminding your friends and loved ones of your mutual interest in gardening at this wonderful Christmas time.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Americans Are Finding Selves In Middle Of A Diplomatic Situation

WHY THE HESITATION?

The meeting in Bermuda this past weekend between Churchill, Eisenhower, and Laniel ought to be taken as a case study in the seemingly inevitable inability of democracies to make sharp decisions. Even in the most perilous days of World War II, the "Big Three" were never faced with a more complex set of problems than they confront today. But the history of the last year has been one of Allied disagreement and delay.

A short time ago it seemed wholly clear that the Soviet Union was unwilling to enter upon any sort of discussion with the western powers about the many urgent crises all over the world. In the past two weeks, however, the Russians have stated that Foreign Minister Molotov will meet with our representatives at any time to talk about the world situation, and without laying down "conditions" which we should accept.

This unexpected announcement on the part of the Soviets was carefully calculated to bring about total confusion among the western Allies. The Soviets are, once more, playing a clever game of diplomacy. They realize that the European countries are desperate to avoid a world war, and that they fear that our policies of rearming (specifically in terms of creating a European Army with German soldiers), raises such a danger.

The French have shown in the past two weeks that they will approve the creation of a European Army—as long as the Russians hold out any hope of an alternative. By stating their willingness to "cooperate" with us, the Soviets hold out just that. The British are torn between a sound inclination to disbelieve Russian sincerity and a fatigued determination to avoid anything which might "anger the Russians."

We Americans are, quite literally, in the middle of a diplomatic situation. Other nations in

Today's Meditation from "The Upper Room"

Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord and my God. (John 20:28.) Read John 20:26-29.

Sometimes ago while browsing in a bookstore, I discovered a book in which a series of portraits of the Christ appeared. I observed many striking contrasts in the figures painted in different ages in the same way.

From the beginning of the Christian era, men have tried to interpret Him. A very early portrait by an unknown north African artist pictured Christ as a north African. Leonardo da Vinci pictured the Christ as a Florentine. El Greco pictured the Christ as a Spaniard. The same is true whenever men have tried to picture the Saviour. They have pictured Him as the highest and the best of their culture. So it should be.

But each of us—whether or not we are artists—pictures Christ in his own way. Yet we must do more than picture Him; we must make His life a part of ours, a part of our daily living.

PRAYER

Dear Lord, help us to look at Thy face and behold the radiance of Thy countenance. Help us to follow Thee in faith, knowing that Thou hast beckoned us. Guide us this day and help us to be faithful to Thee, and pray, as Thou hast taught us to do, "Our Father..."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

As did Thomas of old, I say of Christ that He is "My Lord and my God."

Excerpts from The Springfield Republican Of Nearly 100 Years Ago

SEPT. 6, 1855

The Editor of the Westfield News-Letter has been called "The Moral and Political Telegraph, or the Westfield Advertiser," bearing date at Brookfield, Mass., Dec. 16, 1795. It is a small sheet of four columns to a page, and this number contains President Washington's speech to both houses of Congress. Brookfield, at the time this paper was issued, was one of the more important towns in Worcester county, and but for the divisions by which two new towns have been taken from it, it would still possess its former meritorious position.

Bond's Cornet Band of Boston gave a concert at the Congregational Church at Brookfield on Thursday Evening.

NOV. 24, 1857

The Brookfield Dramatic Club will give two performances at the Old Congregational Church, Brookfield, this evening and tomorrow night, consisting of a five-act drama and "roaring" farce. We judge from an examination of the program that they have got up their scenery, etc., "perfectly ready for expenses," as the managers say, and we presume they will meet with success in their endeavors to give their friends a pleasant evening. The admission is only 12 cents, thus making it within the reach of all.

Beware of Ornamental Houlihan Appears

When everyone is busy in preparing for Christmas, we easily sold articles that are not just as represented. There is an ornament for sale this year and an ornament is advertised to act as a fire extinguisher in case the Christmas tree catches fire. This ornament contains a poisonous substance which could cause death if broken.

This has been investigated by the state fire marshal's office and found to contain Carbon tetrachloride. It was stated that if the contents were released in a closed room it would prove fatal to those in the room.

Polio Foundation Pays Bills of 4 Out of 5

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has spent in 1953 $29,000,000 on care for four out of five polio patients who require aid, according to an announcement made today by state headquarters for Massachusetts.

The high expenses of the gamma globulin program and the continuing heavy advances to chapter headquarters for Massachusetts, for urgent patient care, forced National Foundation officials in 1953 to ask more fortunate chapters to deposit any funds in surplus of their needs, with headquarters. This was necessary in order to keep the National Foundation pledge that no polio victim needing aid would ever be refused.

James K. Cowie Named Wright Vice-President

A half century of air progress is being celebrated this week.

The age of flight had its birth on a bleak morning in Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, December 17, 1903. There Orville and Wilbur Wright launched their historic heavier-than-air flight—a trip that lasted 12 seconds and covered 120 feet.

Now there are planes with ocean-wide ranges and wingspan wider than the length of that first flight.

We salute the Wrights, the scientists, industry, and all those who have made flight the modern miracle that it is.

A SALUTE

WEST WARREN — James K. Cowie, sales manager for William E. Wright & Sons Company, West Warren, since October, 1950, has been named vice-president of sales, it has been announced by John T. Wright.

Hearts Turn To Bethlehem Story At Christmas Season

As the advent of Christmas approaches the thrill of the season grows greater. It is true that even in this modern age when things sometimes seem crass and commercial the underlying emotion is still delight at the yearly enactment of the story of the Babe of Bethlehem.

In all the Christian churches of the world, and in the hearts of those beyond the reach of the churches arises a great joy at the story of the birth of the Christ. Our giving of gifts on Christmas Day represents those gifts borne by the Wise Men to the Manger at Bethlehem. The most popular songs now are the Christmas carols; the best-selling children's books tell the Christmas story and Christmas cards are reflecting the trend back to the true meaning of the festival of Christmas.

Area groups, schools, clubs and churches have many celebrations at this time. The theme of the meaning of Christmas is most apparent throughout the region. The Tri-Town Weekly is this week presenting on pages four and five stories of some of the religious observances being held in the churches.

Strong, Principal, explained to pupils some of the rights that we enjoy as Americans, after which the film "American Anniversary" was shown. The first inter-school basketball game in the new building will be played on Friday, December 18, when Mr. Breck's team will meet the boys from St. Joseph's of North Brookfield.

The girls have been practicing regularly with Mrs. Cummings, sixth grade teacher as their coach but up till now they have not been able to arrange a game with another school.

The attendance cup was won by Room 5, Miss Rosamond Benson teacher, for the month of November with an attendance of 97.96 percent.

Possibility Of Youth Recreation Program In Brookfield To Be Discussed Saturday Night

BROOKFIELD — A meeting which may mean a great deal to the teenage youth of the town will be held in Banquet Hall on Saturday evening, December 19, at 8 p. m. All high school students and their parents are invited to attend to discuss the establishment of a Youth Recreation Program, and to decide whether or not to hold a community-wide New Year's Eve party in Banquet Hall.

High school students have been asking for some sort of program to provide a "place to go" on Saturday evenings. A group of these boys and girls has been working with Rev. Walter Woodman on the project, and it is now felt that it might get under way in January. The cooperation of parents is essential, however, and this Saturday meeting has been called to try to ascertain whether such cooperation will be forthcoming.

CHRISTMAS IN THE CHURCHES

Christmas, according to the Merriam-Webster is "a Church festival commemorating the birth of Christ." Christmas, therefore, should center around the Church... should be "religious."

It may seem superfluous to plead for a "religious Christmas." The phrase is redundant. For unless Christmas is religious it is not Christmas. Nevertheless, many people are now asking that Christmas be redefined. And there is an echo of pagan nature worship in homes where the Christmas tree and tinsel take over completely, and Bethlehem story is forgotten.

St. Joseph's Abbey monks have done a remarkable work in "religious" Christmas cards. There are, too, a number of commendable commercial lines on sale. And the use of such cards is definitely on the upswing. We noticed a sign in a department store once "Sorry, All Out of Religious Christmas." The phrase is redundant. For unless Christmas is religious, it is not Christmas. The phrase is redundant and still be a Christmas card?

For religion — faith — is at the heart of Christmas. And it is a satisfaction to more and more people that the trend is toward returning the Bethlehem story to its proper place as the essence and soul of this season.

The place to hear that story is in your Church.
Let the joy and beauty of Christmas begin there!

TOWN BUDGETS

This is the season when town officials are working on their department budgets for the coming year. It is from these budgets that tax rates are made up. So each budget from each department is important to each taxpayer of the community.

When the budgets are all in, the amount which must be spent by the town during the year is determined and receipts to come in through the year are estimated. The difference between the amount to be spent and the anticipated receipts shows the amount which must be raised by taxation.

Some of the money to be received by the town will come from poll taxes, excise taxes, personal property taxes and real estate taxes. Estimates of state refunds and allotments and license fees of various kinds are included in anticipated receipts. Of course, most of the money which comes into the town coffers arrives there via real estate taxes.

Services to the town cost money. While every effort is made to keep taxes down, still it should not be done by omitting services which townspeople have the right to expect. Important among them being well-staffed, safe, efficient schools, good roads, good water, police protection and well-organized and equipped fire departments.

It is not the aim of any department to gouge the citizens. Sufficient funds should be made available to every section of town government so that they can all operate to the best of their efficiency and proficiency.

To offer economical efficient municipal service is the proper aim of each town department and this is the reason why the town budget is of great importance to every citizen of the area.

It is our observation that sometimes townspeople have complained about smallness of budget requests rather than the opposite. For services rendered well and economically, the citizens are willing and happy to pay their share.

Down To Earth
A Weekly Garden Column
For Our Area
Elizabeth T. Gavitt

It was very surprising to me to discover after the big rain last week that the earthworms were still on the job supporting civilization and working overtime to do it. Usually the ground is frozen by the middle of December and there is no activity on the night-crawler level. I did not, myself, actually see a worm to say "top of the morning to you" but the castings were all over the lawn and I was delighted to realize that the rain was getting a chance to seep down deeper in the ground through the worm holes instead of running off down the drains. An article on earthworms a few years ago in one of our national magazines went so far as to surmise that there could be no agriculture and therefore no civilization if there were no earthworms. SUCH a responsibility to put on the frail shoulders of our earthworms. Some people, including me, even buy earthworms to add to their garden population.

Raising them is an actual business. It seems that there is a special diet for them and definite conditions of moisture and temperature to be met for them to prosper and multiply but that it is possible to raise a trunkful of worms in your cellar — if you would really like to have that many. They need to be in the dark so any old chest might do if it had a cover.

A certain lilac bush by my kitchen door has been growing very lustily since I began putting the day's coffee grounds around it. Maybe the earthworms like coffee and get stimulated to greater activity so the lilac gets more good from the rain than its neighbors and therefore grows faster. May be the grounds simply help to make the clay soil more fluffy and moisture absorbing.

I have heard about a house fern that was fed coffee every day and now and again an oyster and some ammonia. I was so astonished I forgot to ask if it was household ammonia or aromatic spirits of ammonia (to revive its drooping fronds) but it makes a good story anyway. I don't guarantee that this diet is "what every fern should have." I'm just reporting it as a curiosity.

Merry Christmas

Come let the joy and the beauty of Christmas begin at church where all gather to reverently recall once more that glorious day when He was born.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD
by WILLIAM G. FLETCHER
President Eisenhower, Speaking Forcefully To United Nations General Assembly, Fulfills People's Hope For Leadership

It is no exaggeration to state that the appearance of President Eisenhower before the UN General Assembly, speaking forcefully and with fervor of a new plan to harness the awesome forces of the atom, was the event for which millions have been desperately longing. As this column has repeatedly noted, millions of people not only in America but abroad, have been looking to our President for leadership, new ideas, direction. Last week, he supplied it.

The speech might be divided into parts. One was the solemn marshalling of the facts about the development in this country and elsewhere. He laid the facts on the line, in no sense threatening anyone, but merely summarizing them. The manner of depicting the present status of our atomic power was, surely, as forceful as could be imagined. If we were attacked, said the President, we NOW have the power to drop bombs equal in power to all bombs and ammunition fired or dropped by all warring nations in all theaters of war during all of World War II!

The President then continued to outline the new plan. It is most important for everyone to realize that he did NOT talk in any way about any sort of plan to "outlaw or prohibit" atomic weapons, or to limit their production, or to set up any sort of international system of inspection or control of atom-bomb producing facilities. We proposed such scheme back in 1946, (the Baruch Plan), and it has been stymied ever since by the Soviets' categorical refusal to consider any sort of inspection within Soviet borders. In a spirit of total realism, accepting the obvious fact that the production of atomic weapons will go on, the President turned to new avenues of approach.

He outlined a suggestion that all nations turn over certain amounts of their fissionable material to an international agency operated by the UN, to pool these resources for research into the peaceful uses of the atomic material in the creation of power and in medicine, for example.

No one should expect miracles from this proposal in any immediate future. It was not that a first reaction of the Russians would be critical. It is the long-range reaction which we must watch. They have now promised other business commitments, and the chairman, Mrs. Harry W. Bonner, appointed Mrs. Helen Rohan of Long Hill road to succeed Mrs. Gavitt.

The Committee voted to sponsor the Youth Recreation Program, expected to get under way in January, run by the local teenagers themselves with the advice of Rev. Walter Woodman. Members of the committee will attend a Youth Recreation meeting to be held in Banquet Hall this Saturday evening at 8 when teen-agers and their parents will discuss the development of the program.

The VIC also voted to sponsor next Fourth of July another "Brookfield Jamboree" patterned on the highly successful event held for Disaster Relief last July.

Nativity Scene To Be On Brookfield Comm'n

Brookfield — The Village Improvement Committee met last Thursday evening at the Town Hall and voted to build a "Nativity Scene", to be placed on the Common to supplement the town's Christmas Tree which will be lighted this week. Mrs. Grover Boynton was appointed to be in charge of this work, which was made possible from the proceeds of a food sale and a dance run by the Committee last fall.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gavitt resigned as treasurer of the VIC due to 3.

Christian Science Column

"Is the universe, including Man, Evolved by Atomic Forces?" will be the subject of the sermon to be read at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon is the Golden Text from Hebrews, "The Universe, including Man, is the work of the hands of the Father." (1:10). "Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens and the works of thine hands."

Among the passages from "Science and Health with Keynotes" by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following: "The true story theory of the universe, including man, is in material history but in spiritual development. Inspired truth relinquishes a material, sense and adopts the spiritual and immortal" (347:25).

Passages to be read from the Bible include the following: "For, lo, he that formed the mountains, and created the world, and declared unto man what his thought, that maketh morning darkness, and tread upon the high places of the Lord. The God of host, his name" (Amos 4:13).

For and About The Home
by Edith L. Holmes

Sugar 'n' spice 'n' everything nice is what these Ginger Men are made of. Spice makes things taste good, fills your kitchen with the wonderful, fragrant smells of fresh baking.

Ginger Men

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 beaten egg
- 1/4 cup light molasses
- 2 cups enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon cloves

Thoroughly cream shortening and sugar, add egg and molasses and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients; mix thoroughly. Roll 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured surface. Cut with floured cookie cutter. Bake on greased cookie sheet in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 minutes. Makes 6 dozen cookies.

They're thin, crisp, and spicy—the kind that call for a glass of cold milk.

Jumbo Sugar Cookies

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 egg
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup milk

Cream shortening, sugar, and vanilla until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Sift flour with salt and baking powder, and add alternately with milk to make a smooth dough. Chill about 2 hours if there's time, for it will be easier to cut cookies. Roll 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured board, turn a saucer upside down, and cut around it to make big cookies. Sprinkle with sugar, and bake on a greased cookie sheet in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 2 dozen cookies.

You can make them Christmasy with holly leaves and berries. Frost the cookies with powdered sugar frosting, cut holly leaves from citron, and use red dots (cinnamon candies) for the berries.

Helpful Hints

For youngsters who like to play in the snow, make mittens out of plastic material. Slip these over regular mittens. The plastic mittens keep hands dry and clean.

For easy fire-starting in your fireplace, save leftover candle stubs. They ignite logs quickly and surely and you don't have burning paper odor.

Keep sugar in a shaker for the children instead of letting them use a spoon. It eliminates waste and it sprinkles more evenly upon cereals.

For and About The Home
by Edith L. Holmes

Sugar 'n' spice 'n' everything nice is what these Ginger Men are made of. Spice makes things taste good, fills your kitchen with the wonderful, fragrant smells of fresh baking.

Ginger Men

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 beaten egg
- 1/4 cup light molasses
- 2 cups enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon cloves

Thoroughly cream shortening and sugar, add egg and molasses and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients; mix thoroughly. Roll 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured surface. Cut with floured cookie cutter. Bake on greased cookie sheet in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 minutes. Makes 6 dozen cookies.

They're thin, crisp, and spicy—the kind that call for a glass of cold milk.

Jumbo Sugar Cookies

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 egg
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup milk

Cream shortening, sugar, and vanilla until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Sift flour with salt and baking powder, and add alternately with milk to make a smooth dough. Chill about 2 hours if there's time, for it will be easier to cut cookies. Roll 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured board, turn a saucer upside down, and cut around it to make big cookies. Sprinkle with sugar, and bake on a greased cookie sheet in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 2 dozen cookies.

You can make them Christmasy with holly leaves and berries. Frost the cookies with powdered sugar frosting, cut holly leaves from citron, and use red dots (cinnamon candies) for the berries.

Helpful Hints

For youngsters who like to play in the snow, make mittens out of plastic material. Slip these over regular mittens. The plastic mittens keep hands dry and clean.

For easy fire-starting in your fireplace, save leftover candle stubs. They ignite logs quickly and surely and you don't have burning paper odor.

Keep sugar in a shaker for the children instead of letting them use a spoon. It eliminates waste and it sprinkles more evenly upon cereals.

It's better to own your house

One of the nicest things about owning your house is that you make your own rules... for yourself, your children, your pets. This friendly Mutual Savings Bank can help you become an owner. HAPPY HUNTING & FINE FISHING

BY LEE MATTHEWS

PARENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

If someone told you to purchase your child a car, and without any driving lessons turn the youngsters loose on the highways with it, what would you think? Sure you would feel the person was absolutely crazy. Why you would reason, "It may kill him or her, or some innocent person." You would be absolutely correct. Automobiles are death dealing machines in the hands of careless persons.

Now stop and think! Use the very same line of reasoning as concerns driving a car. If you are giving one of your loved ones a present of a rifle or shotgun, have they been thoroughly trained in safe handling? If not, then please make it your responsibility to see that proper instruction is arranged for the recipient. Otherwise you may be giving your youngster a weapon with which they may kill themselves, yes, it may kill you.

If you wish expert instruction for a member of your family in safe and proper firearms handling, contact your local sportsman's Club. I am sure that they will feel it a duty, as well as an honor to assign a member for the purpose.

TOY WEAPONS — HABIT FORMING

Some weeks ago I was walking along a Worcester street and observed some preschool age children at play. I don't know if they were playing cops and robbers, cowboys and Indians, or what have you? It makes little or no difference, the point I wish to make is they were pointing toy weapons at each other and their verbal bange rent the air. Innocent child's play you think?

A shudder went through me as I wondered (think I know) just what these tots would do if they came in contact with a real weapon some careless Goon left laying around. HABIT IS STRONG!

GAME MAP BACKFIRES

The Barre Kiwanis Club in order to raise funds to further carry on the fine children's work of their organization, designed and placed on sale a "Deer & Small Game Map." Sections were pinpointed which were known to be good areas for deer, hare, and birds. It seemed like a good money raising project, which wouldn't do any one harm. However a group of Petersham landowners banded together and had their town plastered with large signs reading, SAFETY ZONE. No entering, no parking, no deer hunting, no smell of liquor on the breath, no loaded guns in this area at all times. Deer Committee of Petersham Taxpayers, Horace O. Coolidge, Clerk.

The Game Map was given as the reason for this action by the firm owners. As soon as this situation was brought to the attention of the Kiwanians, the maps were taken off sale, the Thursday before the opening of deer season. This showed good faith by the Club.

I am not a member of the Kiwanis Club, however I am of the firm opinion that the map committee did not think the project would backfire. My feeling is also strong that the maps did not increase the hunting pressure to any great extent in this area.

HOW LONG MAY DEER LIVE?

This question has often been asked, and a letter from Vermont sheds some light on the subject. R. B. Howard had a pet doe, which has been seen by thousands of persons. One of its pet tricks was to stand on its rear legs and take a candy bar from the mouth of Howard.

Recently this doe in an attempt to jump the walls of its pen fell and succumbed to a broken neck. The doe was still in excellent health, and if it were not for the accident may have lived many more years. At the time of its death it was 21½ years old.

Christmas Eve

Every holiday is observed in a fitting manner within the Watson home, but Christmas is the most festive of all.

A great deal of thought is portrayed in Mrs. Watson's unusual decorations. One corner of their living room is reserved for the Christmas tree, which is laden with lights and unusual ornaments. Many of the ornaments have been made and decorated by Mrs. Watson. This year, the mantel over the fireplace will be banked with English Holly and pine cones dipped in gilt and silver paint. In the center will be a figurine of the Madonna holding the Christ Child, and many angel figurines will be placed along the mantel.

The entrance hall and the winding stairway will be decked with holly, mistletoe and Christmas bells.

On Christmas Eve, Mrs. Watson usually serves a buffet supper for her family and a few friends. This year, the centerpiece on her dining-room table will be made of magnolia leaves from the south, touched with gilt and silver paint, and sprays of English holly. White candles will burn in silver candleabra on the table. A typical menu follows:

Scalloped Oysters
Lobster Newburg served on points of toast
Poinsettia Salad
Hot Rolls
Condiments
Christmas Log Dessert
Coffee

Mrs. Watson is a true gourmet; she collects old and new cookbooks and is most enthusiastic about sharing her recipes with others.

Lobster Newburg

Saute 2 lbs. Lobster meat in ¼ lb. butter. Add 1 pt. heavy cream and 1 pt. milk. Just before serving, add 3 beaten egg yolks and sherry wine to taste. Serve on toast. (12 persons.)

Poinsettia Salad

Peel ripe persimmons and cut, but not to base, in sections to form petals. Spread open and in the center place small balls of seasoned cream cheese which have been rolled in chopped pistachio nuts. Place on watercress and garnish with highly seasoned French dressing.

Bache de Noel

(Christmas Log)

Beat 5 egg yolks well. Add 1 c. powdered sugar and 3 tablespoons cocoa. Beat until light and fluffy. Fold in 5 stiffly beaten egg whites and spread batter evenly in a buttered and floured cookie sheet. Bake at 325 degrees for 15 minutes. After baking, very quickly turn the cake onto a damp towel sprinkled with sugar and cut off edges. Roll cake in towel and cool.

Unroll the cake, spread it very lightly with 3 tablespoons Mocha Butter Cream and spread thickly with 2 c. cream which has been whipped stiff with ½ c. granulated sugar.

AND THE MICE RAN AWAY WITH THE SHOW

WEST BROOKFIELD — Twenty-six little grey mice with pink ears and long long tails were the hit of the Christmas pageant presented recently by the West Brookfield Elementary school. Their presentation of the Tennessee Wig brought down the house.

The mice were all kindergartners in the class of Mrs. Jennie Nickerson. Costuming was under the direction of Nell De Angelis. The pageant was sponsored by the local P.T.A.

Roll again. Spread mocha butter frosting over the roll, using a spatula to make a rough surface in imitation of bark. Decorate with swirls of frosting forced through a pastry tube.

MOCHA BUTTER CREAM FROSTING: Cream ½ lb. sweet butter with ½ c. sugar. Flavor with 2 tablespoons strong coffee and 1 tablespoon dark cocoa. Sprinkle ends of log with chopped nuts.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson have one son, Kim, a senior Duke University, who joins his parents in wishing one all a "Merry Christmas!"

HAPPY HUNTING & FINE FISHING

BY LEE MATTHEWS

WHY DEER CHECKING STATIONS?

Strange as it may seem, many hunters do not realize the importance of our deer checking stations. Less than half the deer killed are brought in to the stations. New Hampshire, for instance, imposes a $100 fine for neglect to have the kill checked. In our state we have learned through data, via the checking areas that almost 40% of the fall population is made up of animals born the same year.

We know that bucks reach their maximum size and weight at 5½ years, and does at 3½ years of age. We know that our herd produces at the rate of about 1.65 fawns per adult doe per year. Other states in good areas average 1.7.

Let's keep in mind Michigan starvation areas that produce only .85 fawns per doe per year. It doesn't take very long for a herd to get out of balance. We at present are harvesting about one out of every five and still showing a small increase. Most state's deer problems are overpopulation. Michigan had 40,000 deer starve to death in the winter of 1951.

A splendid example of how deer increase is an experiment conducted in Michigan. Two bucks and four does were placed in an enclosure of good habitat. Five years later the herd numbered 160, and the vegetation was showing severe damage.

DEER SEASON ECHOES
An Athol fire fighter, on his first deer hunting trip with experienced pals, was stationed at a run and told just what to do if a deer came by. He did and he was the only member of the party to shoot a deer.

Then there was a Williamstown man, the shooting instructor of his family. His wife, son, daughter, and two sons-in-law all were successful. The teacher drew a blank.

The usual freaks also turned up. The plinto (brown & white spots) and the five point doe, were among them. A very unusual incident happened in New Hampshire. District Chief Bernard Cram, of the New Hampshire Fish and Game Dept. phoned in word that a 7 point buck and a red squirrel had tangled with a broken powerline in Moultonboro. The animals were found all cooked.

FREAK ACCIDENT

Conservation Officer Dave Dupee of New Hampshire tells of three hunters out with their dogs. One fired at a rabbit, unsure whether the twitching bunny had been hit squarely or only injured, the hunter dropped his gun and held up the rabbit for examination. One of the dogs jumping up to reach the rabbit, hopped on the trigger which released a shot. The nearest dog to the gun was instantly killed, while one of the hunters received a shower of pellets, one of which lodged in his cheek.

I FEEL BETTER NOW

Recently while typing in my office, I heard via my wife's kitchen radio an appeal for someone to play Santa to two little boys in a foster home. It seems these youngsters are

Brookfield VFW Gives Stereoscopic Viewers

BY LEE MATTHEWS

BROOKFIELD — The Brookfield Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 530, gave an excellent example early this week of the true Christmas spirit, when it was announced that the Post has donated 12 "View-masters", stereoscopic viewers which can be handled by one man, to the Rutland Veterans Hospital. The Post also gave the hospital 54 reels of views, ranging in travel scenes all over the world.

At the same time, the Post Commander, Edward H. Mellor, announced that the Post had given this week clothing for two children to the Canton Crippled Children's Hospital School, in Canton.

living with a family in the country and wanted fishing outfits. We wrote to Julie & Johnny, station WTAG in Worcester, and Julie Chase answered and told us no one had offered to supply the boys' needs.

So, well before Christmas we took complete angling outfits for both boys to the studio. Montague rods, reels, lines, etc., as Julie put it, "Every thing but the fish."

Each outfit was packed in a long box, every article fastened in place, and the top covered with cellophane. We are sure that two very happy boys will enjoy these gifts, and make our holiday season the merrier too.

BEAVER AT WORK IN BARRE
At the rear of the Russell Philbrick Farm, will be found the starting of a dam which is in the process of construction by an industrious pair of beavers. These animals were live trapped in an area where they were damaging farm land and released in Barre.

The area where the dam may be seen is on the Hubbardston Road, route 62, and about ¼ mile beyond the Parker Farm. Drive slowly and watch along the side of the road (right side) on the opposite side of the road may be seen many good sized trees that have been felled and dragged through the culvert to aid in the dam building.

The bare sticks to be seen have been used as food. The bark being the main food supply of the beavers. May I suggest that you drive out and show the children the fine work of these unusual animals. It will be a surprise to many adults as well.

INTRODUCING SIR REX
If any hunters are lost in the woods next year for any length of time in this part of the state, an urgent phone call will probably be made to Barre. It seems that Lawrence Marshall, South St. is the proud owner of a bloodhound. It is only five months of age, and now weighs 64 pounds.

"Sir Rex" is from a long line of very successful man trailers, and came from the Arthur Jennison Kennels, Keene, New Hampshire. I wish Lawrence the best of luck in training the dog, and hope Sir Rex becomes as famous as some others of his line.

Party Given By Police Entertains North Kids

NORTH BROOKFIELD — The Annual Christmas party, sponsored by the Police Department, for children of the town, from pre-school through Grade 4 was held last Friday afternoon in the Star Theatre.

Santa Claus, who rode through town during the noon hour, visited the children at the Theatre and presented each with a stocking full of goodies. Door prizes were given to four boys and four girls. The children were accompanied by their teachers.

The prize winners were John Penn, Stephen Varnum, Peter Chase, Raymond Dupell, Leslie Smith, Carol Propeck, Ann Miller and Barbara Beauregard.

living with a family in the country and wanted fishing outfits. We wrote to Julie & Johnny, station WTAG in Worcester, and Julie Chase answered and told us no one had offered to supply the boys' needs.

So, well before Christmas we took complete angling outfits for both boys to the studio. Montague rods, reels, lines, etc., as Julie put it, "Every thing but the fish."

Each outfit was packed in a long box, every article fastened in place, and the top covered with cellophane. We are sure that two very happy boys will enjoy these gifts, and make our holiday season the merrier too.

BEAVER AT WORK IN BARRE
At the rear of the Russell Philbrick Farm, will be found the starting of a dam which is in the process of construction by an industrious pair of beavers. These animals were live trapped in an area where they were damaging farm land and released in Barre.

The area where the dam may be seen is on the Hubbardston Road, route 62, and about ¼ mile beyond the Parker Farm. Drive slowly and watch along the side of the road (right side) on the opposite side of the road may be seen many good sized trees that have been felled and dragged through the culvert to aid in the dam building.

The bare sticks to be seen have been used as food. The bark being the main food supply of the beavers. May I suggest that you drive out and show the children the fine work of these unusual animals. It will be a surprise to many adults as well.

INTRODUCING SIR REX
If any hunters are lost in the woods next year for any length of time in this part of the state, an urgent phone call will probably be made to Barre. It seems that Lawrence Marshall, South St. is the proud owner of a bloodhound. It is only five months of age, and now weighs 64 pounds.

"Sir Rex" is from a long line of very successful man trailers, and came from the Arthur Jennison Kennels, Keene, New Hampshire. I wish Lawrence the best of luck in training the dog, and hope Sir Rex becomes as famous as some others of his line.

Memories

AWAY IN A MANGER... the Sunday School Christmas tree and oranges... the fragrant tree coming through the front door with Mother cautioning care for the Newell post... NO CRIB FOR HIS BED... the candle clips with the pretty scalloped edges... the bangles that came from far away lands... the big doll... and the sled... and the skates... the practical presents we were lucky to have in lean years... THE LITTLE LORD JESUS... the hard candies with flowers in them... the shining goose and the cranberry sauce... and the flaming pudding... waiting at the top of the stairs while someone peeked to see if Santa had come... the littlest one always in front... the delicious excitement of marching slowly down the long long stairs... LAY DOWN HIS SWEET HEAD... the stack of papers and ribbons overflowing the pasteboard carton in the middle of the floor... Christmas cards which came with bits of news of old friends... opening the stockings before breakfast... a tangerine always in the toe... THE CATTLE ARE LOWING... the magic minutes at dusk when the lights on the tree were lit... the candles flickering before the tiny crèche on the mantle... and the soft voices of the children singing carols to the accompaniment of the old pump organ...

Boys In Armor of Combat Yearning For Peace and Home, Ask "Why Are We Here?"

THE CHRISTMAS PARADOX

Throughout many farflung portions of the globe this week exiled Americans will be striving, often with heavy thoughts, to capture the spirit of Christmas, to translate the smiling heart of America's Yuletide mood into strange surroundings. In tense Korea, bewildered Japan, revived Germany, barren North Africa, on remote airbases in Labrador, Greenland, the Azores and Saudi Arabia, men and boys in the armor of combat belie their calling both by the yearning of their hearts for peace and home and the now-traditional way in which they shower gifts and attentions on the children and people of the lands in which they unwillingly find themselves.

Christmas in Army and Air Powers have the ability to destroy Force posts throughout the world is gay to a degree on the exterior, far gayer than need be, save to still the ache in the Americans' hearts and minds. It is not only the simple loneliness, ever the companion of a soldier, more acute at this season; it is the unanswered question, why are we here, why must these things be? The Christmas in the armed services is a desperate symbol of the paradox of the age. Men prepare for violence everywhere, talk in the loud terms of defiance, yet—who is warlike, who of all mankind thirst for battle?

One need not search out the services for other signs of the paradox. In the humming offices of the State Department and the Pentagon, in the editorial rooms of the world, in Foreign Offices of frightened Europe, it haunts the air. As the statesman pauses to make a Christmas address to his people, he has on his desk "situation estimates of the enemy" and a draft of a note threatening another Government of the consequences of a possible action.

The history-minded may say, "It has always been this way; there's nothing new about it." No doubt, the men of Alexander's and Caesar's legions hungered for home on occasion, and had little stomach for combat. Literature is replete with eloquent testimony of man's dislike of war.

Yet, is there not one abysmal difference at Christmas, 1953? It may well be found in the fact that this year, we KNOW that two

During this one week, we are all men of good will. Can we not strive to abolish the paradox during the rest of the days of the year?

UNTU US

Unto us a child is born
Unto us
We who greet the Christmas morn
Wonder-struck and terror torn
Unto us a child is born
Unto us.

Unto us a son is given
Unto us
We by every devil driven,
Seeking yet the hope of heaven,
Unto us a child is given
Unto us.

His Advent Feet keep coming on
And on to us.
Not to an era dead and gone,
To thoughts of peace once hoped upon
Or heaven given up. Anon
His Advent Feet keep coming on
To us, to us.

Down To Earth A Weekly Garden Column For Our Area Elizabeth T. Gavitt

If you are one of the fortunate ones who receives a beautiful potted plant for Christmas but wonder how to care for it here are a few suggestions.

A poinsettia needs a warm (65) temperature and should be kept out of draughts. A sudden chilling is very bad for it.

Cyclamen and azalea like the sun, plenty of water and location that is not too hot (60).

African violets like filtered sunlight or a north window. A window facing east or south should have a glass curtain of some light material like organdy or marquisette to break the direct rays of the mid-day sun. These plants should be watered from the bottom but should not stand water usually in water. The water should be warm not cold. Some people report good results from using hot water in a dish under a sick plant. The steam may have been the reviving factor. But another report I read said that although the writer had revived a sick plant by putting it in the refrigerator for a little while! If you have had a plant for some time and it fails to blossom it may be that it needs to be repotted and given some new soil. The proper mixture for a violet can be bought ready to use at some of the chain stores and will save you the bother of mixing leafmold, compost and sand if you are only repotting one or two plants. There are on the market also several pot foods that can be applied without watering the house. These are added to the water according to directions on the bottle and used at stated intervals.

Gloxinas make beautiful house-plants but, like the violets, care should be taken to keep water off the leaves themselves. Also too much water is definitely harmful. Keep moist, not wet, but let it get almost dry once in a while. Cyclamen should be kept from ever drying out and also it needs air that is moist and very warm. This should be a long-lasting plant and has been known to send up buds for six months.

If your plant stand is directly in front of a window and pretty close to the glass it would be a good maneuver to place three issues of the Tri-Town Weekly (pinned or stapled together) up against the glass for insulation. These very cold nights. The plants can stand some drop in temperature at night but not as much as occur on a windy bitter night beside a window. Even we wouldn't choose that spot to spend the night cosily.

One woman told me the secret of her success with plants was that she thought about the particular plant she was working with and did for it what she would like done for her if she was that plant! I've never been able to go quite that far. I wonder if I were one of the new beautiful hybrid epiphyllum, "orchid cactus," what I would want done for me. I think I'd like my name changed first of all.

The Mary MacArthur Memorial Respirator Unit at Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, is one of seven similar centers established by the March of Dimes Funds to provide cheaper and better care for Polio respirator patients.

Today's Meditation from "The Upper Room"

Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder. (Isaiah 9:5) Read Luke 2:1-7.

As we approach Christmas Day, the scene is familiar: the star over Bethlehem, the sheep feeding, the multitude of the heavenly host praising God, the rapture of the humble shepherds witnessing to the fact that the Messiah has come.

We ourselves see the star glowing. Above the hills we hear the angelic voices saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." We ourselves journey into the village and seek the stable where we see Joseph and Mary and the Christ Child. We know God's love is shown in the Holy Child in the lowly manger.

We look with deepened awe at the figure of Him who is destined to become the center of human history. Here is the King who seeks to rule the thinking and the actions of the world by making His abode in human hearts. God could not have sent to us a more precious gift than Christ, our Saviour.

PRAYER

Our Father may we find a new meaning of the birth of Thy beloved Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. May the joy of Christmas inspire us to serve others and so find a deeper fellowship with them and with Thee. In His name. Amen. Magdalene H. Schubert (Pennsylvania)

Christian Science Column

The practical value of daily obedience to the teachings of Christ Jesus will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Among the selections to be read from the Bible, in the Lesson Sermon entitled "Christian Science," will be the following:

"But continue thou in the things which thou has learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them; And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus" (II Timothy 3:14, 15).

The following correlative citation will be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"The substance of all devotion is the reflection and demonstration of divine Love, healing sickness and destroying sin. Our Master said, 'If ye love me, keep my commandments'" (241:19).

The Golden Text is from Isaiah:

"Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem. The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations" (52:9, 10).

Milk Prices Drop On Jan. 1

MASSACHUSETTS — Fluid milk for dairy farmers supplying Greater Boston, Lowell, Lawrence, Springfield, and Worcester, Massachusetts, markets will be cents a hundredweight, or approximately one-half cent, at January 1. Richard D. Federal Milk Market Administrator at Boston, attributed the decrease to sharply increased milk production in the state.

Being held down by bad conditions last summer, which in the milkbreds of England resumed its upward trend, a vengeance in November. A much less than normal seasonal decrease in production, consistent with a contraseasonal decrease in Class I milk sales, and the supply for the four counties combined to jump from present above normal in October to 184 percent above normal in November. The "normal" of supply used in the for milk demands in the short production month of November with an adequate operating rate.

New Braintree Farm Is Identified

This Is Cloverdale Farm, Spencer

Three years ago one of Spencer's enterprising farmers decided he needed a larger barn. So, with the help of his brother-in-law, and an occasional carpenter, he built it himself. OUR JOB IN THE YEAR AHEAD

At the time of the turn of the year, it is commonplace to remark that the Government, or the nation, or the state, has a "tremendous responsibility" in the year ahead. Such a statement is especially true of the United States and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in the year which lies just before us.

But it is perhaps more important to reflect upon the fact that 1954 will demand much of us all as individual citizens. For many weighty reasons, it looks as if 1954 might well be the turning point for both the world and the national community as far as the post-World War II period is concerned. It is wholly vital that every American citizen be well informed about issues here and abroad, that he be alert and that he be ready and able to make decisions as to where he stands on these issues.

1954 will be, assuredly, the year of Ike's great test as President. He is evidently preparing to present to Congress next week a detailed program for action which his administration expects the House and Senate to take. Ike's supporters and opponents alike owe it to themselves to be familiar with that program, to take stands about it and to watch its fate in the legislature.

In the world as a whole, the entire basis of our post-1954 foreign policy is being and will continue to be rigorously tested. We have pinned much on the notion that the six main nations of western Europe—France, West Germany, Belgium, Holland, Italy and Luxembourg—can unite in the formation of a European Army. The tragic indecisions of the French Parliament are combining with Soviet propaganda to frustrate that program. If the French do not vote in its favor soon, we must consider other alternatives. We can no longer afford to keep Europe in arms divided against itself. To gain a new Ally—Germany—must we lose our ancient friend, France?

Within the national community, it seems unlikely that the year can pass without a showdown decision on the whole critical matter of the drive against native Communism. In seeking to purge ourselves of danger are we creating a new threat to freedom at home, in the person of Senator McCarthy and his methods? Every man must stand up and be counted on this delicate issue.

In November, we will have state and Congressional elections. The fate of the Eisenhower administration will stand or fall on their result. The solvency and the integrity of our own state government will rest on the voters' decisions on continuing Governor Hertz in office. No contest for a seat in House and Senate will be fought on purely local or personal grounds; every candidate will reflect a viewpoint on the administration of the President.

To make sound decisions, we, the American people, must work ceaselessly to understand our problems. Free discussion and open-minded presentation of facts are the very foundation of a working democracy. The pages of any newspaper, large or small, serve their purpose in maintaining the soundness of this foundation. To this service, we humbly dedicate our work in the year ahead.

Down To Earth

A Weekly Garden Column
For Our Area
Elizabeth T. Gavitt

It is about time to kiss the dear old Christmas tree good-bye and get it out of the house before it becomes any more of a hazard. If the needles haven't fallen off it can still fulfill another purpose and of course my Yankee heritage is all for making the most of anything and everything around the place. It used to be referred to as MAKING THE EAGLE SCREAM in my family. I suppose it meant that you squeezed the silver dollar so hard that the poor old eagle screamed in pain. Maybe it was because each dollar had to work overtime that it screamed, but the old timers only managed to put aside a little for luxuries by making the most of all their resources.

Well, anyway, the Christmas tree will make a nice cozy perching place for the chickadees that come to your bird feeding station if you take it out, standard and all and tether it near by. They like to dart in and take a single sunflower seed to a different place to eat it. They are so perky and sassy-looking.

If you don't have need of a perch you may have a nice rhododendron that needs a little protection from the direct sun and some of the Christmas tree can make a very nice bit of shade for that. Or you may have a choice perennial that would be very grateful for a bit of winter protection. The branches of the tree, cut off and laid over a planting of foxgloves helps a good deal to keep down the loss from heaving in the spring.

Sometimes the children have a lot of fun fixing the tree up for the birds by tying on bits of suet and jars of peanut butter and other bits of seed and dainties in little mesh bags that they make themselves.

This is a tip for mother to keep the small fry busy during the long holiday vacation.

Good old Christmas tree. We did enjoy you when you were all dressed up for Christmas. Now it is time to go to work like the rest of us.

I can hardly wait for the seed catalogues to arrive. Knowing the cost of printing I can see now why one has to send a request before getting one.

What Do You Think About Senator McCarthy?

FACING THE ISSUE

No one who faces the public, whether from a platform or in print, can escape the question today, "What do you think about Senator McCarthy?" No American who values the traditions of this country and who cherishes his ability to speak his mind freely at any time, any place, should wish to avoid an answer, or should have lingering doubts as to what his answer actually is.

We hear all too often the vast answer, "I like his ideas and aims, but I don't like his methods." One frequently wonders if the speaker has analyzed either the Senator's aims and ideas or his "methods." It has already been stated by McCarthy himself that everyone is either for or against him. He himself is responsible for the statement, some weeks ago that a vote against a Republican candidate for Senator was a vote against him. (In such McCarthyism, many good Republicans see the death knell of their own party, if he not publicly disowned.)

There can be little doubt that Joe McCarthy is attracting in his peculiar fashion an evil which is fraught with ultimate danger to this land. We know from records compiled long before McCarthy entered the scene about the degree to which Communist agents influenced United States policy in the world before, during and after World War II. It is written on the record that the evil operations of Alger Hiss, Harry Dexter White, the Rosenbergs and many others were brought to light in part at least, due to the investigations of certain Congressional committees, especially the one headed in 1948 by now Vice-President Richard M. Nixon.

There can be little if any doubt that there are, today, many misguided men and women, who, for a variety of reasons, are dedicated within this country to helping the cause of Communism—which, today, equals, aiding Soviet Russia. They operate in the armed services, in Government departments, they work in industry, business, the professions, the schools and the universities. No one in his right mind doubts for a moment that it is in the American interest to seek them out, prove their disloyalty, remove them from positions of influence, convict them of crimes when convictions are due.

But it is not the question, how best, how most efficiently, can this be done? How do McCarthy's "methods" differ from those of other Congressional committees or agencies such as the F.B.I.?

Today's Meditation

from "The Upper Room"

I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. (John 8:12) Read Corinthians 5:17-21.

When the year ends, we look back over the path we have traveled. Voices deep within us call out, "We are your lost opportunities. We are the love and the pity and the kindness you locked within your heart."

At this milestone we also look forward. We try to look ahead into the future. We do not know what it will hold for us of joy or sorrow, friend or foe, success or failure, life or death. We face this challenge of change. As we do so, we need faith and power.

We look up. We come to the place where stands the cross on which the Prince of glory died. We see that "love divine, all loves excellant." There only do we hear that sure word of forgiveness for past failures. In Christ only can we find power that will hold our spirits strong and steady. In Him is our hope for the future as He has been our salvation in the past.

PRAYER

O Lord God, lead us onward into the new year. May Thy hand ever guide us, the Holy Spirit abide with us, strengthen and sustain us. Help us that we waiver not on the pathway of the new year. In Thy Son's name we pray. Amen.

Telecasting on Channel 5, Worcester's first television station went on the air approximately six months after the FCC gave the station's license, the Salisbury Broadcasting Corp., the "green light" to begin.

"During recently past weeks when test pattern and shake-down telecasts were being transmitted, the Channel 14 headquarters, atop Asenbush Hill outside of Worcester, has received hundreds of phone calls and messages reporting good, strong, mirror-like pictures from an extremely wide area. The WWOR-TV transmitting antenna is 1619 feet above sea level. HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—I recently bought, and am remodeling, an old house in the country, where there is little natural protection from the wind. The house needs to be re-roofed, and what can I do to make the roofing material more wind-resistant?

A—Proper application is the only way to protect roofing against high winds. For farm homes and other buildings in high wind areas, cementing down of asphalt shingle tabs with quick-setting asphalt cement is recommended. Also suggested are interlocking asphalt shingles, which are made to lock together tightly. Every shingle is held down by the shingles on both sides of it as well as by nails.

Q—How can I repair a crack in a garden pool made of concrete?

A—The crack can be filled with a mixture of one part of portland cement and three parts of sand with enough water to make a stiff paste. Clean out the crack and undercut the sides so that they slope in toward the top.

Q—Is there a way to keep nailheads from showing through a thin coat of plaster?

A—Yes. Nailheads show because rust forms on them, and the trick is to prevent the rusting. To do this, coat the nailheads with shellac and let it dry before plastering the wall.

Q—How can grass be kept from growing between stones in a flagstone terrace?

A—Make a strong solution of rock salt in water and wet the cracks between stones. The liquid can be poured from a can or a pitcher or sprinkled from a watering can.

Three Week End Fires Keep North Dept. Busy

NORTH BROOKFIELD — The Fire Department were unusually busy last week and when three fires broke out in the area.

The first was a brush fire which started near the town dump on the East Brookfield road and the second was a brush fire on the West Brookfield road near the Pervier farm.

The third broke out at the unoccupied house owned by William G. Collins on Grove street. The fire was caused by an overheated furnace which had been turned on to protect the water pipes. Mrs. Richard Toomey, a neighbor, saw the smoke swirling in the empty rooms and acting quickly, sent in the alarm which no doubt saved the house from serious damage. Damage estimated by Chief John C. Lane was set at $1000.00.

Local Girl Will Head Accordion Studio

WEST BROOKFIELD — Beverly Bostrom of Church street, a life-long student of the piano-accordion, was recently appointed head of the new local branch studio of the Springfield Accordion Center. The new studio will be known as Studio Three, with opening date to be announced soon. The Springfield Center has earned the reputation of being one of New England's most progressive accordion schools, under Amadeo Leone, the founder.

It was a student of the center who first presented the instrument in concert on a par with other instruments. This was at the Young People's Symphony concert at the Springfield Municipal Auditorium in 1949. A student of the center also won the Hoface Heidt and the Ted Mack auditions in Springfield.

Miss Bostrom is completing a teacher's course at the center and according to Mr. Leone has the qualities to make her a competent instructor. Announcement of Studio Three's opening with full details for enrollment will appear in these pages soon.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis used $6,000,000 for polio prevention in 1953, primarily in mass field inoculations of Gamma Globulin. In 1954, the Foundation will spend $26,500,000 for polio prevention because of the increased expense of extensive field trials with a new vaccine.

HAPPY HUNTING & FINE FISHING

BY LEE MATTHEWS

CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

Did you ever hear of this club? Well if you haven't you sure are going to hear plenty about them in the near future. Although this organization is in its infancy in this country, in Canada it has done a great job of awakening the public interest in many phases of conservation. Starting in our country to the north, membership is well over 100,000 at present.

The president, Ian R. Dowie writes: "This Country is full of people who feel the urge to get outdoors, and who get a tremendous satisfaction out of getting closer to nature whether it be on a hunting or fishing trip or simply on a walk in the fields. These are the people who should be the wardens of our natural heritage, whose first interest should be to conserve our natural resources for themselves and posterity but too often, from lack of understanding, they do the opposite. The object of this Club is to bring to such people a realization of their responsibility to protect what they enjoy." A very worth while effort.

Along with many of my fellow outdoor writers, I have deplored the so-called "free riders." This is a term we apply to the big commercial interests who benefit the most in a financial manner from the big business of hunting and fishing, and put back little or nothing from their huge profits to promote conservation. There are exceptions, and the Carling Brewery is one of the most notable among these.

A membership in the Club costs only $2. per year, and includes a fluorescent red cap, an embroidered crest to sew on his jacket, four 4-color wildlife reprints, suitable for framing, five issues of the Carling Conservation Digest Supplement, plus an annual Digest. Many free movies are also available for club showing. For your membership application write to The Carling Conservation Club, P. O. Box 1817, Cleveland 6, Ohio. Additional information will also be sent to you.

NOT FOR SALE

Quite often I am asked, "How much will you charge to plug my product in your column?" The answer is quite simple. The newspapers in which this column appears have advertising space available. SPACE IN THIS COLUMN IS NOT FOR SALE.

When a product or service etc. is mentioned it is because in my belief it has real merit, and a benefit to you, other wise it does not get in here. Many lures, gadgets, etc. sure sent to me for testing. All get a fair trial, and my findings are reported to the maker, truthfully. Some of them don't like it, however, if they are found lacking in merit, they are never mentioned in this column.

HAVE YOU A CHRISTMAS DOG?

Many youngsters have a new puppy as a Christmas gift, and in many of the homes it may also be a new experience to care for a new canine member of the family. Civilization is hard on dogs, it imposes restrictions and complications that are often beyond the grasp of their simpler reasoning powers. So they depend on man for guidance.

Taking care of a dog requires neither a great amount of knowledge nor a great amount of work. Proper training methods make the task much easier. Well mannered dogs are a pleasure to you and your friends. Untrained dogs are a nuisance and a problem. They can, and often do, get the owners in a lot of trouble, and expense. For the guidance of dog owners, may I draw attention to a series of five small folders. They are well illustrated and in simple language that even a child can understand. The titles are:

- The Care And Training of Puppies
- Your Dog's Obedience Training
- Correcting Your Dog's Bad Habits
- Your Dog's Care and Breeding
- Keeping Your Dog Healthy

Any of the above may be obtained through your veterinarian (free) or write to Pard Dept., Swift & Company, Chicago 9, Ill. Select as many titles as you wish, and send no money or stamps. They are free.

A STRAW IN THE WIND

"Pete" McGillen, Toronto Telegram writes: "Quebec Federation of Anglers and Hunters have petitioned the Quebec Legislature to ban the use of minnows as bait in Laurentian Lakes. Far too many fine speckled trout waters have been ruined by anglers dumping their excess minnows into the water. Many undesirable species have been introduced and ruined by this practice. Dumping of excess minnows in Massachusetts waters should be stopped."

THIN ICE

It doesn't take a person with second sight to know that every year the records will number more victims of thin ice. Rushing the skating, or ice fishing season often results in a very cold bath at least. Often, far too often, death also claims a victim. Although we have had very little freezing weather at this writing, I know two men who already have had an ice cold bath. Both were very fortunate in having friends to rescue them.

$180 SHOT

Word comes from Pennsylvania that Jonah Byers borrowed his son's gun to go hunting. He fired at a coon, and was greatly amazed to find the ground around the dead coon strewn with $20 bills. It seems the younger Byers had hidden $180 in $20 bills in the gun barrel for safe keeping. I have known guns to explode with a wad like that in them. It could have been worse.

- Farmers recently celebrated the 50th anniversary as a nation. It was formerly a part of what country? (a) Mexico; (b) Colombia; (c) Uruguay.
